The Hubbard Family History and Genealogy is a compilation of information previously published in the Hubbard Family Genealogical News Letter (HFGNL). It consists of information about the many "tribes and clans" of Hubbards and collateral names world wide.

This book is the first general publication dealing with Hubbards since Edward Warren Day's book, "The 1000 Years of Hubbards", published in 1895. Library of Congress Number CS71.H875. Like Day's book, it is a compilation of information found in National, State and County records, old out-of-print books, unpublished family traces and manuscripts, family bibles, newspapers, wills, letters from readers and many other sources.

No attempt has been made to evaluate the information or to tie families together. My purpose has been to consolidate all this mass of Hubbard data into one package for the researcher or historian to use. Verification of information or connection into a family trace is the researcher's task. I have presented the clues, as far as they go. I have arranged the information under headings, i.e., Early English Hubbards, Early American Hubbards, Distinguished Hubbards, otherwise Hubbards (the badnicks), a Grab Bag of miscellaneous information, Letters From Readers, Family Histories, Queries and other sub-headings and the Index containing over 9000 names.

Similar sounding names such as Huber, Hobert, Hubbert, Hubard and many others are included as I find many are either variations of spelling of Hubbard or in some way related.

The idea of we Hubbards and our descendants going over the same old files, records and other sources in trying to trace our ancestors appalls me. The purpose of this book is to prevent this, thus freeing us and future generations from this task in order that we can use our time in searching out new information that can be added to this history, and, in time hopefully, we will have an almost completely documented history of Hubbards.

Hopefully we will be able to add future volumes to this book that will serve as a repository for information as we gather it from the far corners of the earth. Perhaps by this means we can pass on to our posterity a priceless history of our doings in this and past ages.

Few people give their future generations much thought. For example, our own ancestors. More than once during my tracing of my own line, I have been struck by their complete disregard of we their descendants who are left with the almost hopeless task of trying to find out who and what they were. Even a page or a bible record would unravel a mystery that we may spend a lifetime and a substantial amount of money trying to find, sometimes ending in bitter failure.

Think of our descendants traveling to the planets, and in time to the stars. A microfilm copy of a Hubbard history will be a priceless treasure, a tie to their mother earth that they or their descendants may never see again.

Issue 1

A FLIGHT OF IMAGINATION

Some place the Hubbard name and its various spellings had to originate. Where is the question. Many years ago I began to closely observe Hubbards as I met them. As I was raised in the south I made note they usually had brown or black hair, brown eyes, heavy dark eyebrows, fair complexions, rather high cheekbones, strong well-formed jaws and chin. Most were average to slightly above average height. All were well-muscled and had rather small or medium frame or bone structure. At first I attributed this general characteristic to likely Indian ancestry as many of our early American pioneers married into Indian families or to those of mixed blood. My own father's appearance really bugged me as he had all the above described features, but, of all things, red eyebrows and beard that contrasted violently with his very black hair.

As my travels widened I found Hubbards with all the above features but with blue eyes and blond or sandy hair. Regardless, one could detect a sort of family resemblance among them indicating a common ancestry or community. England has long been regarded as our point of origin but then I kept wondering where we might have been prior to England.

Hubba, the Danish sea raider, and his men have long been suspects as being the source of all the Hubba sounding names and the father, or fathers, of our English ancestry. From whence came Hubba the Dane?

Then I stumbled upon information about some very ancient Asian ruins called TEL ABU HUBBA. Actually these ruins are now little more than mounds of earth. They cover some two square miles and are built in Babylonian style with all buildings built on angles to the cardinal points. No doubt Abu Hubba flourished many centuries before Christ.

I can see these ancient people of Tel Abu Hubba living in their mud and stone houses in some fertile valley in Arabia, perhaps ruled by a King Hubba or a group of elders, all using the name Hubba as that was customary in those times, usually followed by some other name like Hubba the Farmer or Hubba the Trader and of course Hubba the Raider.

Situated between Europe and Asia, it is not hard to imagine them making long treks into India and China with their pack mules and horses and returning laden with spices, tea, perfumes and crafts of all kinds. After much talk, perhaps a lot of drinking and merry making, I can see trains heading towards Europe to trade or raid goods from the good Greeks, Romans and the civilized areas of Europe proper. Most likely, they were well-mounted as Arabia has long been famous for its horses, and I suspect they were well-armed and trained in the arts of war.

I can see them camping on high hills that were easily defendable against any unfriendly natives or perhaps others of their kind. Dogs tied at intervals around their camp, to sound the alarm and men stationed perhaps a mile or so around the encampment augmenting the guard dogs.

At the crack of dawn, weather permitting, scouts and dogs were sent ahead of the caravan to sight danger. A rear guard followed. No doubt both flanks were well covered.

I suspect they traveled through mountains passes at night and camped on a defensible position to rest men and animals the following day. Prior to entering a city or fortified area, I expect they met with informers who gave them the low-down on the situation in the city, such as the political climate, defenses, and who had what and how much. I have a feeling they presented an appearance, and displayed just enough armed strength to cause caution and respect on the part of any ambitious and greedy city father or fathers.

In the event they suspected danger or the city was too strongly defended for comfort, no doubt they remained outside the walls to do their trading. I wouldn't want to vouch for the honesty of these good Hubbas, in fact, I suspect they were not adverse to making a fast buck now and then. Most likely, some enticed comely maidens to travel with them. I would not be surprised in the least, if they left some little Hubba's here and there.

Now supposing the people of Tel Abu Hubba are our ancient ancestors. Again suppose we could prove it. I am not unaware of genetic laws. Our kinship and genetic patterns would have long since dissolved. Only a very few slight traces of this ancestry would remain. But one thing we can't deny. We do have very remote ancestors who have existed since the human race began.

Back to more factual things. The name Hubba, occasionally spelled Jubba, still exists in these regions. Further variations of this name exist all over Europe. During my travels through Austria, France, Switzerland and Germany I was struck by the number of Hubers living in these areas.

I strongly suspect these people are the descendants of wandering or invading tribes from Asia. It is not hard to imagine some of them may have reached Daneland. If they were invaders and raiders I certainly expect they are the ancestors of Hubba the Dane, generally considered to be the origin of the name Hubbard and its many related spellings.

A LITTLE MORE FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Most English genealogists and historians agree that the name Hubbard originated in England. Strong evidence points to the Viking sea raider Hubba from Norway. His father was Ragnar Lodbrog, also a Viking leader.

History records that Hubba and his brother Hingua raided the eastern coast of England about 866 A. D. They also brought terror and consternation to areas of the French coast and Paris. They didn't overlook countries on the Mediterranean coast such as Spain and Portugal. They made a few visits to Ireland and Scotland.

Hubba and his sea raiders made a very strong impression on the English, strong enough in fact that he became a part of English history and is well documented. Though he met his end eventually at the hands of a Saxon leader named Odun or Oddune I strongly suspect Hubba had sufficient time to become acquainted with and possibly marry some plump and attractive English maiden or maidens and in due time some little Hubbas came along. History is rather blank on this point, however, one can apply logic to such situations as might beset a lonely but lusty, healthy and well to do Viking sea raider.

A ruin in Pembrokeshire, near Milford Haven, is known as "Hubba Stone Priory" later to be called Hubba Stone, sometimes pronounced Hubberston or Hubbaston.

Hubba and his sea raiders had a fondness for camping on, or fortifying hills. The enemy is always at a disadvantage when attacking uphill so several hills in England became known as Hubba's Hill; probably pronounced locally as "Hubbill". This may be the origin of the name "Hubbell".

Hubba the Dane did get around. Further he made a lasting impression on the good English folks due to his depredations and ambitious projects of plunder and conquest. Though he met his end eventually due to the courage and persistence of the Saxon armies, many of his followers settled down in England and may have adopted his name or possibly named their sons after their fallen leader. Hubba's grave is on the John Redd farm in England.

One thing we can say, England has had a lot of Hubba sounding names for many hundreds of years.

At this point it is well to note various spellings of the name Hubba and Hubbard as noted in ancient English and early American records. In those days the clergy,official clerks and other record keepers were prone to spell names as they sounded. Also national backgrounds and languages had their influence on spelling of names. Thus we find Hubba spelled Hobart, Huber, Hubbert, Huberd, Hubert, Hoebard, Haburd, Hurbird, Hubbirt, Habbard, Hubbart, Hubbard, and many other variations.

SOME OTHER THINGS ABOUT NAMES

Even before Christ names were being passed down from generation to generation. Sometimes they were known as the "House of David", Samuel or Sneed. All descendants of that house had the same name. Next we find occupational names such as Smith, Builder, Hunter, Merchant, Farmer or Stonemason, depending on the work a person did. As a rule the descendants follow the same line of work for generations. Here we have the start of family names.

Another old custom was to name children for famous or outstanding persons in the community or family. In some cases relatives bestowed favors upon families if they would name children after them. In many cases parents named children after admired relations in hopes they would be guided by that person's admirable traits.

The bible became a source of given names. The number of Marys, Saras, Johns, Pauls, Esters, and Rebeccas and departures from these names is beyond count. The Hubbards and descendants were especially strong in biblical names; partly, I suspect, due to strong religious ties with various churches and beliefs.

Hubbards also appear to pass given names down through the generations. If you have an ancestor named John the odds are perhaps 90 to 1 that you will find other Johns in your lineage. In my own family a strong tradition exists to name the first-born male child after his mother's maiden name. I am Leslie Sturdivan Hubbard; my mother was a Sturdivan. My son is Roger Murphy Hubbard; his mother is a Murphy. In many cases all the sons had the mother's maiden name for a middle name. The first-born girl almost always had the given names of the two grandmothers. My daughter Mary Ella is named after her mother's mother Mary and Ella after my mother. This custom is not exclusively a Hubbard tradition. It is a very helpful clue when tracing your ancestors. So if you have a Sara Jane or a John Brown Hubbard you have pretty strong evidence about the two grandmother's given names, or the mother's maiden name Brown.

Hubbards resided at a very early time in the English counties of Somerset, Rutland, Essex, Derby, Surrey, Durham, Leicester, Middlesex, Suffolk, Norfolk, Kent and London. At a later time a few Hubbard were in Cork County, Ireland.

The further back you go in a family history the more you find persons of some renown. Many were titled, or held high positions, or were outstanding in some way. Those of lesser fame are hard to trace. In most cases they are untraceable. Thus it is not by accident or intent that I present persons high in the social order or prominent in other ways. It is simply because they were important enough to be recorded in the pages of history.

(Sounds like I want him for a relation). He and Sir Peter Haymon,Shelden, Coriton, Lang and Strode were imprisoned until 1631. On 29 June 1632 he overturned his coach and was killed (sounds like drunk driving). On 18 Jan 1646 parliament voted 5000 pounds to erect a monument for his work in that body. His father was Sir Miles Hobart/Hubbard and his mother's name was Elizabeth.

SOME VIRGINIA AND KENTUCKY HUBBARDS

41. During the 16 and early 17 hundreds, Virginia was the main gateway into southern United States. The New England area, especially Boston, was the main entry point for the north. For this reason I will keep the two areas separate while dealing with our early ancestors.

65. Many of these Hubbards or their desc. migrated to the south or midwest. If you are a very old U. S. family residing in these areas mostly like you are descended from one of the early Virginia settlers. Another thing worth noting, these were persons of some importance and standing prior to leaving England. Likely most were rewarded for some service to the British nobility or government.

66. It is interesting to note these names appear in the Clay County, Ky, census records. Most likely all are desc. of the original land grantees of Virginia.

"Man's Judgment is no better than his information". Whose quote is this?

Where have we been? Where are we now? Where are we going? How will we get there?

I predict a World Government, World Constitution, a Bill of Human Rights, a human standard of life and a world-wide monetary system within less than 25 years from 1972.

I predict Russia will never go to war with the United States but that they will continue the Karl Marx and Lenin philosophy of brush wars all over the world in order to "bleed the capitalistic nations white".

..........*

Pass the world along to other Hubbards and descendants that we now have a Hubbard Family History & Genealogy.

I predict the statesman and politician will learn very soon to listen to the voice of the people. Polls on issues will become a way of life.

..........*

These days we hear talk of dry freezing of human bodies to be revived in some future time. The people of the future certainly wouldn't welcome us, especially in the light of our present conduct.

Early American Hubbards

Some of you may wonder at the way I handle the north and south family lines. It is quite simple.

The New England pioneers brought their schools, churches, laws and customs along, almost from their first landing or very shortly after. Most important of all they did not rush madly into the interior. We must consider they were hemmed in by the French to the West and North, the German and Duch of Pennsylvania to the south and West.

Almost all ch. received some education from the start. Few could not read or write. As a result they left substantial traces of their beings. Many were well-educated and quite a few began keeping family records. Most churches kept records of births, marriages, deaths and other family data much the same as in England. The family bible was generally a must and was passed down from generation to generation. The courts and magistrates were also excellent record keepers.

During the 1800's several very comprehensive family histories were compiled and some were published and recorded with the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., and are still available.

As a result I can follow north-east families and present fairly substantial data on them down to the present. The biggest problem is connecting them to Hubbards and desc. presently living.

This does not hold true with our southern cousins from Virginia south. Though like north-easterners they brought their culture along, and established it well in the coastal cities, the lure of rich new lands to the west caused them to leap-frog ahead of cultural things.

Many of the early families trekked into the wilderness, where land and game was plentiful letting churches and laws catch up with them.

Almost all children had a gap of ten to fifty years (1790 - 1840) before their neighborhood school arrived. Few ever saw a book or newspaper. A very young child might be 16 or 18 before a rudimentary school arrived. By this time, he, or she, was much too valuable to work on the farm, or for hunting, to be wasted on such pursuits as education. Many did not even know their birth date or age.

In the absence of churches few, if any, records were kept of births, marriages or deaths. Children got born, grew up, married, in some fashion or other and died and were buried without even so much as a grave marker.

To trace these early pioneers is a task indeed. Until recently little interest was taken in the matter. Very rarely do you stumble on to a family history worthy of the name in these regions.

Now the best we can do is peruse old census records, land grants, tax records, and very incomplete military records. We find a few counties where excellent records were kept from the late 1700's on, but they are rare.

Thus the information I present of the southern Hubbards, and their descendants, is indeed fragmented. Thus you will find I can seldom present a well-documented family. At best about three generations. Here we have to depend on Vital Statistics such as we can find on them, family histories and myths.

Otherwise Hubbards

This section will be devoted to tall tales, myths, yarns, lies,hearsay and humorous events about the family. Sometimes these things are very useful in connecting families together.

173. I have heard the following tale from several north - east and northern Hubbards.

During the early 1600's there was a Hubbard (FNI) known as the Earl of Skye, an island off the coast of Scotland. It would appear this Hubbard had an overdose of genes from Hubba the Viking, sea raider, in that he was very fond of wine, women and song. He devoted himself to this pursuit so nobly and vigorously that he became a source of embarrassment to good King James I, or possibly Charles I of England. At last the long suffering King could no longer tolerate the good Earl's doings so he gently, but firmly, persuaded him to hither and yon to the Isle of Skye and to remain there--at least until his manners improved. Now the good Earl, being completely dedicated to a life of sin, frolic and fun, did with great gusto continue in his ways until the King began to think in terms of the Earl's head on a platter as a lesson to other wayward royalty. But it appears the Earl of Skye was a winsome, likable chap and had many friends and playmates of a similar ilk; so the King decided that perhaps a large land grant in the New World might just be the answer to the problem.

The Earl of Skye being a practical chap who treasured his head intact on his body, and having visions of a whole new continent to fun and frolic in, decided this was the offer of a lifetime, especially in view of the alternative.

The story goes that this land grant was in New Hampsire, then a part of Canada. Grapes grew well in this region, as well as corn, so joy juice was not a problem. Nothing is known about how the Earl solved the problem of women and song. Evidently he did however, as he soon persuaded two younger brothers to talk the king out of some more land grants which they did and in they in time joined their brother.

I have never heard the full name of the mythical Earl of Skye nor do I have any data on him or his brothers. If you have heard this tale, or know any details, please write. Also, I would definitely like to establish a relationship as he sounds like my kind of ancestor.

The space ship of the future will be built in the astroid belt of materials therefrom. Smelters and foundries will be built and astroid miners will furnish the ore.

Space ships traveling beyond our solar system will have a built-in ecology that will furnish food, water and air. Here is the real need for suspended animation.

I hope before we travel to other planets in our universe that we will have matured. I would be horrified for other races in the universe to see us as we are now.

174. Another tall tale that has been around for a long while that may have just a grain or so of truth is one I have heard from several sources. More often than not the principal character was my great-grandfather, James Holland Hubbard. (para 116).

The following event is supposed to have taken place in Barbourville, the county seat of Knox Co., Ky, though it could easily have happened in any other county of Kentucky or even Tennessee. It appears that the star of our story took a dislike to some individual and chased this person around the county courthouse until he caught him and then proceeded to shoot him dead. The County Sheriff, or Marshall, being civic-minded and possibly a bit outraged at such goings on at the county courthouse proceeeced to put this Hubbard in jail. As the courts had little to do in those days, Hubbard was quickly tried and sentenced to be hung. Poor Hubbard meditated upon this turn of events and came to the conclusion that the whole thing was degrading, not in keeping with his philosophy, would deprive his wife and children of a father and husband, and might even hurt a bit.

After due consideration, Hubbard sent word to kinfolks, residing in the hills around the county seat, that his precarious state of health demanded a climate likely to be found further west, or at least across the Mississippi River. He also made mention of a new batch of corn squeezings he had stored in a certain area. Now the Hubbards and relations, after a very short period of deliberation and some quarts or gallons of joy juice, proceeded to the county jail, took it apart and gave its happy inmate a horse, saddle and rifle. Hubbard "lit a shuck" out of town in a westward direction.

The County Sheriff, or Marshall, much dismayed at this turn of events made inquiries at the local blacksmith shop, hardware store, and a couple of other places not recorded, in an attempt to locate the missing Hubbard. He became so busy doing these things, that he failed to note Hubbard's wife, children, cows, mules and hunting dogs, along with several other Hubbards, driving their covered wagons westward. In due time they came to the ferry that would take them across the river at Memphis, Tenn. Here they were met by our adventurer who told them a fabulous land in the Boston Mountains of Arkansas where corn grew well and many good springs of water suitable for making whiskey could be found. Hubbard was reluctant to take the ferry, possibly thinking it was time for his annual bath or that lawmen might be lurking around the ferry. So he proceeded to swim the river coming to shore some seven miles downstream. He soon joined the wagons a few miles across the river and traveled happily to Benton Co., Ark.

There is a place called "Stillhouse Springs", just north of a little town known as Healing Springs, Ark., and about one mile west of the Osage River, where this Hubbard allegedly set up his still. I have seen the foundations of this structure. The old-timers of this area always referred to a James Hubbard as the operator. I think this Hubbard deserves to be one of my ancestors.

COL. JAMES HUBBARD OR HUBBART

Mrs. Ouida Williamson of Graham, Texas, provided the following facts about him. I am publishing it as a starter. She has a great deal more that will appear in following issues.

In time we hope to establish positive proof abt his parents who were allegedly killed by the Shawnees during the 1700's; also facts abt his w and his ch.

Many of the desc of Col. James Hubbard are believed to have settled in Benton Co., Ark.

If and when we venture out into other solar systems, I hope our first encounter will be with beings far superior to us. Perhaps they could civilize us before we get too far into the universe.

William Hubbard who lives near the mouth of Bledsoe's Creek is a cousin of Col. Hubbard. (Proof: from Draper Manuscripts).

The following is from Draper Manuscripts written by Daniel R. Kennedy in 1880 at Philadelphia. (Rhea Co.) His ch. were: Ben (proof: "His son Ben got his release from prison in New Orleans".). Matthew (Proof: "He lived with son Matthew within a half mile of my father, after he was 78"). Unnamed son - (Proof: "Old Col. Hubbard remained at his son's in Rhea until abt the year 1823 when he went to visit his son (or sons) in Warren Co.").

From the above we know he might have had a son or ch. in Warren Co., Tenn in the census of 1820.

The following were found in the 1820 census of Warren Co., Tenn - James, males over 45, 0 2 under 10, 1 10-16, 1 18-26 - Females - 2 under 10 2 10-16, 1 26-45. Robert Hubbard Sr., over 45. Males - 1 under 10, 1 10-16, 1 16-18, 1 18-26. Females 1 16-26, 1 over 45. Robert Hubbard Jr., age 18-26, Females - 3 under 10, 1 16-26.

Mrs. Williamson says she cannot prove that the following is about Col. James Hubbert's s Benjamin but she thinks there is a possibility.

On 21 Jan 1817 a Benjamin Hubbard signed a petition to Congress by settlers on public lands about the exclusion of Yazoo Land claimants. (See Territorial Papers of the U. S. by Carter - Vol IV, p 55, South-West Territory: "James Hubbard..an officer in the Franklin Militia, an intimate associate of Sevier, prominent in defending the East Tenn. settlements against attacks from neighboring Indian Nations...James Hubbard connected with the Yazoo Land Grants.")

From 1820 Census, Limestone Co., Ala - Benjamin Hubbard, 1 male under 21, 1 male over 21; 3 females under 21, 1 female over 21 and 8 slaves.

1827-28 Tuscaloosa Co., Ala. Court Records, Deed Book G, B. Hubbert to Calvert and Hill. From 1830 Census, Tuscaloosa Co., Ala. p 45: Benjamin Hubbard, 1 male under 5, 1 male 5-10, 1 male 10-15, 1 male 40-50; 1 female under 5, 1 female 5-10, 2 females 15-20, 1 female 30-40.

1851, Jan 27, Saline Co., Ark. Benjamin Hubbard made pension application.

1855, May 5, Saline Co., Ark; Rebecca Hubbert, 63 years old, widow of Benjamin Hubbert, stated he was 1st Lt. under Capt. Perry. She m. him in Sevier Co., Tenn, 19 Jan 1809, by Allen Bryant, J.P., and her name before marriage was Rebecca Calvert. Her husband d in Saline Co., Ark, 2 Nov 1854.

COMPILERS NOTE: Two George Hubbards in Connecticut at the same time and places makes it necessary for all desc. of these two lines to be especially careful in their tracing of these families. Another caution: I suspect these two Hubbards were related back in England and may have named their ch after their ggp and gp's as well as aunts, uncles, brothers, and sisters. Thus assuming they were first or second cousins we will certainly find both will have Mary's, Johns, Josephs and Elizabeths. Get out those family histories, charts or notes and check them.

Mrs. Edith Redman, Highland Park, Ill., sends info on this and we use a portion from Genealogy & Family History of the State of Conn. p 1822: George Hubbard, b Eng. 1601, settled before 1639 in Hartford. Another George Hubbard who settled in Wethersfield, Conn. was doubtless a relative but not his f. William Hubbard and Thomas Hubbard, also of Hartford among the early settlers, seem also to be closely related. George Hubbard came with the first settlers overland from the Massachusetts Bay Colony. In 1640 he married Elizabeth, dau of Richard and Elizabeth Watts. He d March 16, 1684.

Much more on these families. **********

Grab Bag

I have a mountain of bits and pieces of info collected over the years, or contributed by correspondents, that does not fit in any special category. This will be handled as a "grab bag". Take what you want and leave the rest. I suggest you read this section with care as the bit of info you have been looking for may just appear here.

Fragmented bits of info; may make some of us very happy. Such things as marriages, births, deaths, tax records, wills, military records, land grants, pension records, church records, newspaper clippings, old deeds, family bible records, extracts, from books of all sorts, state and county histories pertinent to the Hubbards will be most welcome.

This is from King's Mountain Men by White, p 189. James Hubbard was a private under Savier and a captain in the Boyd's Creek Battle. In 1782 he and Jonathan Tipton were made Majors and marched with Savier against a band of Cherokees and Creeks under Tassels. At Citico, John Watts and Hanging Maw held a peace talk but the truce was disturbed by Hubbard. While he and a companion were shooting at a mark Hubbard hit an Indian, intentionally as it was charged. The companion of the Indian fled to his tribe and another uprising resulted. All of Hubbard's family except himself were killed by Shawnee and he became a sworn enemy of all Indians and was said to have slain more than any other man in his time.

* TO HUBBARD DESCENDANTS*

I know that you of the future, perhaps yet unborn, will be amused to know that we of this age, that I suspect you will refer to as the beginning of the technological age, are actually living with philosophies of our stone age ancestors.

We actually live under governments owned and controlled by industrialists. I call this the "Industrial Political Complex". In former times this was referred to as the "power (s) behind the throne." I know you wonder how the human race of this age was so stupid as to allow this to exist, especially when we are smart enough to have started the space age, made a few trips to our moon, that now I suspect is a tourist attraction for you, like Paris or Rome is to us of this age.

And would you believe we have something that is called an energy shortage. I know you can't comprehend such a thing as a shortage of energy now that you have harnessed cosmic energy, solar energy, the wind and tides and all the other energy sources we are just beginning to talk about. The thing I know you won't believe that we of this age depend almost entirely on fossil fuels for energy and that we are about at the end of our resources of this precious commodity. I also know you often curse us for having wasted the earth's fossil fuels thus depriving you of it for use in chemicals, plastics and other things.

I know you won't believe the way we have polluted our earth by burning fossil fuels and dumping our garbage in our rivers and oceans. I realize that you in your wisdom have long ago cleaned up our mess and that you have clean air, streams and oceans. Now that you have restored the earth's ecological balance, both animal and plant life, you no doubt shudder at how we almost destroyed our beautiful resources and of course ourselves.

Oh yes, we now live in an age of shortages of all kinds, we are especially short of honest, trustworthy, morally-adjusted politicans, and statesmen. You can't imagine the suffering they have caused the people of this and past ages by their manipulation of our economy and affairs of state. We still have wars, famine and a lot of disease that you wouldn't tolerate.

I am really ashamed to talk about your ancestors like this. I am however, a fairly truthful man most of the time that is. The plain facts are, your ancestors were pretty stupid in most ways.

I think women's liberation will certainly come about just as soon as we establish an economic system that will allow her and her children to live independent of a male to support her and hers. Marriage will become a thing of the past, children will have their mothers' name and men will be free.

I suspect children will be raised scientifically in the near future. Special child centers with trained parents will be in charge. It couldn't produce anything worse than at present.

Religion and a belief in a life after death will soon no longer be a matter of faith but a positive fact. We will soon spend our physical life in preparation for our spiritual life which is the way it should be now.

Distinguished Hubbards

217. The 1000 Years of Hubbards, page 44, lists the Right Hon. Gellibrand Hubbard, oldest son of John and Marianna Morgan Hubbard, of Stratford Grove, Essex, England; b 21 Mar 1805, d 28 Aug 1889 at Addington Manor. He was a well-known Russian merchant as was his father. He was educated at Bordeaux, France. He served in the House of Commons from 1859 to 1868 and was recognized as a rare authority on finance. Also he was one of the directors of the Bank of England for many years and then became Governor-General of the Bank of England. From 1874 to 1887 he represented the City of London in parliament. He built and endowed St. Albans Church of Halborn. On 22 July 1887 he was raised to the peerage and made Lord Addington of Addington Manor, Surrey, England. The Baron married the Hon. Maria Margaret Napier (b 18 Mar 1817) 19 May 1837. She was the eldest dau of William John, the 8th Lord Napier, and Eliza Cochrane Johnstone. Ch were: Jon. Alice Eliza, b 2 Dec 1841; Sir Egerton, b 29 Dec 1842; Hon. Francis Edward, b 11 Feb 1844, d 25 Dec 1871; Hon. Lucy-Marian, b 19 May 1845; Hon. Cecil John, b 6 Sept 1846; Hon. Arthur Gellibrand, b 6 Feb 1848; Hon Rose-Ellen, b 13 Jan 1851; Hon. Clemency, b 26 Oct 1856.

Otherwise Hubbards

218. My Great-uncle Gillis Hubbard was also a banker of sorts. According to hearsay from old-timers around Benton Co., Arkansas, Uncle Gillis made a fine living robbing banks in southern Missouri and north-west Oklahoma.

I vaguely recall him because he always wore a business suit even on weekdays and he had caramel candies wrapped in paper. He would make us kids guess which pocket the candy was in. It did not take long for us to find out he had candy in each pocket.

Uncle Gillis was a small wiry man with very dark eyes and long, coal-black hair. He could move like greased lighting and walked like a cat. He always arrived at our farm after dark and I suspect left long before sunup. He always left a very tired, sweat-stained horse in our pasture. One of dad's horses would be missing never to be seen again.

When I grew older I ofttimes heard the old-timers joking about one of Uncle Gillis' little quirks. According to these yarns he would lead a sheriff's posse into the Boston mountains of southern Missouri and northern Arkansas. He would get on top of a ridge and yell at the sheriff and his men. He might only be three miles away as the crow would fly but a day's ride across very rough terrain. When the sheriff made the ridge a day later he would hear "Here I am sheriff" and wouldn't you know there was Uncle Gillis on top of another ridge about three miles away.

It was said Uncle Gillis offtimes played Robin Hood among the destitute settlers of the Boston mountains by "loaning" the banks money to needy persons along the way. It is also said that no one ever heard of Uncle Gillis when questioned by the sheriff or his men.

We will soon establish a human standard from the cradle to the coffin whether we like it or not. We can no longer take chances on people being hungry, cold and poorly housed. It's much too dangerous.

How much of this is true I do not know. However, my ggf had a son Gillis b ca 1863 in Knox Co., Ky.

Please forgive me Great-uncle Gillis, wherever you are now, if what I have said about you is not true. Also thanks for the caramel candy. I still like it.

219. Mrs. Amber L. Bodine, 323 Niel Dr., Yuba City, Ca 95991, provided the following:

Bela Hubbard, b 23 Apr 1814, Hamilton, N.Y., m 2 Nov 1848 Sarah E. Baughman, d 13 June 1898, Detroit, Wayne Co., Mich. Sarah, b 15 July 1831, d 2 Mar 1871, Detroit, Wayne Co., Mich, Ch: Henry Guernsey, b 6 May 1850, Detroit, Mich, m Dec 1877 Kate Lazier; Collins, b 8 Feb 1852, Detroit, m-1 Ida Haigh, m-2 Anna G. Bela's father was Thomas Hill Hubbard, a Rev. War Vet. His mor was Phebe Hubbard. Bela d at his home, 260 Vinewood Ave., Detroit. It is believed Phebe (Hubbard) Hubbard was a member of the DAR. Bela's wife, Sarah's f was the Rev. John A. Baughman. Her mor was Sarah Harvey.

220. Mrs. Margaret Tomarkin, 125 Adelaide St., North Chatham, Ontario, Canada, advises she is a desc of Hubbards both maternal and paternal. Her maternal line descends from George (b 1601) and Elizabeth Watts (b 1616) of Conn. and William (b 1594) and Judith Knapp (b ca 1600), all emigrants from England to Conn. Thus she is twice blessed with Hubbard genes. (see para 38, issue 1).

221. Mrs. Dorothy Hill, 2112 Via Puerta #N Laguna Hills, Ca 92653, provided the following family history:

Hubbard, m-2 28 Apr 1877, Clare Abigail Morse, widow of Wm. Goding, s of Abigail and Luther - above; Sophronia, b 17 Mar 1813, d 14 Mar 1874.

* Some doubt exists if the Sarah above is the same as shown as married by William Goding as recorded in town records of Shapleigh, Me, Vol. 1, page 311. Richard Hubbard's father was Philip, his mor Hanna S. Plummer. This line likely related to the Philip Hubbard shown in para 146 and 151. Clarification is needed on this.

222. Mrs. Dean H. Fox of Golden, Colorado 80401, provides the following family history and hopes some of our readers will provide names of Ephraim Hubbard's F & M and of course any other info will be welcome.

In Issue #2 we introduced George and Elizabeth Watts Hubbard who settled in Weathersfield, Conn, ca 1639. Again as a caution to those of you who are desc of George and Mary Bishop Hubbard (see para 38 Issue #1) check very closely as desc. of these two George Hubbards are badly mixed up.

226. Mrs. Edith Redman, 1110 Ridgewood, Highland Park, Ill 60035 provided the following info from sources as indicated:

Taylor-Snow Genealogy by C. T. Bass & F. N. Bass -1935: George Hubbard, b 1601 Eng, d 1684 Middletown, m 1640 Elizabeth Watts who d 1702 Middletown, Conn. (She was b 1616). She was dau of Capt. Richard Watts of Hartford who was successively Ensign, Lt., and Capt. of the Hartford Trainband (see Hartford Co., Conn. by Trumbull, p 266).

George's name first appears in Hartford in 1639 wherehe m and where his first ch. were b. In 1650 he moved to Middletown with a commission from the government as Indian Agent. At his death he was owner of 1000 acres of land. Living adjacent to the church he was made keeper and was allowed 40 shillings for sweeping the meeting house and keeping the hour glass. This included the services of his s Joseph who beat the drum to assemble the congregation and also gave warning to the Indians.

Genealogical & Personal Memoirs of W. R. Cutler & William F. Adams - 1916:

George Hubbard, b 1601 in Eng. In 1639 came to Hartford with first settlers overland from Mass. Bay Colony. In 1650 about 15 families moved to Middletown Conn. He became a Freeman in 1654. He and two others gave the land for the second meeting house. He d 18 Mar 1684.

Joseph Hubbard was b 10 Dec 1643 in Hartford. He d 29 Dec 1670. He m Mary Porter who was b in Middletown in 1650 and d there 10 June 1707.

John was b 30 July 1678 in Middletown, d 2 Jan 1762/7 in Middletown. He m Mary Phillips 10 Feb 1702/3 who d 21 Oct 1736.

Lt. John was b 13 Aug 1705 and d 24 Mar 1775.

From Edward Day's Hubbard History:

Lt. John Hubbard, b 13 Aug 1705, was m 21 Apr 1730 in Middletown to Lois Clark, b 21 Feb 1704/5 in Haddam, Conn. Their dau Parthena who was b 17 Mar 1738/9 in Middletown, Conn. was m to Benjamin Fuller Jr. on 19 May 1757. She d 1815 at Hartwick, Otsego Co., N.Y.

Mary Porter, w of Joseph Hubbard, b 10 Dec 1643, is wrongly listed in these references as Mary Porter, sister of Robert and David. Mary Porter was the dau of Thomas and Ann Scott. She m Robert Porter 1644 on the same day her mor m Thomas Ford. Mary Porter was the dau of Robert and Mary Scott Porter.

p 126-7: The first mention of the Hubbard family in America is when the records of Hartford mention George Hubbard, an emigrant from England, who became one of the early settlers of the Connecticut city where his name appears on records in 1639. This George Hubbard was one of those who came overland from the vicinity of Boston to locate the towns of Hartford, Windsor and Wethersfield. He moved in 1650-51 to Mattabessett which a little later became Middletown.

Genealogy and Family History of the State of Connecticut: p 1622: George Hubbard b Eng. 1601, settled before 1639 in Hartford. Another George Hubbard who settled in Wethersfield, Conn was doubtless a relative but not his father. William Hubbard and Thomas Hubbard, also of Hartford among the early settlers, seem also to be closely related. George Hubbard came with the first settlers overland from the Massachusetts Bay Colony. He was given 6 acres of land "by courtesy of the town, with privilege of wood and keeping cows on the common" and resided on a lot adjacent to land of James Ensign and George Graves on a road that ran parallel to the Connecticut River from the south meadow to George Steel's place. In 1640 he m Elizabeth, dau of Richard and Elizabeth Watts and was then assigned a home lot and land on the east side of the Connecticut River. He moved in March 1650-51 with about 15 other settlers and their families to Mattabeseck, later called Middletown. He was licensed as an Indian agent and trader as early as 1650; in 1654 he was admitted a freeman. He owned much land on both sides of the river, living on what is now Main St. His s Joseph used to beat the drum to call the people to meeting or to warn them against hostile Indians. His will is dated May 22, 1681 and it states his age as 80 years. His inventory is dated May 13, 1685 and it states that he d March 16, 1684. His widow d in 1702. One record says that "he was highly respected and of marked integrity and fairness."

p 2103: Joseph, s of George and Elizabeth (Watts) Hubbard was b in Hartford Dec. 10, 1643 and in Dec. 1666 was recorded as assistant to his father in the keeping of the meeting house. It was also his duty to beat the drum to call the worshippers together and to beat an alarm in case of an attack by Indians. In 1686 the inventory of his estate amounted to $240.00. He was m Dec. 29, 1670 to Mary, b in 1650, d June 10, 1707, sister of Robert and Dr. Daniel Porter of an old colonial family of Windsor. Ch: (4) John, b July 30, 1678, m Mary Phillips.

History

Sent in by Robert M. Hubbard, 311 Montebello Circle, Charlottesville, Va 22903.

For early history of the Hubbard family one always looks first in the book "One Thousand Years of Hubbard History" by Edward Warren Day. In searching for the writer's family descended from George Hubbard of Milford, Conn., an error that has been copied by several other writers was found, and evidence in support of correcting this error is presented here.

The line of descent from George Hubbard of immediate interest is:
1. George Hubbard, b in England, m Mary Bishop also b in Eng. and emigrated to this country with two childred ca 1633. He lived in Watertown, Mass; Wethersfield, Milford and then Guilford, Conn., where he d Jan 1683. Among his children was:

2. John Hubbard b in Eng. ca 1630, came to America with his parents, m ca 1648 Mary Merriam. He lived in Wethersfield, Conn. and then in Hatfield, Mass. where he d in 1702. Among the ch. of John and Mary (Merriam) Hubbard was:

3. Jonathan Hubbard, b Wethersfield, Conn., 3 Jan 1658/9. He moved to Concord, Mass. where he m 15 Jan 1681/2 Hannah Rice. He lived in Concord all his life and d there 17 July 1728. Among his ch were:

4. Samuel Hubbard, b Concord 27 Apr 1687, m-1 Sarah Clarke and m-2 Prudence Temple. Edward Warren Day lists his ch on page 223.

5. Joseph Hubbard, s of Jonathan Hubbard is also listed by Day on page 223. He was b in Concord 8 Feb 1688/9, m 10 Nov 1713 Rebecca Bulkley. He lived all his life in Concord and d there 10 Apr 1768.

The error made by Day relates to the next Joseph Hubbard. Day has given Samuel Hubbard an extra son; he lists the descendants of Samuel as follows, but I have also listed the page reference for the birth of each from "Concord, Mass. Births, Deaths, Marriage 1635-1850" in the column to the right.

Ch of Samuel and Sarah (Clark Hubbard: Ephraim, b 8 Nov 1710, p 75; Mary, b 4 May 1712, p 80; Samuel, b 24 May 1714, p 84; Sarah, b 24 Sept 1716, p 90; Lois, b 6 June 1718, p 94; Joseph, b 1715,not listed in the book. Children of Samuel and Prudence (Temple)Hubbard: Lycida, b 6 Apr 1722, p 122; Silence, b 17 Nov 1725, p 122; Isaac, b 17 Sept 1729, p 122.

Samuel Hubbard did not have a s Joseph, however, Joseph Hubbard did have a s of that name. I list below all of the ch of Joseph and Rebecca (Bulkley) Hubbard and again show the page reference to birth from the Concord Vital Records. Joseph, b 11 Jan 1714/15, p 84; Rebecca, b 11 July 1717, p 90; Elizabeth, b 23 Sept 1720, p 100; Lucy, b 14 Dec 1722 dy, p 107; Abigail, b 20 Feb 1724/5, p 112; Peter, b 14 Nov 1727, p 118; Lucy, b 8 June 1730 (a twin), p 125; Thomas, b 8 June 1730 (a twin), p 125; and Hannah, b 18 Jan 1736/7 p 139.

Joseph Hubbard, s of Joseph and Rebecca Hubbard m 3 May 1744 Phebe Brigham in Rutland, Mass. Edward Warren Day, page 226, claims this Joseph was b in Holden and that he m Phebe Bulkley. The m of Joseph and Phebe Brigham is recorded in "Vital Records of Holden", Mass. to the Year 1849" page 148. That this Joseph, and not the fictitious Joseph, son of Samuel, was the Joseph who moved to Holden is proved by deeds in the Worcester, Mass. county records. Deed Book 22, p 409, shows a deed dated 10 Feb 1726 for the sale of land in Worcester Township by Joseph Hubbard and his w Rebecca of Concord, Mass. This proved that Joseph of Concord owned land in this area. Deed Book 37, p 17, shows a deed dated 23 Feb 1744 that is a quit-claim deed from Joseph Hubbard of Concord to his s Joseph Hubbard of Holden for property in Holden. Joseph and Phebe (Brigham) Hubbard lived most of their years in Holden and had ch there, among whom were: Peter Hubbard, b Holden 17 Mar 1754, m (1) Phebe Brigham 12 Aug 1733 and m (2) 11 Dec 1811 Mrs. Hannah Dodds. The marriage of Peter and Phebe Brigham is recorded in the Holden Vital Records on page 218 and that of Peter and Mrs. Dodds is on page 148. Perhaps Edward Warren Day did not believe that there were two Phebe Brighams living in Holden; he had some reservations on page 226 about Joseph m. to Phebe Bulkley.

The Phebe Brigham m to Joseph Hubbard was the dau of John and Martha Brigham. John Brigham was b in Nov 1680 in Marlborough, Mass and d in Sudbury, Mass 29 Dec 1729. Among his ch. were s Samuel Brigham and dau Phebe who was b 5 Oct 1721. When John Brigham d Phebe was a minor and by his will was placed under the guardianship of John Greene who probably moved to Rutland, Mass. Joseph Hubbard was living there or nearby and they were married.

Son Samuel Brigham was b in Sudbury 27 Apr 1716. By w Mary he had several ch including Phebe, b 11 June 1752, and two sons named Joel and Jonas. It is likely that this Phebe Brigham visited her aunt Phebe and met her cousin Peter Hubbard whom she married. Further evidence to support this contention is that she named two of her children Joel and Jonas after her brothers.

The writer (Robert M. Hubbard) is descended fromPeter Hubbard through his s Brigham Hubbard who migrated to Indiana ca 1835. An almost-complete genealogy of the family descended from Brigham Hubbard has been prepared and is available in libraries in Indianapolis and South Bend, Indiana and in selected libraries in other parts of the country. The title of this paper-bound book is "Genealogy of the Hubbard and Associated Families of Northern Indiana" which is dated 1970. Information on this family is also available from the writer.

History

The following Hubbard history was compiled by Mrs. Josephine Short Lynch, 3711 San Felipe, Houston, Texas 77027, with the help of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Elliott, South Hill, Va., for publication in Historical Southern Families by Boddie, Vol. XIII, pages 1-27, titled Hubbard of Virginia and Kentucky and other Southern States.

COMPILER'S NOTE: As this is by far the most complete Hubbard family history I have seen from this region I am publishing it in its entirety for all of us to share. I think all of us southern Hubbards should thank Mrs. Lynch and the Elliots for being so gracious in sharing it with us. I think the least we can do is send them a thank-you note.

I predict governments will soon self-destruct unless they make some drastic changes and soon. It's happened before, it can happen again.

Education as we presently know it will vanish. In its place we will teach our children to comprehend. Information and retrieval systems presently in existence or under development, such as micrographics and computers will require comprehension, not mental storage.

HUBBARD OF YORK COUNTY, VIRGINIA

228. The name Hubbard appears in early Virginia records as Hubbard, Hubard, Hubberd, Huberd, Hubbert, and Hubert. This is not surprising since names were recorded literally as they sounded to the scribe who recorded early records. There has been a tendency to consider the names "Heaberd" and "Herbert" as variations of the name Hubbard also but the latter two were distinct and separate families.

Because many of the names appear in early records it is necessary to list them briefly in order to separate and place the various branches of the family. Benjamin Hubbard came to Virginia in 1639 as a headright of Nicholas Comeings (Comins) and is recorded in a patent in Charles River (now York) County. (Pat. Bk 1, pt. 2, p 688) no other records have been found for this Benjamin Hubbard.

Richard and John Hubbard appear as headrights of Capt. Samuel Matthews in 1642 in a patent in Warwick River (changed to Warwick) County. (Pat. Bk 1, pt. 2, p 814) Neither Richard Hubbard or John Hubbard appear again in early records. It is doubtful that John, Richard or Benjamin Hubbard left desc. in Virginia.

Henry Hubbard appears as a headright of Lewis Burwell in a patent in 1648 on the north side of the York River (now Gloucester County). (Pat. Bk 2, p 181) Henry Hubbard subsequently patented land in his own name in Gloucester County on 17 March 1655 and on 25 August 1655. (Pat Bk 3, p 363 - Pat. Bk 4, p 24) He later sold the land patented 25 August to John Green in 1661. This Henry Hubbard seems to be the progenitor of the Hubbards who resided later in Gloucester County.

Thomas Hubbard was a headright of Vincent Stanford in 1657 in a patent for land Lancaster County. (Pat Bk 4, p 205) This Thomas Hubbard was probably the ancestor of the Hubbards of Lancaster County and later in northern Virginia. Ralph Hubbard is listed in the Quit Rent Roll of 1704 in York County as owning 50 acres of land. He was probably a recent immigrant who had claimed his own headright for land. It would seem that he had come to Va. as a single man but he m in Va later. Ralph Hubbard was sued by Dudley Digges 24 Sept 1696. (Stanard: Colonial Virginia Register) The death of the w of Ralph Hubbard is recorded in the Charles Parish Register. Ralph Hubbard d in the state in 1713, but there is only his inventory on record. (Inventories 1713-York County Records). He left no identified descendants.

The Hubbards of York County descend undoubtedly from Robert Hubbard. While he was apparently in Va ca 1645 there is no record of when he came to Va. He probably paid his own passage to Va. He is listed as the Clerk of the Council in 1650. He seems to have been a man of standing, education and means. Roger Nichols patented a tract of land 17 Apr 1649 which he transferred to John Barker 28 Nov 1649. This transfer was attested by Robert Hubbard. (Pat. Bk 2, p 164).

Robert Hubbard presumably purchased land early as other patents refer to land of Robert Hubbard but no record has been found. Some early deeds and patents, however, have not been preserved. Robert Hubbard patented 300 acres, 6 June 1654, which had been previously granted 3 April 1651 to Joseph Hales (Hayes) in Gloucester Co. and deserted. (Pat Bik 3, p 375) Robert Hubbard was granted two tracts of 500 acres each in Westmoreland Co., 10 June 1654, for transportation into the Colony of twenty people. (Pat. Bik 4, pp 70-71) He patented 1600 acres, 12 Dec 1654, in Westmoreland Co. for transportation of 32 people. (Pat. Bk 3, p 313) He later sold this land, 20 July 1662, to Col. Valentine Peyton. (Pat. Bk 4, p 310).

Robert Hubbard d before 9 Feb 1663. John Lord and William Horton patented 2500 acres in Westmoreland Co. 9 Feb 1663, adjoining the land "formerly belonging to Major William Lewis and Mr. Robert Hubbard, deceased". (Pat. Bk 5, p 277).

The w of Robert Hubbard is unknown and her name has not been found in any extant record. Robert Hubbard (b ca 1602) d ante 9 Feb 1663) m probably in Eng. ca 1626 before coming to Va. The will (if any) of Robert Hubbard was probably recorded at James City and is now lost. No record of a will or inventory of his estate has been found.

Issue: (2) Matthew Hubbard, (3) John Hubbard, (4) Robert Hubbard, and probably daughters.

Capt.Richard Popely patented 500 acres of land in York Co., 6 June 1639, which he sold to Henry Brooke, the younger, Merchant. Henry Brooke sold this to Nicholas Brooke Jr., also a merchant, 3 Mar 1645. Nicholas Brooke,Jr. sold the land on 12 July 1649 to his f. Nicholas Brooke, Sr. This deed was witnessed by Robert Hubbard and Matthew Hubbard. (Pat. Bk 2, p 360) Since this deed was witnessed by Matthew Hubbard he was at least 21 years of age and probably b ca 1627 in Eng. He m after 19 Feb 1625 Sibella (Caynhoo) Ham, It has been stated that he m Sibella Ham before 1650 (Ray: The Lost Tribes of North Carolina). This statement seems, however, to be in error as Lt. Col. Bellew and Jerome Ham patented 1051 acres of land in James City Co 19 Feb 1652. (Pat. Bk 3, p 185) There is no mention of Jerome Ham being deceased and we have to assume that he was living on that date but probably d soon after. It seems, however, that Matthew Hubbard m Sibella Ham by 1653.

The history will be continued in paragraphs 253, 311, and 349.

History of Col. James continued from paragraph 215:

229. Hubbard's or Hubbert's Island in the French Broad River was named for its owner, James Hubbard, who had a stormy career in the early days of Tennessee history and is notorious as an "indian fighter and hater".

"Hubbard's parents and their whole family had been cruelly butchered in Va. by the Shawnees, and he had hence become the avowed enemy of the Indian race and it may not be saying to much to add that he had killed more Cherokees than any other man." (Ramsey's Annals, p 301).

James Hubbard served as a private at King's Mountain, but immediately thereafter is said to have been a Captain in Sevier's Indian Campaign, and was present at the Battle of Boya's (?) Creek, 16 Dec 1780. In Sevier's Campaign of Sept to Nov 1782, Hubbard served as a Major. When Greene Co. was erected in 1783 Hubbard was continued as Major. He greatly alarmed the settlers by killing an Indian Untoola, or Butler of Citico, in 1784; unprovoked according to some, but in self-defense according to his defenders. Gov. Alexander Martin of North Carolina ordered his arrest in 1784 but nothing seems to have come of it. (For death of Untoola see Ramsey, pp 301-4, 305; William's Lost State, p 62, 75; White's King's Mountain men, p 189).

He lived at this time in what was later Jefferson County. A glimpse of his character is found in the journal of Brother Martin Schneider, a Moravian missionary who had an encounter with "Happert" on Jan 1, 1784. In May 1788 he was implicated in the murder of the Old Tasuel and Abraham, friendly Cherokee chiefs, by John Kirk Jr., which aroused the Indians to a general campaign of terror, but he was second in command to John Sevier in the retaliatory campaign of the whites in July of that year.

In 1791 he was connected with Zachariah Cox in an abortive (and much frowned upon) scheme to colonize the land at Muscle Shoals. In 1792 he was prominent in the new county of Jefferson, and was 2nd Major of the Cavalry Regiment for Hamilton District, Tenn. in 1795. His later career I do not find noted in books available at the moment, (comment by Mrs. Williamson). More on Col. Hubbard to come.

MENDEL'S LAW OF GENETICS

230. About 1781 Joseph Hubbard, a Quaker preacher (para 159) who migrated from England with William Penn, m Ann Crews, half-breed dau of a Cherokee chief. Their sixth child, Rhoda Hubbard, m a well-to-do Virginia planter named Samuel Nixon who lived on the banks of the James River seventeen miles from Petersburg, Va. They had 4 ch, one named Oliver W. Nixon, a doctor, b ca 1830 Newport, Ind., who m Louise Elston; and a younger brother Willian Penn Nixon, b 19 Mar 1832. Both sons were college graduates. William graduated in Law from the University of Pennsylvania in 1858 and practiced law in Cincinnati, Ohio. In 1861 his w, Mary Stites, died. He apparently gave up his law practice and entered the Ohio legislature where he served two terms. In 1868 he began working for the Cincinnati Daily Evening Chronicle, later consolidated with the Cincinnati Times. Later he became manager of the Inter-Ocean newspaper and owned a controlling interest. His brother, Dr. Oliver W. Nixon, also owned a part interest.

William Penn Nixon m a 2nd w, Elizabeth Duffield, and had ch Mary Stites (likely named after his first w), Bertha Duffield, and William Penn Nixon Jr. They resided in Chicago, Ill.

COMPILER'S NOTE: I have no information about ch of Dr. Oliver W. Nixon. It is interesting to note that William Penn Nixon was called "Chief". However he was the gg son of a Cherokee chief and had a right to the title. He was 1/8th Indian. I know another Chief Nixon who may be about 1/32 nd Indian the same as I am. It is amazing how the Hubbard genes do get around. Both Nixon brothers would have 21 1/2 Hubbard genes. Their children 16, grandchildren 8, and gg ch 4 approximately. Now we have dominant and recessive genes and, on occasion, according to Mendel's Law of Genetics certain peas from the same pod may have a larger amount of one strain of genes or dominant genes up to sixteen generations.

Speaking of Hubbard genes: Ann Hubbard and Elizabeth Hubbard, both of Virginia m into the Taylor family also of Virginia. Zachary Taylor, 12th president of the U. S. had a brother Col. Hubbard Taylor, U.S.A. A younger sister named Ann m James Harrison, gf of General William Henry Harrison, 9th president of the United States.

On 12-2-1820 Sarah Hubbard reported married to Thomas Hargrove of Goochland Co., Va. Sarah was the dau of George and Priscilla Hubbard, deceased, of Charles City Co., Va.

233. Mrs. George Greiner, 204 Locust Ave., Salem, Va 24153, member of the DAR through her ggf Moses Bennett, b 1732 Stafford Co., Va., m Mary Taylor, dau of John Taylor, ca 1764. She further informs that James Bennett b ca 1710 Stafford Co., Va, m Elizabeth Hubbard on 12-10-1731. She was b 7-4-1716 the dau of Edward and Elizabeth Hubbard both b 16th (?). Compiler's Note: I strongly suspect Mary Taylor is related to Zachary Taylor (12th President of the USA). Ann and Elizabeth Hubbard both m into this line. See Hubbard genetics this issue, para 230.

234. Mrs. Alan R. Goldberg, 11574 E Bingham St., Cerritos, Ca 90701, advises she has a copy of the 1870 Historical Atlas of the State of Minnesota that contains many Hubbards who resided in that state.

Illinois Volunteer Infantry" p 58 regarding Company "D" "The men of Co. D were brave, orderly, patriotic and efficient soldiers with hardly an exception. The naming of a few for conspicuous gallantry might be unjust to others. Col. Davis, on his return to the Regt. after recovering from his severe wound at Shiloh, spoke in the warmest terms of the bravery of Ned Hubbard, Corporal of Co. D, and said if Hubbard had lived he certainly would have brought him a Lt's commission. Hubbard d of fever July 4, 1862 at La Grange, Tenn. and his last words were, "Three cheers for the red, white and blue".

WHAT ARE "ATTICS" FOR

240. About two years ago a cousin in Indiana mentioned that she had some tintype pictures of the James Hubbard family but was unable to find them. Ruth has lived in her home for many years, this fact has contributed to a most interesting Attic. It is Traditionally like most, full of the old keepsakes we humans cannot bear to part with. This Attic has all the qualifications - mystery, nostalgia, bric-a-brac, and most of all it turned out to be a "researcher's dream".

Ruth's dau. had a day off, and with flashlight in hand they decided to look for the green album that contained the pictures. A dusty old trunk looked like a good place to start and it was a Pandora's box in reverse. All the pictures were there (I will have one of each as soon as they can be copied). I have Xerox copies of the seventeen or more documents they found. One dated back to 1803 in Va. The sheepskin document of James Hubbard's first land grant in Harrison Co., Ind. signed by President James Monroe. A few old and dear letters. One was written by James youngest son, Mathew, to his sister Elizabeth Hubbard Stevens Walker while he was in service. Mathew was killed in Atlanta, Ga., during the Civil War. He was buried on the battle field with three of his comrades. This document also gives specific location of burial and the name of his commanding officer.

The most meaningful to me is the document dated April 25, 1841, signed by James and Elisha Hubbard (brothers) giving James' son, John, the power of attorney to be used in Campbell Co., Va., in the settling of the Samuel Hubbard's estate (Samuel was the father of James and Elisha). The proof of Samuel's death date and place has ended a six year search on my part. Through other recent research I have proven that Samuel did serve in the R.W. as a Patriot from Bedford Co., Va.

Other documents were: notice of James granddaughter, Elizabeth's intention to wed Joel Walker, dated June 1859 in Harrison Co., Ind., and several tax receipts showing that James paid taxes in Campbell co., Va., 1803-1808.

Notice of purchase of land in Harrison Co., Va., by James Hubbard Sept. 21 1827 from Joseph and Frances Sketer. Receipts on various things such as school tax, jury fees, etc.

A note to James Hubbard, "Sir, please send by the bearer, one barrel of Whiskey and oblige your friend as it is out of my power to come myself. I was summoned to attend court on Saturday after you left here. I shall try and have some money ready for you but I cannot buy two barrels at this time" Signed John Marten.

"This is what Attics are for", a place to collect unwanted old things that will be meaningful to someone's great great grandaughter. By Erma Brown Lepper.

An Interesting Note: According to the 4 July 1864 issue of the London Times, London, Eng, the Paymaster-General of Chancery of England held at that time 77,693,769 million pounds awaiting claimants who could prove their line of descent from one of the many estates held in trust. The Bank of England had in trust $380,000,000 also awaiting claimants who could prove their ancestry. The Dougal & Company's registry of heirs wanted for estates and legacies mentions 16 Hubbards being sought as claimants. This information can be verified through the above sources. Let's help one another get some of that bread, man. By the way, no Hubbards came over on the Mayflower.

THE OCCULT - ESP - THE HUMAN SOUL

For centuries our learned people have been trying to define intelligence. Without knowing what intelligence is, we have even set up systems to measure it. Some have even proven one race is more intelligent than others. What a bunch of hog wash.

Intelligence is the sum and substance of experiences, nothing more. Of course some of us, and especially certain minorities, measure more or less than others. This is caused by our experiences or lack of them. It should be clear that our experiences vary. Some are very broad others very limited. Male and female have different experiences. The 10 year old child and the 70 year old adult, the rich and poor, the farmer and the stock broker, the nationalities, the races, aboriginal and the college professor. This is the way it should be.

How do you measure all these variables? You don't. Certainly each of us have experiences that make our intelligence different from all others.

Let's change the subject for a moment. The Universe appears to operate for the most part at least, intelligently. How did the universe get intelligent? If our rule of sum and substance of experiences holds true, then it stands to reason the universe retains its experiences in some manner or it would not act with intelligence. Why does the lowly cabbage seed sprout at a certain time under certain conditions? The very young fawn knows when to lie motionless or a bar of metal to melt and eventually evaporate if enough pressure or heat is applied to it. You say all this is natural or due to the laws of nature. The word nature is a camouflage for the word intelligence.

If the universe is so stingy with all of her resources that she saves every single atom of matter, only changing its form in order to survive then it stands to reason the universe has intelligence. Does it stand to reason that our individual intelligence is thrown away with the death of our body? In order for our intelligence to be usable the personality it has formed must remain intact. And so I think we have a soul that lives forever as a part of the Universal Mind.

If all this be true or partly so, then we have a basis for extra sensory perception and other aspects of the occult. Certainly evidence of a personality surviving death.

Human parts banks may or may not become a practice in the future. Perhaps the same results can be had by growing new parts in their entirety.

History

This is a continuation of the Hubbard History of York County, Va., which was compiled by Mrs. Josephine Short Lynch, Houston, Texas, with the help of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Elliott, South Hill, Va. It is continued from para 228.

253. Rev. William Caynhoo. The name Caynhoo has been recorded in early records variously as Cainhoe, Caynhoo, Canho, Canhoce and Caynahose. William Caynhoo came to Va. before 1639 as he patented 300 acres of land in Charles River (now York) County, 26 Sept 1639. As William Cannhoe, Clerke (Minister), he patented 400 acres on the north side of the Charles (Now York) River 10 Oct 1642 (Pat. Bk 1, pt. 2, p 674 - Pat. Bk 1, pt. 2, p 829) William Caynhoo m circa 1630 (probably in England) Dorothy whose surname in unk.

William Caynhoo d intestate in York County in 1644. (Inv. 1644, York Co) Dorothy Caynhoo is mentioned as the widow of William Caynhoo and an account of the estate of William Caynhoo, deceased, was returned to Court 4 Apr 1646. Cattle belonging to Sibelia, orphan of William Caynhoo, was recorded in Court at James City. (Fleet: York Co. Rec. Vols. 24-25).

Dorothy Caynhoo, widow of William Caynhoo, m (2) before 6 Oct 1650 John Underwood; George Light patented 13 May 1652 a tract of land containing 200 acres "being part of a patent granted to William Cainhoe & purchased by the said Light of John Underwood, who m the relict of said Cainhoe, as by deed under his hand 6 Oct 1650 may appear". (pat. Bk. 3, p 199) John Underwood had been claimed as a headright by Edward Hall in a patent for 400 acres 18 Sept. 1646. (Pat. Bk 2, p 104).

254. Jerome Ham. Jerome Ham may have been the s of Joseph Ham whose will is of record in York Co. (1638 - not searched). They seem more likely, however, to have been brothers. Jerome Ham m by 1648 Sibella Caynhoo dau of William and Dorothy Caynhoo. Issue: (1) Elizabeth Ham; (2) Jerome Ham Jr. Sibella (Caynhoo) Ham, widow of Jerome Ham, married (2) ca 1653 Matthew Hubbard, s of Robert Hubbard of York Co. Issue: (5) John Hubbard, (6) Rebecca Hubbard (7) Matthew Hubbard.

255. Will of Matthew Hubbard: Names: Wife - not named in will. Son - John Hubbard, bequest: Divident of land at Skimino, except 200 acres that I wold to Abraham Vinckler and Jno. Scot. And also my divident of land that is above Charles Edmonds. To my Dau Rebecca Hubbard and my son Matthew Hubbard - My half of the land (which) was divided between my bro and me, and my divident that is upon Black Creek to be divided between them. I desire Mr. Ballard and Mr. Bray to be the overseers of my will. Executor: None specifically named. Witnesses: Pat Napier, James Besouth /s/ Mathew Hubbard. Dated (date of will not recorded). Ref: York Co. Wills, Etc - 1665-1672 - Book 4, p 163.

Inventory of the estate of Matthew Hubbard, deceased, made by Mrs. Sibella Hubbard, his relict and administratrix, appraised according to the order of the York Court directed to Mr. Robert Harrison, Mr. James Besouth, Mr. George Gill and Mr. David Dunbar 21 August 1667, returned to the York Court 22 August 1667. (Note: No total given but the records cover nine pages and included 183 pounds 3 shillings 6 pence in Sterling) (Ibid - 1665-1672, p 464).

Matthew Hubbard served as a Justice of the York County Court. At a Court held for York Co. January the 25th 1660: Present: Lt. Col. Whitten Barbary, Mr. Edmond Peters, Mr. William Hay and Capt. Henry Gooch (Ibid 1657-62, p 263 - Mr. Matthew Hubbard)

Sibella Hubbard, widow of Matthew Hubbard, m (3) William Aylett. In a division into equal parts of 318 pounds 13 shillings 4 pence in the estate of Matthew Hubbard, deceased, one part was paid to Mr. William Aylett in the right of his w the relict of Mr. Matthew Hubbard, deceased. (Ibid 1665-1672, p 464).

256. John Hubbard. John Hubbard (3), son of Robert Hubbard (1), m by 1650 Katherine Bennett. She was probably the dau of John Bennett who was in Va before 1635. John Bennett owned land on the north side of the York River, now Gloucester Co. He was claimed several times as headrights indicating that he went to Eng. and returned several times. He was dead before 29 June 1666 when reference was made to the land of John Bennett, deceased, in a patent (Pat. Bk 5, p 516). Issue: (8) Elizabeth Hubbard, (9) Matthew Hubbard (10) Katherine Hubbard.

John Hubbard d intestate before 24 Feb 1667 and Mrs. Katherine Hubbard was granted permission to administer the estate of her deceased husband. At the same Court, Mr. John Page, Mr. Otho Thorpe, Mr. James Besouth and Mr. William Newman were named to appraise the estate of John Hubbard, deceased, and to return the appraisal to the next Court. (Ibid - 1665-1672, p 319).

Mrs. Katherine Hubbard, widow of John Hubbard, m (2) James Besouth between 14 July 1668 and 12 Apr 1669. James Besouth acknowledged in Court 14 July 1668 that he is due the orphans of John Hubbard, deceased, 500 pounds current English money to be paid upon demand. This was a bond given in contemplation of marriage to Mrs. Katherine Hubbard. "Whereas a marriage by God's grace is intended shortly between the above bound Mr. James Besouth and Mrs. Katherine Hubbard, mor of the above mentioned orphans, and late w of the said Mr. John Hubbard, deceased". Recorded 12 Apr 1669 (Ibid - 1665-1672, p 320).

A division of the cattle in the estate of John Hubbard, deceased, was made by John Davis and Henry Taylor 18 Jan 1669 between James Besouth and Elizabeth Hubbard, Matthew Hubbard, and Katherin Hubbard, orphans of John Hubbard, deceased (Ibid - 1665-1672, p 310).

257. Robert Hubbard. Robert Hubbard (4) s of Robert Hubbard (1), resided in Warwick Co., He inherited from his f, apparently, a tract of land located in the northwestern part of James City Co. on the north side of the Chickahominy River. He served as a Burgess from Warwick Co. A Journal entry of Monday 1 Nov 1677 records that "Mr. Robert Hubbard is duely elected and returned a Burgess to serve in the Assembly for Warwick Co. in the room of Mr. Richard Whitaker made Sheriff of the said County". (Journal of the House of Burgess, p 114).

Robert Hubbard (4) d before 1691 but no record of a will has been found. It was probably among the lost records of Warwick Co. The name of his w is unk. Issue: (11) William Hubbard, (12) Robert Hubbard.

Gabriel Jones in his will (1670 York Co) makes a bequest to William Hubbard, s of Robert Hubbard, and to Robert Hubbard, Jr. He left a bequest to Giles Rogers, and left the remainder of his estate to his bro Richard Jones. (Ibid 1665-1672, p 445) Gabriel Jones d as a young man unmarried. He was the s of Richard Jones (Will 1660 - York Co.) and his w Elizabeth whose surname is unk. These bequests indicate a connection between the Jones and Hubbard families. Robert Hubbard may have married a sister of Richard Jones.

Robert Hubbard, jr. (12) served, also, in the House of Burgesses as shown by a Journal entry, "Mr. Miles Cary & Mr. Robert Hubbard are returned Burgesses for the County of Warwick" (Journal 1692, p 379). "Mr. Robert Hubbard took the oath of a Burgess, 2 Apr 1692". (Ibid - p 380).

Robert Hubbard (4) was probably a merchant, and apparently abandoned the land left him in the upper part of James City Co. Matthew Hubbard applied on 28 Apr 1691 for 1500 acres of land on the north side of the Chickahominy River which was part of 2400 acres granted to Robert Hubbard. The said 1400 acres being due said Matthew Hubbard as a "cozen german" and heir at law of Robert Hubbard, deceased, who was s and heir of the above mentioned Robert Hubbard unto whom ye said Patent of 2400 acres was granted 2 June 1651". (Duvall Va. Col. Absts., Ser. 2, Vol. 4, p 72).

The phrase cozen german, now obsolete, meant descended from the same gf. Evidently neither William Hubbard or Robert Hubbard, Jr., were interested in the land, and Matthew Hubbard, a cousin, applied for a grant of land. This Matthew Hubbard was probably Matthew Hubbard (7) s of Matthew Hubbard (2) and Sibella Ham. Matthew Hubbard (9) s of John Hubbard and Katherine Bennett apparently had d before 1690. Because of the loss of the Warwick records it seems infeasible to attempt to trace the line of Robert Hubbard (4) further.

This Hubbard History of York Co., Va., will be continued in paragraph 311.

The following histories were contributed by Mrs. Roberta Hubbard Costley of Ogden, Utah.

258. The following was extracted from the Champaign Co. Ill. records, p 664.

Linus G. Hubbard was a farmer and grower of small fruits, residing in Urbana Township. Mr. Hubbard was a native of Vermont b 24 Jan 1844 near the village of Wilmington, Windham Co. Chester Hubbard, his ggf, was b in 1770 in the same State, and our subject's f, whose name was George Crocker Hubbard,was b in Vermont in 1815. The family had been Green Mt. farmers for many years and George Hubbard owned a fine farm of 400 acres in that state. He m Miss Salome Green, the dau of Clark and Submit (Hastings) Green, b in Amherst, Mass. in 1815. After his marriage George C. Hubbard settled on a farm near Wilmington, Vt. There they reared a fine family of six ch, four of whom were boys and two girls. Their names were: Lizzie J., Linus G., Clara Bird, Porter G., Fred B, and Chester C.

Linus G. Hubbard, the eldest s but second in order of birth, passed his youth among the Green Mts. of his native state acquiring such education as he could from the limited advantages of the district school. He was a patriotic, high-spirited boy and at the age of 18 in the year 1862 he enlisted in Co. F, 16th Vt. Vol. Inf., as private and served his country gallantly until 13 Aug 1863. He was detailed on garrison duty at Washington and participated in the Battle of Gettysburg. After being mustered out of the service at Brattleboro, Vt. and honorably discharged, he returned to his home and engaged in farming.

At about the age of 23 Linus Hubbard came west to Wisconsin, spending 18 months in that State. In 1869 he came to Champaign Co. and purchased 80 acres of land in Tolono Twnshp. He remained there three years, Cultivating and improving his land, and in the meantime was united in marriage with Miss Helen Stanard. She was the dau of David and Hannah (Haskins) Stanard, and was b in Bureau Co. Ill. Her f was a native of the State of N.Y. and her mor of Vt. After our subject's marriage they lived on the farm in Tolono Twnshp for 2 years and then moved to Urbana Township. Their farm contained 80 acres of valuable, well-improved land, located on Section 29. For the next 80 years Mr. Hubbard was successful in raising small fruits and ran a truck wagon to Urbana where he disposed of his products. There were no improvements on his land when he purchased it; now he has a pleasant residence with good farm buildings.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard had a family of 6 ch: George D., Charles L., Clara May, Fred C., Nellie M., and Minnie S. Mr. Hubbard was a member of the G.A.R. Himself and wife, with 4 of their ch, were members of the Baptist Church in which they took an active interest.

Some day very soon we will find a way to read the Genetic Memory passed on to us by each of our ancestors. Then and only then will we get to know our ancestors while we still live. Of course we will meet them in the spiritual world, that is, if they even want to talk to us. A matter of some conjecture.

Distinguished Hubbards

271. Richard D. Hubbard, Lawyer, Legislator, Governor.
Richard Dudley Hubbard, 30th Governor of Connecticut, b Berlin, Hartford Co., Conn., 7 Sept 1810; d in Hartford, Conn 28 Feb 1884. He was a s of Lemuel and Elizabeth (Dudley) Hubbard and a desc of George Hubbard who, after living in Milford and Guilford, moved to Hartford ca 1639 and later to Middletown.

Richard D. Hubbard was reared on a farm, received his preparatory education in the common schools of the neighborhood and then entered Yale College. He was graduated in 1839 and then entered the law office of Hungerford and Cone at Hartford where he qualified himself as a lawyer, was admitted to the bar in 1842 and practiced in East Hartford. He was eminently successful, was called the first lawyer in Connecticut and was undoubtedly the greatest orator of his day in the Commonwealth. His success was attributed largely to great natural powers added to which was scholarly culture and the utmost familiarity with the ancient and modern classics. He was a representative in the General Assembly in 1842; was State's Attorney for Hartford Co., 1846-48 and represented Hartford in the General Assembly 1855-58. He was elected a representative in the 40th Congress 1867-69 and declined a re-election. He was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for Governor of the State in 1872 but was elected in 1876 and again defeated in 1878.

He was a striking example of the self-made man, forcing himself to the top by means of studious application to books, and compelling the admiration of people of his State generally, including his political foes. He received the honorary degree of A.M. from Trinity College in 1851, and that of LL.D. from Yale College in 1877. He was a trustee of Trinity College, 1856-58.

Governor Hubbard m. 2 Dec 1845, Mary Juliana, dau of Dr. William H. and Margaret F. (Chenevard) Morgan, who bore him 3 sons and 3 daus. On 9 June 1890, 6 years after his death, a statue of Governor Hubbard, a heroic size, by Karl Gerhardt, was unveiled in the presence of the highest officials of the State and bar; it stands in a conspicuous place near the capitol.

Otherwise Hubbards

272. The many, and strange, first names of Hubbards has me fascinated. For example, we have a RUN Hubbard, Comfort, Joyful, Pleasant, Fox and Wonderful Hubbard to name a few. I can't help but wonder about the parents who attach such names to innocent babies. Then I ran into CWERUBIN HUBBARD.

Now this one really got to me and of course I started investigating. Here is what I found.

Cwerubin Hubbard was from Minnesota, the land of many lakes. From his early boyhood he was the fastest ice skater in the state. In fact he was well on his way to becoming the World Champion Ice Skater.

One very cold day he was really putting on the speed. According to witnesses he was almost a blur of motion; in fact, some say his skates actually started smoking. Suddenly he came to a hole in the ice that some fisherman had been using. Cwerubin, of course, fell into the icy water and at the speed he was traveling cut his head off. Now his body continued at greater speed under the ice while his head slid across the ice. Fortunately there was another hole in the ice directly in front of Cwerubin's head and body. When his body surfaced his head was there and promptly froze to his body.

Cwerubin, of course, lit out for home where disaster struck again. As soon as he got warm his head thawed loose from his body and fell to the floor. Now his good wife, much dismayed at this turn of events, grabbed her sewing basket and sewed his head back on. Now in her excitement, and not being trained in the surgical arts, she sewed his head on backwards. From that day on poor Hubbard was always looking back wherehe had been; thus the name Cwerubin.

Now the newspaper man who covered this story (now a well-renowned writer) caused a great stir among scientific circles all over the world. Engineers debated at great length the possibility of a body traveling at the same speed under water as the severed head across the ice. A few expressed some doubt about the speed the head froze back on the body. I hardly need say this caused a great deal of debate, as well as consternation among those of the medical profession.

This story was written by a newspaper reporter who lived before my time. All of you have read of him and most of you have read his books. Can anyone guess who he was? Please send in your guess as to his identity and I will publish same, and the true identification of the author in our next issue. I have changed the name of the victim and few other details but the story is essentially the same as the original.

284. The following letter was received from Mrs. John Beck, 1006 Garfield, San Springs,Okla.

My Dear Mr. Hubbard:

Thank you for your recent letter and the complimentary copy of the Hubbard Newsletter. May I compliment you on the format and style? For some reason many genealogical buffs seem strangely lacking in a sense of humor. I find yours refreshing.

I have a question for inclusion in the next issue - or at least in some future issue, but I am not at all sure how to phrase the question. Is it all right if I state my problem and leave the editing of the question to you?

My gr. -gr. -gr. grandmother was Nancy Hubbard who m Peter Johnson, s of Gifeon Johnson, Sr., who was a supplier in the R. W. The 1850 census of Henry Co., Tenn, lists Nancy and Peter Johnson, both 84 and both b in N. C. Since I knew that the Johnsons were in Rockingham Co., N.C., I assumed that the Hubbards were there also and spent a lot of time on these Rockingham Co Hubbards with no positive results. Recently I have decided to tackle another line.

Among Hubbard material that I have collected at random is the DAR record (no. 22004I) of the desc of James Hubbard who migrated from Rutland Co., Eng to Charleston, Mass in 1637. His ch were James, Rebecca, Elizabeth, and John (b Mar 20 1670). The ch of John were Benjamin, Obadiah, Henry, William, James*, Joseph, John, and Rachel. The ch of James (b 1707, m Elizabeth Maddox in 1732) were James, William, John, Ralph, Richard, Joseph, Samuel, and daughters. I am interested in the ch of this John Hubbard, who somehow turned up in Orange Co and later in Guilford Co., N. C. during the period of the Revolution.

According to my notes this John Hubbard was b in 1748 (I don't know where) and d in 1848 in Indiana (I don't know what county). The ch listed in the DAR records are: (1) Esther b 1777, m Ralph Smith, Guilford Co. 1798 d 1842 in Indiana, (2) Margaret b 1768, in 1707 m Joseph Glenn, d 1869 in Indiana, (3) James b 1785 in Sussex Co., Delaware, m Nancy Thomas March 28, 1809 in N.C., d 1891 (age 106) in Indiana.

Now I have had this record for some time but have disregarded it because I was under the happy impression that none of my forebears settled north of the Mason-Dixon line; however, I recently ran across an item that has raised some question in my mind. The 1860 census of Henry Co. Tenn. lists my gr gr grandmother, Joicy Hagler, age 62 b N.C. Living in the household was one other person - J. Glenn b Ind. Joley Hagler was the dau of Nancy Hubbard and Peter Johnson. In 1860 Joicy had been widowed for one year. She was financially well fixed, with assets listed as $38,000. So why was she taking in a young boarder? I had assumed that this J. Glenn, a school teacher was simply there for company or protection; however, one dau and a number of grandchildren were living in the adjoining home; the husband of another dau, deceased and those grandchildren were located on the other side. It finally occurred to me that J. Glenn could have been a cousin or the s of a cousin.

My question then is this: To what county in Indiana did these ch of John Hubbard migrate: Is there any record of any of the ch of this John Hubbard other than the 3 names in the DAR record 23004I? Could Nancy Hubbard who m Peter Johnson in N.C. ca 1786 have been another dau? Sincerely, /s/ Mary Alice Beck.

285. The following is from Vol.5 , No. 10, Tri-State Trader, 10 June 1972.

Useful info will be found in the Probate Order Book (by whatever name is may be known). Putnam Co., Ind. Aug 1834: Come now here into open court Elijah H. Crawford and John H. Hubbard Administrators of the estate of Rendal Sutherlin deceased and report that after dire search they find no property whereon to administer and ask to be discharged from any further services as administrators.

This is a poignant fact of life. All of our anc were not landed gentry. Therefore if they were poor and law abiding their names are scarce in the records.

286. Mrs. John Beck, 1006 Garfield, Sand Springs, Okla 74063, provided the following info: Anyone recognizing any of these anc please write her: May 16, 1787, Rockingham Co., N.C. Bk. C, p 112 - Grant #1307: State of N. C. to William Hubbard - 640 acres of land lying in the Co. of Rockingham on the head of London Mill Creek - Stone Fork and Little Town Creek. (Sheriff assigned this in 1795). October 25, 1796 - Book D, p 63 - William Hubbard and w Esther of Rockingham Co. to Gordon Smith of same Co. - 300 acres. We are living with an information explosion, that's getting bigger every hour of the day. This is going to have profound effects on man, his institutions and way of life. Our politicians and statesmen don't appear to be aware of what's happening. I think this is sad. They may soon be known as a "vanishing breed".

It really amazes me at the number of great developments and scientific breakthroughs that have been made by people too stupid to know they were doing the impossible. The learned crowd lives in deadly fear of ridicule and censor from other scientists or their peers. History is full of martyrs to causes they believed in and were dumb enough to try. Such idiots as claimed the world was round, that the earth revolved around the sun and was not the center of the universe, that electricity could be harnessed, that the atom existed, sound could be sent thousands of miles in seconds or that, images could be transmitted from point to point, that man would fly, walk on the moon and take pictures of the planet Jupiter. All were once considered persons of doubtful mental stability. It is with great joy that I join this group and forever relinquish my right to live with the sane, stable, socially adjusted and accepted way of life and those so profoundly dedicated to it.

I am exalted to believe in the impossible, to have faith in it happening and to remain ignorant of the knowledge that it can't.

I am inclined to make predictions now and then because it's fun and may shake a few people up. First let's do away with any notion that I work from divine inspiration, occult powers, star readings, black magic, pink magic or consorting with the Devil. My predictions are based upon known facts and guess work, nothing else except possibly stupidity.

Early English Hubbards

298. James, b ca 1584, Mendelsham, Suffolk, England. Naomi Cocke (no info). Ch: Thomas, b 1604, Mendelsham, Suffolk, Eng; Benjamin b 1608 in England, m Alice Ward; James b ca 1609 in England, m Sarah Ives d Jan 1639 Watertown, Mass; Rachel, b John Brandish of Ipswich, Eng; Samual, b 1610 Suffolk Co., Eng, m Tacy Cooper d 1688-1692; Sarah b 1593 m John Jackson

James and Naomi Cocke Hubbard were p of four, or perhaps five Hubbards who settled in N. E. during the 1600s. I find it strange that so little research has come to light about desc of James and Naomi. They had 10 ch all b in Eng. Their desc in American along must run into the thousands. (see para 223).

COMPILER'S NOTE: I have a strange hunch this line was related to George and Elizabeth Watts Hubbard and possibly George and Mary Bishop Hubbard, both early emigrants to America (see para 38 and 39; Compiler's Note, para 225, para 226 and para 244).

299. James Hubbard, b ca 1609 Suffolk, Eng d Jan 1639 Watertown, Mass. Sarah Ives, (no info) Ch: James b 1631 in England, m 29 Sept 1659 Sarah Winship, d 28 Aug 1693 Cambridge, Mass; Sarah (no info); Thomas (no info); Perhaps other ch. (See para 298) James and w Sarah sailed from London, Eng 21 May 1635, on the barque Mathew, Richard Goddad, Master. He settled in Watertown, Mass. His widow m William Hamlet. A nephew Robert Hubbard may have migrated with James.

300. Benjamin Hubbard b 1608 Mendelsham, Suffolk, Eng m Alice Ward, d 28 Oct 1660 in Eng. Alice (no info). Ch: Benjamin, b 24 Mar 1632 Charleston, Mass; Ichabod, b 3 Oct 1635, Charlestown, Mass, d July 1636 Charlestown, Mass; Elizabeth b 2 June 1636; Thomas b 31 May 1639; Hannah, b 16 Dec 1641 m Richard Brooks, Boston, Mass; James b 16 Dec 1644.

(See para 298) Benjamin and Alice migrated from Gravesend, Eng Oct 1633 and settled on Charlestown Neck. They may have been accompanied by a bro Samual and a sister-in-law Elizabeth and her ch. Benjamin carried the title of "Mr" at that time only given to distinguished persons of the colonies. He was a friend of the celebrated religious agitator John Wheelwright and Ann Hutchinson, both banished from the Massachusetts Bay colony to settle in Wells, Maine.

Benjamin was apparently well educated as he was known as a scholar and navigator. He owned considerable property and served as Clerk of the Writs of Charlestown in 1644. On 22 Dec 1644 he returned to Eng. where he visited his elder bro Thomas at Deal in Kent. Also he visited his cousin Joseph Hubbard at Ipswich, Suffolk. In 1645 his w and 5 ch joined him. He is known to have written Gov. Winthrop in 1645 abt his "invention concerning navigation". In 1652 he was minister in Coledock, Suffolk, Eng. After his death in 1660 his ch all returned to New England.

W. Hazelton, and practiced medicine) he passed the rest of his days in farming, his favorite pursuit.

There will be much more on the life story of Dr. Calvin Hubbard.

Distinguished Hubbards

What Hubbard has never heard the following: Each of us who ever spent a day in school has been taunted by fellow students who delighted in giving forth in a sing-song way - "Old Mother Hubbard went to the cupboard to get her dog a bone. When she got there the cupboard was bare." Edward Warren Day in his "1000 Years of Hubbards" published in 1895 has this to say: I think it is precious just the way it is written. Nothing I could add would improve on it. It is quoted exactly as written an I think Day would want to share it with us.

329. Our Maternal Progenitor --- A humorous skit---by Edward Warren Day

Manifestly it would be abortive to present a genealogical history of the Hubbard family without recognizing the fact that the illustrious tribe had a maternal as well as a paternal progenitor. In fact, it would be worse then that, for while the fierce sea king, Hubba, thundered down the corridors of time for a short distance, and then slid off unnoticed into some of the by-ways of history that are only trodden by the tireless footsteps of antiquarians and such, the old lady who bore the full name Hubbard, from the first, has ambled along on the broad highway of public attention, quietly and quaintly, leading her dog, and making no disturbance. Hubba was prominent for a time. She is prominent for all time. Her history is briefly told in the books. To the world, more familiarly, it is repeated more often than that of many heroes and heroines who achieved more starting feats than she. Not even truthful George, the heroic child with the hatchet is more often mentioned or better remembered than is Old Mother Hubbard. It is very unfortunate that we have no data to present of her lineage. Some sensitive relative, we understand, destroyed the records. She doubtless had parents, but who they were is not apparent. She had family ties, unquestionably, else the tribe of Hubbards would hardly be as numerous as it is. Of these family ties, however,tradition tells us nothing. After the manner of nearly all chroniclers of antiquity who wrote contemporaneous history, those who wrote of her contented themselves with recording those salient facts in her life story which best illustrate the prominent and attractive traits of her character.

From the meagre details of this most admirable woman's history, which are all that remains to us, it is, however, altogether impossible to obtain a comprehensive idea of what she must have been, and of the influence which she unquestionably exerted on the people and the manners of her era. What that era was it is, unfortunately, impossible to say. The rude rhymes which perpetuate her noble deeds have been handed down from generation to generation, until looking backward, we are utterly unable to imagine how remote was the period of her life. Certain allusions, as those to a cupboard, to a tailor, to linen, and the like, make it certain that some measure of civilization had been attained before she died, if, indeed, she can be said to have died in any true sense of the word. The unquestionable antiquity of her story, however, proves that civilization must have been immature. This being demonstrated, it is easy for the careful student to see that she was no ordinary person as, of course, she would not be, being a Hubbard. In the first place she was notable for being old at the period when the historian's attention was first attracted to her. She was, in her youth, no social reformer or agitator, else she would have attracted notice sooner. She never occupied a box at the opera, could not ride a bicycle, and was indifferent upon the subject of "tariff reform". Her placid, well-ordered life had proceeded, doubtless on conventional lines, so quietly and under such social discipline, that it was not until after her family had grown up and gone out to people the corners of the earth, as they have since done, that she became in any way notable. Of course, she had had a family. The existence of that family today is sufficient evidence of that fact, but, aside from their existence, the fact that she was Mother Hubbard is proof positive. A person can not be a mother without having progeny. When we first learn of her, however, she is living alone save for one faithful retainer.

Mrs. Hubbard had a dog. It was not merely that she was kind to animals generally in an era when cruelty to the lower orders of creation was almost universal, but she had adopted this particular dog for her own. Doubtless her motherly bowels yearned for the little ones whom she had reared and who had gone their severalways after growing into blooming womanhood and lusty manhood. A dog was not much, but he served as a solace for her desolate old age. The dog was hers. And whether pug, water-spaniel, or one of other aristocratic lineage, history saith not. He was probably just plain dog. Upon him she lavished all the kindness and tender affection which had made her house a nest of refuge to those numerous young Hubbards whom she had lost. She hunted for bones for him when her own larder was empty. She sought to array him in purple and Irish linen. She went, weeping, to provide him with proper sepulcher when she believed him defunct. She would have done for him anything which lay in her power, and it was this patient, long-suffering never-tiring affection of her loving heart that not only educated the dog into the doing of remarkable stints, but caused the historian to immortalize her name by simply recording some few of her deeds.

Such in brief was the character of the Mother of all Hubbards. Slight and trivial as the records may seem, they are clear indications of some of the traits that have made the race notable. That these traits are hereditary no Hubbard can doubt, and there is none that can fail in filial, not to say grand-filial, respect for his great progenitress.

Her simple and touching annals have inspired not only the historian but the poet and artist, and to close this volume without an appropriate mention of her well-rounded out life would manifest such a marked lack of fair play and gallantry towards the fair sex that coming generations would feel injured beyond repair at such uncalled for and conspicuous omission.

Otherwise Hubbards

In case you haven't guessed the original author of the "Cwerubin" Hubbard story was Mark Twain, written during his newspaper reporting days. I took the idea and embellished it somewhat.

330. Normally I wouldn't take a distinguished Hubbard for our otherwise Hubbard section. I am doing it for two reasons. One I think these little yarns are funny, and two the author, Elbert Hubbard, told them about himself.

As a writer, philosopher, and businessman, he was much in demand as a speaker. He dearly loved to tell this one: The superintendent of a New York insane asylum invited him to address the inmates. "Never had I a more attentive audience, of course some of them laughed at the wrong place but that always happens." About half through his talk, and going strong, a gaunt old woman stood up, flapped her arms and shrieked in a high falsetto, "My gracious! I can't stand this damned foolishness any longer!" and stalked out.

Afterwards the superintendent told Hubbard "that was the first sign of returning sanity".

331. We thought you would all enjoy the following letter submitted by Mrs. Kenneth L. Hubbard of Arlington, Texas. It is printed with no changes or editing.

Dear Friend Hubbard .....Just received my HFNL....makes me rather sad....because I will now have to wait three whole months to get the next issue! It was great as usual....gets better all the time. I don't get these people and their complaints...costs too much, hogwash! I am paying $10 for a two issue per year magazine and some other publications that don't begin to compare with HFNL. Although, so far, I have not found anything that helps me, I know I will. The more people on the mailing list the better my chances become. Some of the material you have printed,farther back than my research, will undoubtedly be just what I'm looking for one day. I am proud of all copies and wouldn't part with a single one. Patience is one essential for the successful genealogist. (Would you listen to those wise words from a genealogist of one year's experience this very month). As some one said...."everything comes to him who waits." That should be the offical motto of all HFGNL subscribers.

Also, I believe in your "bread cast upon the waters" theory, so here enclosed find another crumb. Hope it is just what someone needs to put them back another generation. I figure if I help enough other people, sooner or later, the law of averages says someone will help me. Right!

Thank you for the $2. I haven't spent very much as yet. The xerox copies run ten, seven and sometimes five cents a copy....depending. I will now hunt you more data to spend the $2. Hope I am not sending you things you already have.

Note page 270 of the enclosed....Mary Greene Hubbard....do you suppose your Green Hubbard could have been out of this line originally? I am on the trail of a Green Hubbard in Texas in 1800s. Am waiting on a letter from a DAR connection.

After hearing from you about the contents of the October issue, my patience will really be tried waiting so long. I don't suppose you could run it off about two months early.... mmmm....no,guess you better not!!

I feel that I am one, among many, who appreciate all the work it takes to put out the HFNL. Not to mention the time involved. So keep up the good fight! "Kuz"

Family Histories

My Family History as I know it.

I am going to present the investigative process (Genealogical Research if you like) in the order of its development. It can be a lesson on how to or how not to conduct such research. I started out with the information that my father and two brothers and one sister were all born in Knox Co., Ky. during the 1860s. I knew my father, Reed Hubbard, was b 25 Aug 1865. He had two younger brothers, Jeff and Green, and a sister Mary deceased age 20.

A review of the 1870 Census for Knox Co., provided the following:

Pleasant H	24	pers. prop. $160.00, land $100.00	Farmer
Tousal	30
Reeder (Reed)	5	(25 Aug 1865 Knox Co)
Mary	3	(dt unk, Knox Co)
Jefferson	2	(28 Jan 1868, Knox Co)
Green	2 mos	(18 June 1870, Knox Co)

Neither Pleasant or wife Tousal could read or write. According to my father both died in Benton Co., Ark. after 1900. I have two unresolved questions about Tousal. From hearsay her maiden name was Jane or June Templeton. My father's name being Reeder (shortened to Reed) leads me to think she could have been a Reeder. Reason for this: my line has a tradition of giving the first born son the mother's maiden name either as a first name or middle name.

As neither grandparent could read or write no bible record was kept. What, if any, records they may have had are either lost or destroyed.

The 1880 Knox Co., Ky. Census shows essentially the same information as 1870, except Tousal is now shown as Louisa Jane, 41 years old. Her year of birth is shown as 1839, Ky. Pleasant b 4 Dec 1845 Clay Co., Ky.

Pleasant d 4 May 1902, Benton Co., Ark., bur Elm Springs, Ark., cemetery. His headstone contains the notation "Co H 24 Ky Infantry". My g m Tousal, or Louisa Jane, b 23 July 1839, place not shown, d 28 Feb 1909, Benton Co., Ark., bur Elm Springs, Ark., cemetery.

A review of the 1850 Clay Co., Ky. Census reflects the following:

Holland Hubbard	age 35	b KY	Farmer
Salley	age 26	b Ky
Theophlus	8	b Ky
*Pendent J.	6	b Ky
Pleasant	5	b Ky	(my g f)
Larkin	3	b Ky
Lijah	11/12	b Ky
John Hubbard	50	b Ky

*Pendent J. could be Ronda or Penda (sex unk). The relationship of John Hubbard to this family is unknown. None of the above could read or write.

A Clay Co., Ky. marriage bond was found dated 21 Jan 1841, for the amount of 50 pounds, announcing intention of marriage between James Hubbard, Jr., ca 25, and Cealy Ann Hubbard, ca 18. This hand written bond as follows:

"Know all men by these presents that we James Hubbard Jr & James Hubbard Sr are held and firmly bound into the Commonwealth of Kentucky in the penal sum of Fifty pounds current money which payment well and truly to be made we bind ourselves our heirs on this 21 day of January 1841 the condition of the above obligation is such that the above bond James Hubbard Jr. has this day obtained from William Williams clerk of the Clay county court a license for a marriage intended between the said James Hubbard and Cealy Ann Hubbard. If there be no lawful obstruction in said marriage then the above obligation to be void otherwise to remain in full force and virtue.

Attest — James Hubbard Sr.
W. Williams clk — James Hubbard Jr."

"State of Kentucky Clay County, To wit
I do hereby certify that the rites of matrimony were by myself on the present day solemanized, between James Hubbard Jr Cealy Ann Hubbard given under my hand this 21st day of January 1841.

George Stevens Sr. Esq. M. E. C."

Compilers Note: This document raises more questions then it solves:
(1) Who was James Hubbard Jr?
(2) Is he the same as Holland Hubbard in the 1850 census?
(3) Who was James Hubbard Sr?
(4) Was he James' father, Cealy Ann's father or father-in-law?
(5) Was Cealy Ann a cousin of James or the widow of some other Hubbard? Is she the same as Salley of the 1850 Clay Co., Ky. census?

The use of Jr. and Sr. at this time indicated one of the individuals was older than the other. In many cases the Junior was used for a nephew, especially if both had the same first name. Also in the case of two first names in a family one would use the middle name. Thus James Jr. may have been James Holland Hubbard. If so, his mother was almost certain to have been a Holland. This part of Kentucky had many Hollands and Hubbards. I favor the James Holland Hubbard for the following reason:
The 1860 Knox Co., Ky. census shows:

James Hubbard	48	pers. prop $300.00 Land $300.00
Lela	47
Thepolis	18
Jane	16
Pendant	14
Larkin	14
Elija	12
Hosaland	10
Elizabeth	8
Polly	2
Anna	2 mos

Again more questions: Is Lela the same as Cealy Ann of the marriage bond above and Salley of the 1850 Clay co., Ky. census? Or is she a 2nd wife? Note in 1850 Salley's age is shown as 26 and Lela's age is 47 in 1860 (after 9 children not surprising). James age does not quite match as he is shown as 35 in 1850 and 48 in 1860.

Compiler's Note: Census takers were prone to guess at ages if the individuals could not read or write, were not certain of their birthdate, or had no written record; they were also inclined to spell names according to sound and the sounding of names could vary with the amount of whisky drank that day or the amount of tobacco being chewed. Thus Cealy Ann could have sounded like Salley or Lela.

The 1860 Knox Co., Ky. census shows some of the children's names and ages as matching the 1850 Census fairly close: i.e. Thepolis 8 in 1850, 18 in 1860; Jane 16 not shown on 1850 Census; Pendent and Larkin now appear to be twins as both are 14; Lija 1850 and Elija 1860 are likely the same as the age would be very close; g f Pleasant now 15 is not shown in this family group. He was most likely up in the hills tending the family still that day. Note: John Hubbard 50 of the 1850 Census is not included in this family.

The 1870 Knox Co., Ky. Census shows the following:

James Hubbard	56	Pers. prop. $100.00 Land $150.00
Sela	47 (?)
Marinda	26 (?)
Elija	20	matches 1850 - 1860 census ages
Marland	18 (?)
Elizabeth	16	was 8 yrs old in 1860
Anna	14 (?)
Mary	12 (?)
Clara	7
Gillis	7	(I had a great-uncle Gillis)
Abby	5
Marida	1

Compiler's Note: Here we find James' wife is Sela which could be Lela 1860 and possibly Salley 1850 or Cealy 1841. Again ages do not match. The extra children brings the total to --- (Wow!). Of course some of the younger could be grandchildren. I doubt this however unless James or Cealy, Salley, Sela, or Lela had children by a previous marriage. Marinda 26 who suddenly appears on the 1870 Census could easily fall in this category or she may be related, a widow, or even a visitor.

The 1870 Knox Co. Census shows:

Hucpolis	27	Farmer: no value shown
Elizabeth	29
No children

Hucpolis could be Tucpolis as shown in 1850 and 1860 Census.

The same census shows:

Larkin	22	Farmer: Pers. prop. $90.00 Land $ 100.00
Sara	23
Catharine	2
James	4 mos

Larkin is close to the right age for the Larkin shown as 3 in 1850 and 14 in 1860.

Pleasant has previously been mentioned as appearing in the 1870 Census.

Another interesting little sidelight appears on page 1366, Ky. Land Grants in county court orders. The name James H. Hubbard shows up in Knox Co., Ky. which partly confirms my theory he was named James Holland Hubbard. The single asterisk (*) indicates James and his sons; my g f Pleasant. This index covers 1782 to 1924.

Grantee	Acres	Book	Page	Date Surveyed	County
*Hubbard, James H	25	69	522	8-27-1866	Knox	Lost Fork
Hubbard, Larkin	50	80	232	3-28-1870	Knox	Stinking Cr. Tom Br. M. Fk.
Hubbard, Pleasant	25	81	414	6-5 -1871	Knox	Lost Fk. Stinking Cr.
Hubbard, Elizabeth	200	95	186	12-15-1871	Clay	M. Fk. Ky. R.

Compiler's Note: It is easy to see that a great deal of the above is conjecture and guesswork. I could have presented this family history in chart form in its proper order. I did not for the following:

(1) I think this gives an excellent example of the "blood, sweat and tears" involved in genealogical research.
(2) How easy it is to get lost or mired down in a mess of conflicting details.
(3) The positive need to confirm details or facts before setting them in concrete.
(4) The number of undeveloped leads or investigative steps still to be worked on.

All of the above is the result of correspondence or records checks. No physical or face-to-face, fact-for-fact investigation has been undertaken. I feel reasonably certain a few days investigation in Knox and Clay Co., Ky. could resolve most of the questions still to be answered or verified. I am also most hopeful some one will recognize this line and join hands with me in the further investigation that is necessary. To make matters a lot worse I have fragments and pieces of information that take me further back in my line, as I am certain most of us have. These things merely help to confuse us and are best left alone until some verification can be established.

Are any of you working on a time travel machine?

This is a continuation of the Hubbard History of York County, Virginia, compiled by Mrs. Josephine Short Lynch, Houston, Texas, with the help of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Elliott, South Hill, Va.
This is continued from Issue 5, p 111 thru 114.

349. John Hubbard of New Kent County.
John Hubbard (5), son of Matthew Hubbard and Sibella Ham, inherited a tract of land "at Skimino", and a tract of land "that is above Charles Edmonds".

Charles Edmonds (in Virginia before 1653) patented 350 acres in York County which he subsequently sold to John Barsby 28 Jan 1662. (Pat. Bk 4, p 83) He patented 730 acres in New Kent County 29 June 1657. (Pat. Bk 4, p 101) He patented 2750 acres 18 March 1662 in New Kent County adjoining his own land. (Pat. Bk 5, p 235) This definitely places the land inherited by John Hubbard above Charles Edmonds as being in New Kent County.

John Hubbard is listed in New Kent County in the Quit Rent Roll of 1704 as owner of 827 acres of land. He is the only Hubbard listed in New Kent in this tax roll. No John Hubbard is listed in York County in 1704.

It has been stated that John Hubbard married Mary Harrison, but this must be questioned as Mary Harrison seems to be of the next generation. Others have stated that his wife was Elizabeth surname unknown. John Hubbard was born circa 1653/54 and he was married probably circa 1675. No marriage record has been found, but the compiler accepts that he probably married Elizabeth.

Because of the loss of the New Kent County records, it is not possible to document the line of John Hubbard from public records. This line can be established only by inference and through the elimination of other Hubbard family lines.

New Kent County was divided in 1691 into New Kent and King and Queen counties. That part of King and Queen County between the Mattapony and Pamunkey Rivers was cut off in 1701 to form King William County, which then lay between New Kent and King and Queen Counties. Almost all of the early records of these three counties have been lost, which makes it difficult to trace any of the families residing in the counties.

There is no known extant marriage record, but it can be accepted with reasonable certainty that John Hubbard married Elizabeth. Their children, however, cannot be completely proven or documented. We can accept the premise that the Hubbards found in the meager surviving records of New Kent and the counties later formed from New Kent were children of John Hubbard for there were no other Hubbards in the area at that period.

We have the early fragmentary records in the Register of St. Peter's Parish, New Kent County, the few surviving records of early land patents and the records of the Executive Journals of the Council of Colonial Virginia, the Quit Rent Roll, the few surviving records of St. John's Parish, King William County as the only available source for search. We find John Hubbard (Junr) and Samuel Hubbard listed in the register of St. Peter's Parish, and Charles and Benjamin in other records.

John Hubbard, born circa 1653/54, married circa 1675 Elizabeth whose surname is unknown.
Issue: (24) Charles Hubbard, (25) John Hubbard, (26) Samuel Hubbard, (27) Benjamin Hubbard

Since there are no other Hubbards listed early in New Kent, King William and King and Queen Counties, we have to assume that John and Elizabeth Hubbard were the parents of these four Hubbards.

350. John Hubbard of Caroline County.
Land Patent: 20 Feb 1719 - John Hubbard, Junr., 250 acres on the south side of the Mattapony River, and on the north side of the south River in King William County*... adjoining Daniel Coleman and John Madison, Junr. (Pat. Bk 11, p 4)

*Located in that part of King William County which was cut off in 1728 to form Caroline County.

John Hubbard was granted by patent on 31 Oct 1726 a tract of land containing 234 acres on the west side of White's Swamp in St. Margaret's Parish, King William County, adjoining the Coleman's line. (Pat. bk 13, p 29) There is no White's Swamp now in Caroline County. White's Swamp was probably the small stream on which is now located Colemans Mill Pond. (Index: Surface Waters of Va.)

It has been said that John Hubbard was a Quaker, but it would seem that he became a Quaker after his second marriage. That he became a Quaker in later life is established. He was a contributor to the building fund of the church, or the meeting house, of the Cedar Creek Monthly Meeting when this Monthly Meeting was established in 1739. He was named with Nicolas Stone in 1741 as an overseer. He was appointed with Richard Ballard to attend the marriage (Civil ceremony) of Manoah Chiles to Anne Cheadle in 1742. He continued to serve as an overseer of the Cedar Creek Monthly Meeting. He had removed to Amelia County, however, by 1744 when David Terrell was appointed overseer in the room of John Hubbard. (Cedar Creek Monthly Meeting)

John Hubbard (25) is posited as having married (1) circa 1706 Mary Harrison, but there is no known marriage record extant. It has been said that Richa d Harrison (born 1680) in his will (1722) mentions his sister Mary Harrison. There is only a fragment of this will now existing. The name Jno. Hubbard appears, but the remainder of the will is mutilated.
Issue: (28) Peter Hubbard, (29) George Hubbard, (30 Richard Hubbard

They were probably also the parents of John Hubbard listed in the Register of St. Peter's Parish, New Kent County, as "John", son of John Hubbard, baptized (mutilated)", and of Elizabeth Hubbard named as "daughter of John Hubbard, baptized 20 Nov 1709". John, son of John Hubbard, probably died young as John Hubbard named the oldest son of his (2) marriage John also. Elizabeth Hubbard is not named in the will and may have died also.

John Hubbard (25) is posited as having married (2) Sarah Stone, but all of the marriage records of Caroline County before 1787 have been lost. There is no known record of the marriage.
Issue: (31) John Hubbard, (32) Ursley Hubbard, (33) James Hubbard, (34) Daniel Hubbard, (35) Mary Hubbard, (36) Eusebius Hubbard

There is no proof that John Hubbard married Sarah Stone but the evidence is persuasive that he did. John Hubbard named his youngest son Eusebius. This given name has been found in early Virginia records only in the Stone family. Eusebius Stone witnessed a deed of Thomas Chew recorded in the Spotsylvania County. (Crozier: Spots. Co. Rec. p 175) This seems to be the same Eusebius Stone who left a will in Caroline County in 1786, but the will records have been lost. Only the order book entry ordering the recording of the will remains. This order book entry mentions the executor but not by name, and does not name the witnesses to the will though the entry states that the will was proved by the witnesses. (Caroline OB 1785-1787, pt. 1, p 220)

The will of John Hubbard divided 1200 acres of land between his six youngest children, but does not mention the two tracts of land in Caroline County. The latter two tracts (not mentioned in the will) would have descended to his oldest son by his (1) marriage as heir at law. He gave to his sons John and James 400 acres of land which lies in Brunswick County "that I had of my son Peter". This tract of land was actually located in the north-east corner of Lunenburg County. Lunenburg had been cut from Brunswick after the patent was granted, and after John Hubbard made his will.

John Hubbard gave to his sons "Usebius and Daniel the tract of land that "I had of my son George". He gave to his daughters Mary and Ursley (Ursula) the tract of land which had been patented in the name of his son Richard. These two tracts were adjoining and were located in Amelia (now Nottoway) County. John Hubbard had removed from Caroline County to Amelia by 1744, and was apparently residing on the tract of land which had been patented in the name of his son George. The younger children did not get the land as directed under the will however.

It seems evident that John Hubbard had patented the three tracts of land containing 400 acres and had put the patents in the names of his three older sons by his (1) marriage. Two tracts of land had been patented in the name of Richard Hubbard. The intent of John Hubbard can be only surmised, but it can be assumed that he intended that Peter should have one tract in Caroline and that George should have the other tract in Caroline. Richard had two tracts in his name and it can be assumed that he expected Richard to keep one of the tracts. By dividing the other land patented, each of his nine children would have land.

Following the death of her husband, Sarah Hubbard returned to Caroline with her children. She married as her (2) husband John Carter apparently soon after her return to Caroline. John Carter died before the 12 October 1750 when Sarah Carter applied for administration on his estate.

On the motion of Sarah Carter it is ordered that she have administration on the estate of her late husband, John Carter, deceased, who with William Underwood and Thomas Schooler her securities acknowledged bond for the same. Court 9 Nov 1750. (Caroline OB 1748-1754, pt. 2, p 238)

While no record has been found, John Carter may have qualified as guardian of the Hubbard children. After his death, guardians were appointed for the youngest children (four).

"With ye approbation of the Court, James Hubbard an orphan makes choice of Rice Curtis to be his guardian, who with William Waller his security acknowledged bond for the same:. Court 12 Oct 1750.
(Caroline OB 1748-1754, pt. 2, p 236)

George Carter is appointed guardian to Daniel, Mary and Eusebius Hubbard, orphans of John Hubbard, deceased, who are under the age of fourteen years, who with James Coleman his security acknowledged bond for the same.

And by consent of the parties, it is ordered that Rice Curtis, Thomas Madison, Thomas Walker and Samuel Haws, or any three of them, do settle the account of the administration of the said John Hubbard's estate, and except for specific levies, to divide the estate between the widow and their children. Court 14 Dec 1750 (Caroline OB 1748-1754, pt. 2, p 242)

That Sarah Hubbard married (2) John Carter has been questioned, but Peter Hubbard (as heir at law apparently) and wife sold a tract or tracts of land in Caroline County in 1750 to John Hart. Sarah Hubbard Carter joined in this deed. Since Sarah (Hubbard) Carter as the widow of John Hubbard would be entitled to a dower right in the land, it seems evident that she was a party to the deed to release her dower right. (see hereafter).

It seems evident that Sarah Hubbard, widow of John Hubbard married (2) John Carter, and that no settlement of the estate of John Hubbard was made until after the death of John Carter. Peter Hubbard did not sell the land until after the death of John Carter.

(28) Peter Hubbard, son of John Hubbard of Caroline, married Agnes Chiles, daughter of Manoah Chiles of Caroline County.
Marriage Record: Peter Hubbard and Agnes Chiles
9/10/1744 Son of John Hubbard of Caroline County
Daughter of Manoah Chiles of Caroline County
(Cedar Creek Monthly Meeting)
Manoah Chiles was a Quaker and Peter Hubbard became a member of the Cedar Creek Monthly Meeting, Caroline County. The families of Manoah Chiles and Peter Hubbard are listed on the roll in 1748. Peter was disowned and dismissed by the Cedar Creek Monthly Meeting in 1750 for "his not having due regard to the measure of Grace committed to him". (Rec. of Cedar Creek MM) This dismissal was apparently in regard to a dispute between Peter and his brother George concerning the estate of their father.

Peter Hubbard, as oldest son and heir at law, apparently, sold land inherited from his father in 1750, and he was joined in the deed by Sarah Carter.

Peter Hubbard and Agatha (Agnes) his wife, she being first privately examined, and Sarah Carter acknowledge their deed to John Hart which is ordered to be recorded, Court 9 Nov 1750 (Caroline OB 1748-1754, pt. 2, p 238) He sold the land patented in his name in Brunswick (now Lunenburg) County apparently soon after this, but the deed is not recorded. It was probably among the Lunenburg County records which are not of record in the existing books now and apparently lost.

" Peter Hubbard removed about 1751 to Anson County, N. C., where he died before 1773 when John Chiles was appointed guardian for his minor sons Peter, John and Manoah. Peter (age 17), John (age 10), and Manoah (age 7) were bound to John Chiles to learn a trade. This was probably the John Chiles, House Joiner, who resided in Mecklenburg County, Virginia, in 1766 but removed to North Carolina.

COMPILER'S NOTE: So much confusion exists over the descendants of George and Elizabeth Watts Hubbard, and George and Mary Bishop Hubbard that I am completely lost. This is, of course, perfectly natural as both lived in the same area of Connecticut at about the same time. Just about every second family history I get has the two families mixed up some place along the line. In Issue #2, January 1972, page 49, I mentioned this and cautioned all who are tracing these two lines to be especially careful. I hope those of you who have positive documentation about these two lines will be kind enough to contribute it for publication so any other cousins can correct their family charts accordingly.

(In the past issues I have listed a Horace Hubbard b 14 April 1799, place unk, d 11 March 1856 and buried in the Buckeye cemetery, Fairfield, Wayne Co., Ill. (Issue 4, para 280). I have another Horace Hubbard b 6 May 1789 (N. H. (?); m Phemia Wood (Issue #5, para 328). Many of those making inquiries about Horace Stocking Hubbard have not joined our association. I only hope they don't spend over $10.00 researching him. I feel badly about these things but I haven't the time or strength to answer all the queries I get. Mr. Davis gave us the following:

Distinguished Hubbards

360. Even Connecticut had a Hubbard for State Governor, but so did a few other favored states.

Richard Dudley Hubbard b 7 Sept 1818, Berlin Conn., son of Lemuel and Elizabeth (Dudley) Hubbard, a descendant of George Hubbard of Guilford, Conn. Graduated from Yale in 1839. He studied law under William Hungerford of Hartford, Conn. and was admitted to the bar in 1842. He was a member of the Connecticut legislature and States Attorney for Hartford County from 1846 to 1868. He was a member of the law firm of Waldo, Hubbard and Hyde of Hartford. In 1867 he was elected to Congress as a Democrat. He declined re-election. In 1876 he was elected Governor. He was the first to serve under the two year term in that state.

Gov. Hubbard m Mary Morgan of Hartford in 1842.
Children: Dudley b 1847; William b 1850; Catherine b 1853; Henry b 1855; Mary b 1859 and Nellie b 1861.

In 1886 Mr. George D. Sargent, in his will, left 5000 towards the erection of a statue to Gov. Hubbard. The statue was designed by Mr. Karl Gerhardt and unveiled 9 June 1890. It was inscribed "Richard D. Hubbard, Lawyer, Orator, Statesman". Gov. Hubbard stands in a natural position as though addressing a court or jury.

Otherwise Hubbards

361. The following item appeared in Walter Scott's Personality Parade 19 Nov 1972:

"Q. There is an heir of the Woolworth family who gets his kicks by beating up on girls. He was recently thrown in jail in England. Why has the case been hushed up in the U. S. ?

A. The character in question is Anthony Hubbard, a wealthy Woolworth heir who was sentenced to 15 months for assault and battery. According to charges on which he was convicted, he took a girl to dinner, brought her home to his apartment, beat her up when she said no. Says Hubbard, "I will give $25,000 to anyone who can cure my bad temper." "

Shall we try for the $25,000 reward? I have a very simple solution to his problem but suspect he would object.

362. Mrs. Ruth Hubbard Shrake, 333 So. Jordon Ave., Bloomington, Ind. 47401, contributed the following:

I am expecting a rash of letters from Hubbards and descendants claiming them as ancestors. By the way I am keeping my fingers crossed.

"While browsing through a "History of Wabash Co., Ind." (1884) recently I read of a sensational murder that was committed by a John Hubbard and his wife. On 7 Oct 1854 John and wife (unnamed) murdered Aaron French, his wife and five children - buried them under the French home then proceeded to take over the property and land. Their explanation was that the French family had left the county and sold out to the Hubbards. Some time earlier the Hubbards had murdered a young man named Edward Boyle. John and wife were both convicted; he was put to death and she was sentenced to hard labor for life. Several pages were devoted to this murder, although nothing mentioned as to the name of John's wife or where they came from. In the same county was living an Abigail Hubbard b 1837 whose parents were John and Abigail Coffin Hubbard, both of N. Carolina but this is probably a different family."

363. This is a letter from Mrs. Robert H. Bowling, 340 Live Oak Lane, Knoxville, Tenn. 37920.

I will write you this bit of information that may be of interest to you if you learn your ancestral line of the Hubbard family is part of the William Hubbard (see Issue 4, pp 90-91) family and William Hubbard (under Issue 4, para 273, p 96) and who are said to be the same man (Issue 2, para 210, p44 , para 210 in Mr. Luther R. Fruit's statements).

Around ten years ago a Mr. Hubbard in Farmville, Va. told me he is a descendant of William Hubbard of Halifax Co., Va. With pride he added "He was a Revolutionary War soldier. He was wounded and when his leg was amputated he played his violin through the whole time of the surgery".

(Compiler's Note: I hope I am a descendant of William for I like him as he is my kind of a relation.)

I feel few descendants have a similar story. Of course you know anesthesia, as we know it today, was discovered after the Revolutionary War. The patient was given brandy or liquor to help alleviate pain. In his case he was not too overcome, so was able to divert his attention to something more pleasant. An example worthy of repetition in many ways today.

I am sure this William is not my ancestor. Thank you for the copy of his will. He is not a kin to my line in any way so far as I have been informed up to the present date.

(Issue #4, para 273, p 96) Joseph Hubbard b 13 Feb 1762, Amelia Co., Va. (Revolutionary War private in Pittsylvania Co., Va.) departed this life 28 July 1851 is the Bible record. On 17 Sept 1850 he deeded all his land and slaves to one of his nephews. The 1850 census shows he has no occupation and owns only 850 dollars worth of personal property. (Deed recorded D. B. 52 (1849-1850) Pitts. Co., Va. - p 366.) Joseph Hubbard 89 yrs 7 mos 15 days old when he died had never married and has no descendants.

Note the parenthesis about war service. This part was not in that Bible record but seems so from what I wrote above. Please excuse this and I will not rewrite it. Joseph lived with his mother until her death and later resided in the house of his nephew to whom he deeded everything he possessed.

It is interesting also to me that you are publishing Mrs. Josephine S. Lynch's family history. I am greatly interested in this for many reasons. It covers my own study generation by generation until we get to Benjamin whose number is (27). Then:

1. Sarah the wife of Abraham Echols - His Will states positively that Benjamin and Edward Hubbard are her brothers.
2. Benjamin Hubbard
3. Edward Hubbard
4. Joseph Hubbard

are posited as the children of (27) Benjamin in her family record.

I mention this so that you may know I do not have sufficient evidence as yet and for that reason I sent in questions B-6, Issue #3, p 73; and B-11, Issue #4, p 102. I shall continue to hope some one can throw more light on this subject. You see there was another man born in England and we need more facts. I have one more clue that helps. King William's lost records and 2 men to separate!! Thanks for your help. Thank you, if you had time to consider all this. May interest grow as you continue to succeed. With my real appreciation.

Yours truly,
/s/ Noland H. Bowling (Mrs. Robert Bowling)

"I own a photostat of flyleaf out of 1828 dictionary with following inscriptions "Hubbard C. Stearn's Book N. 5" and "Fredk. Hollingsworth's Book, F. 8th, 1835". The latter was my great great grandfather born 1803, Ballinakill, Co Wexford, Ireland. Who was Stearns? Was his mother a Hubbard? Hollingsworth came to Cincinnati in 1829 and stopped with a relative named Thomas Hollingsworth, soap and candle maker, also from Co Wexford, whose wife was Lucy Turpen. Her parents were Henry Turpen and Mary Hubbard. Mary was the daughter of George Hubbard the Fifth, from the Middletown, Connecticut family, and his wife Mary Stocking. Is this a coincidence? Hollingsworth disappeared from Cincinnati about 1832 and appeared again in 1836 at LaPorte, Indiana to marry Elizabeth Brown. Was Stearns related to Lucy Turpen Hollingsworth? Where did he live in 1835? Did Frederick Hollingsworth get the book from him, or find it in a book store? Stearns had to be living in 1828.

396. PERRY L. HUBBARD

Taken from: Weik's History of Putnam County, Indiana, Indianapolis, Indiana E. R. Bowen & Co., 1910 pp 608-612

Few residents of Putnam County are as widely known and as highly esteemed as the gentleman whose name introduces this sketch. A representative of a highly esteemed pioneer family, and combining many sterling qualities of mind and heart for which his antecedents were distinguished, he took an active and influential part in the development of the section of the county in which he still lives, and after accumulating a comfortable competence retired to the town of Cloverdale, where he is now spending the evening of a long and useful life in quiet and content. In the time of the country's greatest need he demonstrated his love and loyalty to the flag by giving three and a half of the best years of his life to its defense, and is now one of the honored veterans to whom the Government is so greatly indebted for the strength and stability which has made it one of the great and influential powers of the world.

Perry L. Hubbard is descended from English ancestry and traces his family history in this country to about the middle of the seventeeth century, when three of the Hubbard brothers came to America and settled presumably in the colony of Virginia. Moses Hubbard, a descendant of one of these immigrants and a native of Albemarle County, Virginia, was the great-grandfather of the subject. Joseph Hubbard, his son, in an early day migrated to Garrard County, Kentucky. He died in 1853 at the age of eighty-six years, near Cloverdale, Putnam County, Indiana, leaving several sons and daughters, among the former being William H. Hubbard, whose birth occurred in Garrard County, Kentucky, on May 20, 1793.

Henrietta Baker, who became the wife of William Hubbard about the year 1817, was also a native of Garrard County, Kentucky, born April 7, 1803. She born him ten children, namely; James, Thomas, Joseph, Wesley, William, Pleasant, Lucinda, Nancy, Lizzie and Louisa Ann, of which large family none survive..... Mrs. Hubbard dying in 1839, Mr. Hubbard the following year, while on a visit to Kentucky, married Sarah Vest, with whom he lived in Owen County until the fall of 1870, when he removed to Cloverdale Township, in the county of Putnam, where he died on the 25th of May ensuing. Mrs. Hubbard departed this life in May, 1896. This marriage resulted in the birth of two sons, Willis and Perry L. of this review.

Perry L. Hubbard was born September 18, 1845, in Owen County, Indiana, and spent his early life on the family homestead, attending, during his childhood and youth the common schools of the neighborhood.

On May 31, 1867, he entered the marriage relation with Malinda M. White, who was born in Mercer County, Kentucky, September 22, 1847, being one of ten children whose parents, Burr and Lucinda (Salter) White, were also natives of that state.

Two children have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard, both daughters, Ella May and Luretta, the former born January 1, 1868, dying October 6, 1872; Luretta married Samuel McClure, a farmer of Cloverdale Township, Putnam County, and is the mother of four children.

I predict a Hubbard or Descendant will be President of the United States on or before 1990.

I predict a Hubbard or Descendant will be living on the moon on or before the year 2000.

I predict Hubbards and Descendants will be traveling to other solar systems by 2070 taking a microfilm copy of this history of the Hubbards.

I predict by 1992 we will harness and use energy from the Universe.

I predict micrographics will replace paper as a communications media before 1985. No more newspapers, books or other publications on paper.

397. The Hubbard family has been one of the most progressive and popular families in Cloverdale Township since the early history of the same and Putnam County has known no better citizen. One of the best known members of this family of the present generation is Jesse Lee Hubbard, who was born in this township January 7, 1862, the son of William and Catherine (Beard) Hubbard. William Hubbard was a native of Garrard County, Kentucky, born there October 17, 1816, and he accompanied his parents to Putnam County, Indiana, in 1831. He was the son of Wright and Lydia (Walder) Hubbard. Wright Hubbard and wife settled in the northeast part of Cloverdale Township and lived there the rest of their lives.

William Hubbard grew up on a farm in Cloverdale Township and on May 2, 1837, he married Mahala Peck, who died leaving five children, two of them still surviving, Jacob P., now in the state of Washington, and Lydia, wife of Hiram Moser, of Jefferson Township. After the death of his first wife, William Hubbard married Catherine Beard, June 2, 1853. She was born in Ohio May 1, 1832, the daughter of Phillip and Elizabeth (Doup) Beard. Her parents were from Germany and the voyage across the Atlantic required six months, during which time two of their children died and were buried at sea. The Hubbards came to Putnam County, Indiana, and entered land from the government in section 33, Jefferson Township, in 1847; they also traded for other land.

William Hubbard remained in Cloverdale Township, in the eastern part of which he entered land, Section 33. Five children were born to his last union; three of whom are now living namely; Hester A. Moors of Westfield, Illinois; Jesse Lee of this review; Hannah Horn lives in the east part of Cloverdale Township on the old homestead.

William Hubbard remained on his farm until October, 1888, when he moved to Cloverdale and lived until his death, April 24, 1889. His widow surviving until May 1906. They were highly respected people and had hosts of friends throughout his locality.

Jesse L. Hubbard grew up on the home place in Cloverdale Township and there assisted with the general work about the place until his marriage. October 2, 1888, to Rosa E. Horn, the daughter of Jesse Thomas and Nancy Elizabeth (Cox) Horn. She was born in Cloverdale Township. Her father was a native of Wayne County, North Carolina. He came to this country with his parents, John and Celia (Bogue)Horn. John was the son of Thomas and Phoebe Horn, the father dying in North Carolina, and his wife, Phoebe, came to Putnam County, Indiana, in an early day and located insections of 35 and 36, Cloverdale Township, where they entered government land. Jesse Thomas Horn lived most of his life in Putnam County and a while in Owen County. He is mentioned at great length on another page of this work.

Nancy Elizabeth Cox was born in the southeast part of Jefferson Township, this county, the daughter of William Norris and Hannah Pemberton (Powers) Cox. Her father was from Virginia and came here in the early days and entered land in Jefferson Township. He and his wife came all the way from the Old Dominion on horseback, Mrs. Cox carrying a baby in her arms. They located in the forest, for the land here was new and had to be cleared. They erected a two-room log cabin and began life in true first-settled fashion. The country was overrun with all kinds of wild game, and once during a storm, a herd of wild deer came up to their door. They entered their land near a spring, the ground high enough to be free from standing water.

After their marriage Jesse L. Hubbard and wife lived three years on the old Hubbard homestead. He already owned some land in Section 28, Jefferson Township, and built a house there after his marriage and moved into it. He has been very successful and has since added more land, now owning a fine farm of two hundred and eleven acres in Clover Township, thirty-seven acres lying in Jefferson Township, all joining in one piece, nearly all under cultivation and well improved. He carries on general farming and stock raising in a manner that stamps him as being abreast of the times. In 1892 he built a four-room house and in 1908 remodeled it, adding other rooms, so that it is practically a new house, is unusually well constructed and attractive from an architectural viewpoint. It is well suited in every way for a good comfortable home, having many of the very latest conveniences, such as a furnace, etc. It cost four thousand dollars, it is tastily furnished and about it is always an air of hospitality and cheefulness.

To Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard seven children have been born, namely: Anna Gladys is a graduate of the Cloverdale High School, William Thomas is living on a farm at Hooper, Washington, in the southeast part of the state; Robert Lee is attending high school; Hester Florence, Omer Worth, Theodore Von and Royal Glenn.

Mr. Hubbard in 1909 made an extensive tour of the West, visiting the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition at Seattle, Washington. Politically he was a first Democrat, but is now an ardent Prohibitionist and aids in the cause whenever possible. He is a member of the Modern Woodmen of America and he and Mrs. Hubbard belong to the Methodist Episcopal Church. They are regarded by their neighbors as being good hearted and generous, and their friends are numbered by the scores.

398. Mrs. Vesta Osborn, R-1 Box 204, Silesia, Mt., 59080 contributed the following pieces taken from "Pike County, Illinois History by Jess M. Thompson.

Again in the fall of 1821, Wood headed a second time into the northern wilds, undertaking to pilot a U. S. Army Officer, Lieutenant Laniel, up to Fort Edwards. He encamped where the lower steam saw mill (Hubbars's) stood in the early days of Quincy. Wood had never been up to the fort, but he succeeded in his enterprise and returned safely to his home. Page 43, Chapter 15.

The next morning a party went to the Sink-Hole and found the Indians gone, who had carried away all their dead and wounded except five dead bodies left on the northwest bank of the Sink-Hole; and by the signs of blood within the Sink-Hole it was judged that well nigh 30 of the enemy must have been killed or wounded. Lt. Drakeford Gray's report of the affair made eight of our party killed, one missing, and five wounded, making a total of 14; I had thought the number was nearer 20. Our dead were buried near the fort, when Captain Musick had the command. We that day sent out scouts while I proceeded to St. Charles to procure medical and surgical assistance, and sent forward Doctors Hubbard and Wilson. (Chapter 26, Page 77).

Laura Edith Fudge, born October 31, 1885, married, first, Charles A. Hubbard of Roodhouse, a native of Barrow, Illinois, and a son of David Hubbard and Emaline Houghton, May 20, 1909, and second, Frank Westell Mills of Independence, Missouri, son of Henry R. Mills and Barbara E. Hicks, the wedding being at Pittsfield June 9, 1920. They had one son, Westell Mills. They reside in Independence, Missouri. (Chapter 85, Page 257).

Perry, in 1837, sold a half interest in the Philips Ferry and 200 acres of land adjacent to it to a group of distinguished gentlemen, among whom were the Honorable Orvill H. Browning and Judge Richard M. Young of Quincy, Judge Samuel D. Lockwood of Jacksonville (who occupied the bench in the last sessions of the Pike circuit court at Atlas and the first at Pittsfield), Gordon S. Hubbard and Thomas Mather. These gentlemen paid Perry $6,000 for his half-interest in the early seat of the Philipses, and at once laid out two towns at the ferry, one on each side of the river, at the landings. The town on the Pike County side was named Velasco; that on the Scott (then Morgan) County side was called Brussels. Both were platted in the expectation that they would become great river ports. The plat of Velasco is still on file in the Pike County Court House; that of Brussels in the Morgan County Court House of Jacksonville. (Capter 116, Page 347).

Near the crooked Cuivre river and only a few miles back from the Mississippi, dwelt in the fall of 1936 a man by the name of Matthew Hubbard, who was very old, neither he nor his family having any record of the date of his birth. He was a descendant of Becky(probably Rebecca) Barnett, who was a child of Joseph. He related that his great grandmother and her sister, who married Samuel Lewis, had both lived in Illinois in the days of the Territory, and he thought that both had children born in Illinois Territory. He said they had first located in Missouri, and later, about the time of the Indian War or near the close of it, had moved to Illinois, returning again to Missouri Territory about then or a little before Illinois became a state. He thought both returned to Illinois many years afterwards and that both died in that state, although he couldn't be sure just where they died or where they were buried. (Capter 160, Page 459).

Among the early settlers from Missouri were the families of Thurman (Thrumon), Sinklear, (Sinclair), Collard, Cannon, Buckaloo, Wells, Capps, Harlow, Hubbard, Sconce, Mackey, Venable, Zumwalt, Sitton, Yokem, Jones, Harpole, Kerr, Bailey, Spears, Steele, Turnbaugh, Turner, McElfresh, Barton, Holland, Emert, Lilies, Ferguson, and McCoy. (Only part of paragraph, Chapter 161, Page 460).

Elijah Myers, and Hannah Barnett had a daughter Margaret Myers, who in Missouri married Eli Hubbard, son of Charles Hubbard, one of the pioneer settlers in what is now Pleasant Hill Township, where his life ended. Eli Hubbard was born in North Carolina, coming with his parents by way of Kentucky to Missouri in an early day. There he spent his early married life, coming thence to Illinois more than a hundred years ago and settling in Pleasant Hill Township, of which he was one of the pionners, being also one of the founders and proprietors of the town of Fairfield, now Pleasant Hill.

Eli Hubbard in 1853 went with a team across the plains to Oregon, where he bought land and engaged in farming. He later became a preacher in the Baptist Church in Oregon Territory. He died on a farm near, in the state of Oregon. He was one of several of the characters of this history whom we will need to follow as pioneers from Pleasant Hill to Oregon Territory. (The above two paragraphs, Chapter 161, Page 461).

William C. Hubbard, Pike County veteran of the Civil War, born at Troy in Lincoln County, Missouri, December 1, 1829, and long a prominent farmer in Barry Township, was a son of Eli and Margaret (Myers) Hubbard and a grandson of Hannah (Barnett) Myers.

John Sinklear and Mrs. Lydia Thruman were married at Pleasant Hill, October 16, 1851, with the Rev. David Hubbard, grand old pioneer of the Martinsburg and Pleasant Hill Baptist churches, officiating. (Chapter 161, Page 462).

John Buckaloo, son of pioneer Eliab, married Margaret Collard, daughter of Missouri Charles. Margaret died, and John later married Lucinda Elizabeth Firman, and they had a son, Eli Buckaloo, John Buckaloo died in 1838 and on his death bed requested that his father, Eliab, look after the boy and see to his property. Eliab was appointed by court as Eli's guardian. Eli's mother, widow of John Buckaloo, afterward married Thomas Harlow, who attempted to have Eliab Buckaloo removed as guardian, leading in 1839 to one of the exciting lawsuits of early days, wherein Belus Jones, Charles Hubbard, Robert Sutbblefield, (husband of Rachel Collard), Jesse Zumwalt, Kirgus (Lycurgus) Lewis (brother of Damaris Lewis Collard) and Martha Firman are named in records of the case as witnesses for Buckaloo, Eli, minor child over whom the controversy raged, died in the early 1840's while the case was still in court, preceding his grandfather, Eliab, who died in 1844.

The first settlers in Bay Creek Township early realized the need of educational facilities for their children. Some time in the summer of 1837 the first steps were taken by a small group of family heads to establish free schools in the township.

Pursuant to this idea, the heads of five of these pioneer families, all of them immigrants from Lincoln County, Missouri, were chosen as school trustees, including David Hubbard, Felix A. Coolard, James Liles, James Galloway, and William Steele. (Chapter 165, Page 471).

HUBBARD, Josiah Clark, M.D. (Physician)

403. With high standing as a physician and surgeon in Holyoke, Massachusetts, Dr. Hubbard also enjoys the esteem and confidence of his fellows as a good citizen. In estimating the character of Dr. Hubbard it is proper to consider the character and achievements of his forbears, who have been leaders in human effort in various walks of life, his father being especially noted as an educator.

(I) George Hubbard, the ancestor of this family, was born in the southeastern part of England, and came to New England in 1633, located in Watertown, where he remained until October, 1635, when, with a company of sixty men, women and children, he went to Wethersfield, Connecticut, to settle. He was a surveyor and was employed to survey the lines of Windsor, Connecticut, then called Dorchester, and Wethersfield, then called Watertown. For a year or so the Connecticut Colony was under the jurisdiction of the Massachusetts Bay government which appointed commissioners for the purpose, George Hubbard was a delegate to the first General Court in Wethersfield, and was representative in 1638-39. The records show that he was a prominent surveyor in the Connecticut colonies for many years. He lived in the eastern part of Wethersfield, which later became Glastonbury, and a portion of his original farm was at last accounts owned by descendants. After living in Wethersfield three years he went to Long Island Sound where he settled in the town of Milford, and later he sold Milford Island to Richard Bryan. He married Mary Bishop, who died at Guilford, Connecticut, September 14, 1675, daughter of John and Anne Bishop, early settlers of Guilford.

(II) John Hubbard, son of George and Mary (Bishop) Hubbard, was born in England, in 1630, and came to this country with his parents in 1633. He was one of a company, April 18, 1659, that organized the town of Norwottuck, or Hadley, and was admitted a freeman, March 26, 1661. After 1672 he went to Hatfield, and died there at the home of his son, Isaac Hubbard, in 1702. He married Mary Sheaf, and lived a few years at Concord, Massachusetts.

(III) Jonathan Hubbard, son of John and Mary (Sheaf) Hubbard, was born January 3, 1659, in Wethersfield, Connecticut, and died at Concord, Mass., July 17, 1728. He removed as early as 1680 to Concord, and married there Hannah Rice, of Sudbury.

(IV) Samuel Hubbard, second son of Jonathan and Hannah (Rice) Hubbard, was born in Concord, Mass., April 27, 1687, and died there December 12, 1753. He married Sarah Clark, of Concord.

(V) Lieutenant Samuel (2) Hubbard, second son of Samuel (1) and Sarah (Clark) Hubbard, was born in the year 1713, and died in Holden, Mass., Dec. 3, 1783. He was a soldier of the Revolution, lieutenant of his company. He married (second) Abigail Clark.

(VI) Elisha Hubbard, son of Lieutenant Samuel (2) and Abigail (Clark) Hubbard, was born in Holden, Mass., Dec. 20, 1774, and died in Vermont, July 17, 1814. He married Mercy, daughter of John and Azubah Hubbard.

(VII) John (2) Hubbard, eldest child of Elisha and Mercy (Hubbard) Hubbard, was born in Holden, Mass., August 24, 1768, and died in Windsor, Nov. 22, 1849. He was a farmer, residing in Springfield and Hinsdale, Mass. He was a man of high character and considerable influence. In early life, he was a teacher, a superintendent of school, a member of the Legislature, and presidential elector. He married Lydia Raymond, born May 26, 1768, daughter of William and Mercy (Davis) Raymond of Holden.

(VIII) Eli Andrews Hubbard, son of John (2) and Lydia (Raymond) Hubbard, was born in Cummington, Mass., Dec. 11, 1816, and died in Holyoke, Mass. He graduated from Williams College with the degree of A.B. and later received that of A.M. The greater part of his active life was passed in educational work. He taught in various public and private educational institutions of Mass., including Williston Seminary at Easthampton, and in 1865 was appointed the first superintendent of schools of the city of Springfield, which position he filled for nine years at the expiration of which time he resigned to accept a similar position in Fitchburg, Mass., where he remained for four years. He was appointed agent of the State Board of Education and filled this position acceptably for some time, after which he retired from active service. At the solicitation of the famous Dwight L. Moody, he assisted in organizing and took charge of a school for boys at Mount Hermon, and conducted it very successfully through a trying period of its existence. After his retirement he resided for a time in Hatfield, Mass., and removed thence to Holyoke, same state, where he spent the remainder of his days. While a resident of Northampton, he represented that town in the Massachusetts Legislature, and was widely known as an educator and public official. He married, August 19, 1844, Frances Daniels, born June 24, 1824, in Worthington, Mass., daughter of Captain Ranslow and Nancy (Starkweather) Daniels, of that town. Mrs. Hubbard died in Holyoke, Mass., 1913. They were the parents of two children: Emma L., who resides in Northampton, Mass., and Josiah Clark, see next paragraph.

(IX) Dr. Josiah Clark Hubbard, only son of Eli Andrews and Frances (Daniels) Hubbard, was born in Easthampton, Mass., Sept. 5, 1853, and was nearly twelve years of age when his parents removed to Springfield, March 17, 1865. He was a student of the public schools of that city, and of a private school of Northampton, conducted by Josiah Clark, where he prepared for college. Entering Williams College, he was graduated in 1877 with the degree of A. B., and immediately began the study of medicine with Dr. Morris Longstreth, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. In 1880 he was graduated from Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, and was appointed resident physician at Howard Hospital in that city, where he served one year, 1881, and since that time he has been actively engaged in the practice of his profession at Holyoke, Mass., at the present time (1917) enjoying the distinction of being the oldest physician in point of practice in the city, and one of the most highly esteemed as a leader in his chosen profession. Throughout his thirty-six years of active connection with the medical profession he has been a close and discriminating student, continually increasing his proficiency and consequently his patronage has steadily increased with the passing years. Dr. Hubbard is a man of genial temperament, masterful in his diagnosis and treatment, popular and known far and wide, and a citizen of whom the community may well be proud. In addition to his private practice, Dr. Hubbard has served on the staff of the Holyoke City Hospital, of which he has been superintendent for several years, and the House of Providence Hospital of Holyoke, and for a number of years has served in the capacity of trustee of the People's Savings Bank. He is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, a fellow of the American Medical Association; the college fraternity, Phi Chi, and of the Congregational Church.

Dr. Hubbard married, April 21, 1881, Mary Stowe, a daughter of William Stowe, a well known citizen of Springfield, who served as postmaster of that city for many years, and was clerk of the Massachusetts House of Representatives. They were the parents of one son, William Stowe, who died in 1883.

The following was extracted from the William and Mary College Quarterly, date unknown, by Mrs. Kenneth L. Hubbard

COMPILERS NOTE: During my research I have found James Hubard and members of his family are shown both as Hubard and Hubbard.

HUBARD FAMILY

403. Col. James L. Hubard sends the following list of the children of 13, James Hubard as found among his uncle's papers, and in the handwriting of his great-grandfather, 24, Col. William Hubard, of the Revolution:

Matthew Hubard, born March 11, 1736
Ann Hubard, born March 26, 1738
Elizabeth Hubard, born September 6, 1739
Mary Hubard, died an infant
James Hubard, born February 6, 1743
William Hubard, born December 19, 1744
John Hubard, born November 2, 1747
Margaret Hubard, born October 24, 1749
Mary Hubard, born June 12, 1752
Elizabeth Hubard, born September 15, 1754

Col. Hubard then adds the following interesting information:

I know that Col. William Hubard, of Charlotte, was the son of that "James Hubard, of Gloster," whose book-plate is in a book of his bought in London in 1735. Mrs. Virginia Van Voast, of Cincinnati, a descendant through his daughter Anne, who was Mrs. Col. James Taylor, wrote me that our said ancestor James married Anne Todd, aunt of Judge Todd, of Kentucky. My great-grandfather, Col. William Hubard, of Charlotte, was a physician, and graduated at Edinburgh after leaving William and Mary, and was the first senator from the district composed of Halifax, Charlotte and Prince Edward, after the republic was formed. The Charlotte county records show the following concerning him: In 1774 at July court said "William Hubard, gent., produced a commission from his excellency the governor to be a captain of a company of foot in this county, which was openly read, whereupon the said Hubard took the usual oaths to his majesty's person and government, and repeated and subscribed the test." When the Revolutionary War broke out he took the side of the colonists, and marched with a battalion to Fort Moultrie. There is a letter extant from General Lawson, urging him to again take the field and to march a regiment to Greene's command. He certainly appeared again as a field officer, doubtless lieutenant-colonel, and acted with conspicuous gallantry at Guilford Courthouse, where he had his horse killed under him. He was equally active in polities, and he was senator in 1785, and probably a member of the conventions before and after that date.

In 1786, he, at October court, produced a commission from Patrick Henry (Governor) to be colonel of the militia of Charlotte, and qualified. November court, 1787, he gave bond and qualified as sheriff; December court, 1787, was sworn as county lieutenant; July, 1788, again appointed and qualified as sheriff. He was a man of extensive and varied learning, and the intimate friend of Patrick Henry. He was also a man of wealth, but lost heavily by British debts that had to be paid after the war. Died 1805 or thereabout.

Dr. William Hubard married Frances Thruston (daughter of Col. Charles Mynn Thruston), 25th May, 1768. Their son, Dr. James Thruston Hubard, born January 13, 1776, married Susan Wilcox, of Buckingham county, Va., and moved there to live.

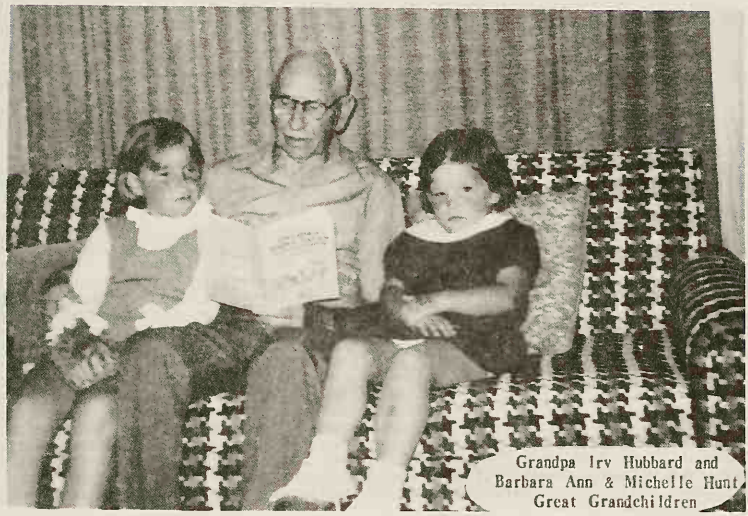
Descendants of GEORGE HUBBARD

1594 - 1960



Grandpa Irv Hubbard and
Barbara Ann & Michelle Hunt
Great Grandchildren

404. Mr. Irvin W. Hubbard, 69 Shirle Lane, Oceanside, Calif. 92054, compiled his family history back to George and Mary Bishop Hubbard of Conn. He was graciously contributed it for our use. I am certain many of you will find answers to your questions from it. I have had hundreds of letters from descendants of this line and Mr. Hubbard's book will answer a lot of them.

For indexing purposes I am going to give it my own paragraph numbers that will be continued through the entire series. In the index I will use my paragraph numbers followed by his paragraph number and subparagraph no. It will appear as para_____ followed by para. 223 Henry Hubbard sub para. 487 Nathaniel. I will use my own page numbers.

Mr. Hubbard's book, Descendants of George Hubbard, 1594-1960, will be continued in forth coming issues. Of course, he, like most family researchers followed his own main line of ancestors. In it you are going to find a lot of names. I can assure you its a treasure house for any researcher.

DESCENDANTS OF GEORGE HUBBARD: 1594-1960

FOREWARD

When I visited my cousin Charles Verne Hubbard at his home in West Palm Beach, Florida, during the winter of 1954, he gave me two books he wanted to stay in the Hubbard family. One of these books was Grandfather Hubbard's old family bible; the other was entitled, "One Thousand Years of Hubbard History" by Harlan Page Hubbard, compiled in 1896.

The old family bible contained hand-written records of births, marriages and deaths of some of my ancestors. From these records I learned for the first time that my great great grandfather was Sylvester Hubbard and that his wife was Sarah Lawrence. Some of the entries were in the handwriting of my father, Francis Irving Hubbard, undoubtedly made while the bible was in the possession of his father, George Henry Hubbard.

Studying these old records inspired me with a desire to learn something about my progenitors and I decided to record what I have learned for the benefit of those who descend from me.

The book, "One Thousand Years of Hubbard History" was published after about forty years of joint research by several Hubbard men who were genealogists and purports to cover Hubbard history from the year 966 to 1895 and contains about Twelve different lines of Hubbards originating in England.

My cousin Verne could not tell me which line was ours but when I got home in California I began to trace the most likely lines for clues that might connect our Hubbards to them. In the old bible Verne gave me I found that my great great grandfather Sylvester's death was recorded as follows: "Dyed March the 14th 1856, age 70 yrs. 5 Mo. 20 days". Subtracting this time from the date of his death I came up with the fact he must have been born on Sept. 24, 1785. I traced all the Sylvester Hubbards listed in the index of the Hubbard History and on page 235 a Sylvester, born about 1784, died 1819 and removed to Boston! I decided this was an error and that he did not die in 1819 but in fact moved to Boston.

Verne Hubbard told me that once when he was out driving with his father, Charles Hubbard, through the streets of Boston, that his father pointed out a location at 31 Ellery Street and said, "Verne, your great great grandfather, Sylvester Hubbard used to have a livery stable there". Also Verne's father told him that Sylvester's son Jerri Hubbard drove a stagecoach for his father on a route from Boston to Concord and up into Claremont and Newport, New Hampshire. Furthermore, my mother pointed out to me one day, years ago, the old Claremont Hotel in Claremont, New Hampshire and said, "Your great grandfather used to unload passengers in front of that hotel long ago." That was while we were living in Claremont.

In 1957 when my wife Harriett and I visited in the New England states we ate breakfast one morning in the old Claremont Hotel but it was called the Moody House then.

We made the trip to New England for the sole purpose of gathering information to aid me in writing a history of our Hubbard family but at that time I lacked the qualifications and experience so necessary in the search of ancestors. I lacked patience too, and failed to follow clues to the end. Now, in 1960, after I have had the opportunity to study some of the correct methods of genealogical research I have to rely on whatever historical records I can find locally.

Youth has little time to bother about the past. Even the most discerning are too involved with present day living to reflect upon the early life events of their parents or grandparents, much less their progenitors eight or ten generations back. But as the years roll by and retirement becomes their lot, there sometimes comes the desire for knowledge of those people, long dead, who were directly responsible for the physical characteristics and personal mannerisms inherent within themselves, and to impart to those whom they will ultimately leave behind, some perception of the excitement and romance of their own lives.

In the writing of this history it is fortunate that I can occasionally make reference to Harlan Page Hubbard's publication of 1896, "One Thousand Years of Hubbard History", which contains about a dozen lines of Hubbards and their descendants. Our line goes back to George Hubbard of Guilford, Ct., (see p. 199 H.H.), and descends as follows: George, b. 1756; John b. 1630; Isaac, b. 1667; Isaac, b. 1695; Isaac, b. 1730; Stephen, b. 1756; Sylvester, b. 1785; Jerri, b. 1808; George, b. 1836; Francis, b. 1862; Irvin b. 1892; Frank, b. 1919; Donald, b. 1947. As of 1960 it is 366 years in time and 13 generations.

During my 1957 trip east I visited and photographed the graves of some of the above ancestors: George's grave at Guilford, Ct., John's grave at Hatfield, Mass., Isaac No. 1 at Boston, Mass., George's at Springfield, Mass., (my father Francis is buried at Oakland, Calif. I could not locate the grave of Isaac No. 3 although we inquired at Wilmington, Vt., where the Hubbard History states he was buried. No trace of Stephen's grave not that of Sylvesters although the latter is believed to be buried at East Lexington, Mass.

How to Trace Back a Line of Descent:

Suppose Irvin W. Hubbard wishes to know how he is descended from George Hubbard of Guilford, Ct. He will first look in the index and find his number is 1695. He will see that his father's number is 1673; that his father was George Henry Hubbard whose number is 1611. Turning back to this last number he will see that the father of George Henry Hubbard was Jeremiah Hubbard, no. 1389. Turning to this number he will find that the father of Jeremiah Hubbard was Sylvester Hubbard, No. 809. Turning back to this number he will find that the father of Sylvester was Stephen Hubbard, No. 420. Turning to this number it will be found that the father of Stephen Hubbard was Isaac Hubbard, No. 200. Turning to this number he will find that the father of Isaac Hubbard was Isaac Hubbard, No. 91. Turning to No. 91 he will find the father of Isaac Hubbard was Isaac Hubbard, No. 21. Turning to No. 21 it will be found that the father of Isaac, No. 21 was John Hubbard, No. 2. Find No. 2 and it will be found that his father was George Hubbard of Guilford.

ORIGIN OF THE NAME HUBBARD

The story of the origin of the name Hubbard was so well narrated by Harlan Page Hubbard in his, "One Thousand Years of Hubbard History", that I am going to quote it here in its entirety because the above mentioned history is out of print and there are only a few copies in existence.

"The compiler having received from high English authority (notable from a Member of Parliament, the late Right Hon. John Gellibrand Hubbard, Baron, the first Lord Addington and Governor-General of the Bank of England) versions unanimously supporting the family traditions regarding the origin of the name HUBBARD, with considerable confidence presents herewith the following narrative, with its very dramatic climaxes, as the correct source of the name, which name, with its time-producing corruptions, has now overspread the world. From a crude, though reliable, semi-barbaric Danish and Saxon literature these historic gems have been mined and burnished, and are now offered to HUBBARD descendants with the compiler's strongest assurances that the appraisement of their historic worth has not been one of overvalue; nor has it been colored at the expense of probity with rich and sensational embellishment. The latter indulgence is the license of the poet and novelist but not that of the historian and genealogist."

"Upon the accession of King Ethelwulf in 839 to the throne of Wessex--consisting of the provinces of Kent, Essex and Survey, in Britain--about the first matter to spur his activity was the beginning of immediate preparations to resist the invasions of the rapacious Danes, or Norsemen, who ruled the northern seas, the Orkney and Shetland Islands, and Jutland (or northern seas, the Orkney and Shetland Islands, and Jutland (or the Scandinavian continent) with unquestioned authority and rigor. Scandinavia was the birthplace of a savage set of men who, like the Saxons of old, spent the best portion of their lives on the waves, despising the tranquil enjoyments of peace, and cultivating instead the art of unlawful acquisition and rapine. Their maritime situation familiarized them with the science of navigation. The children of these sea-kings were educated to piracy. The eldest son received the patrimony of the father, and the remaining sons were given swords and ships with which they were expected to go forth and acquire glory and riches. Until the ninth century these adventurous sea-robbers confined their operations to their own waters. But later on, possessed of the spirit of Alexander the Great, and hearing stories of the great wealth of the Latin dominions, they embarked for the southern seas on their free booting expeditions. Their first attempts were directed toward the British Isles. Then they desolated the coasts of Gaul and Spain, and, venturing into the Mediterranean Sea, taught also the inhabitants of those shores how to tremble. The establishment of the duchy of Normandie, the Danish dynasty in England, and, afterward, a kingdom in Italy, are monuments of their courage and perseverance.

They made three important descents into England during the ninth century, one being upon the Isle of Thanet, and the other two upon the coasts of Northumberland and into the county of Kent. The famous King of the Franks, Charlemagne, sometimes called 'Charles the Hammer,' son of Pepin the Short and Bertha, and grandson of Charles Martel, conqueror of the Huns, Slavons, Saracens, Arabs and Britons, wept tears of sorrow at the future of his people at the hands of these wild Northmen. According to Guizot's History of France he thus expressed himself to his Court. 'Know ye, my lieges, wherefore I weep so bitterly? Of a surety I fear not lest these fellows should succeed in injuring me by their miserable piracies; but it grieveth me deeply that whilst I live they should have been nigh to touching at this shore, and I am a prey to violent sorrow when I foresee what evils they will heap upon my descendants and their people.' Charlemagne died Jan. 28, 814; and during the ninth and tenth centuries in verification of his prediction the Northmen made no less than forty-seven incursions into France.

John Lingard, D.D., a famous Catholic-English historian, says in better and more perspicuous language than the compiler can perhaps summon, that 'among the sea-kings was Ragnar Lodbrog (RegnerLodbrok or Lodbrock) and his two* sons, Hingua and HUBBA (Ingua or Inguar--Ubba or Ubbo) who was one of the most adventurous and successful. On the shores of the Baltic, in the Orkneys and the Hebrides, in Ireland, Scotland, and Northumbria, he had diffused the terror of his name. In France the intrepid pirate had conducted his fleet up the Seine, spread the flames of devastation on each of its banks, and taken possession of Paris, which was redeemed from destruction only by the payment of 7,000 English pounds of silver. By his orders ships of a larger size than had hitherto been navigated by his countrymen were constructed for an invasion of England; but, whether it was owing to the violence of the weather or the unskillfulness of the navigators, they were wrecked on the coast of Northumbria. Ragnor with several of his followers reached the shore, and, heedless of the consequences, commenced their usual career of depredation. Though the Northumbrians had cast off the yoke imposed on them by Egbert, their country was torn by civil dissensions; and at this very moment their chieftains were divided by the opposite pretensions of two competitors, Osbert and Aella. At the first news of the descent of the Northmen, the latter flew to the coast, fought with the plunderers, made Ragnar prisoner, and immediately put him to death. He is said to have been devoured by snakes, and to have consoled his last moments with the hope 'that the cubs of the board would avenge his fate.' Nor was he disappointed.

*Thomas Keightley, historian, says 'three sons--Halfdan, Hingvar, and Hubba.'

His sons, Hingua and HUBBA, who were in Denmark, swore to avenge his murder. The relations, the friends, and the admirers of the dead chieftain crowded to their standard, and eight sea-kings, with twenty jarls (noblemen) combined their forces in the pursuit of revenge and plunder.'

In 868 King Ethelwulf having been dead several years--also his two older sons, Ethelbald and Ethelbert--the crown of Wessex descended about 871 upon Ethelred, the third son. There also remained the youngest son Alfred, known afterward as Alfred the Great, who ably assisted his brother in their stout resistance against these ubiquitous Norsemen.

In the Fall of 866, with an immense fleet and 20,000 warriors, Hingua and HUBBA landed on the coast of East-Anglia or Kent to avenge the foul death of the 'old boar.' They fortified their camp strongly and awaited reinforcements from the Baltic, spending the winter in procuring horses and in corrupting the loyalty of some of the Northumberland chieftains toward their own king, Ethelred. In February, 867, they left their camp on the coast and marched landward and seized York. Osbert and AElla patched up a truce between themselves, united their forces, and engaged Hingua and HUBBA outside of the city, and eventually drove them back within its walls. The Northumbrians battered breaches in the walls, rushed through, and fell upon Hingua and HUBBA's forces with great vigor and fury, but the ferocious Norsemen in their savage desperation finally turned and dispelled their relentless foes. Osbert was killed and AElla was taken prisoner. Hingua and HUBBA now enjoyed the exquisite pleasure of torturing the men who had thrown their father into a cage of snakes to be devoured, and well they used the opportunity. The punishment they inflicted upon AElla is called in Danish vernacular 'at rista orn'. It consists in dividing the ribs, drawing the lungs through the opening and pouring salt upon them. Thus was King Ragnar Lodbrog (i.e., Ragnar of the 'Shaggy Brogues') avenged by his loyal 'cubs.'

This last victory gave to Hingua and HUBBA undisputed possession of all that dominion south of the Tyne and north of Nottingham. The native inhabitants were constrained to purchase the friendship of Hingua and HUBBA, who immediately began to prepare for a southern invasion. Leaving a small force in possession of York to cultivate the country and retain possession of it, they proceeded against Ethelred and Alfred. They crossed the Humber into Lincolnshire, burnt the rich monastery at Bardenay and put its occupants to the sword. A small army of Saxons in the district of Kestevan stopped their progress for one day, however, killing three of the Danish chieftains, but soon the victorious invaders were sweeping on to the monastery of Croyland. Oskytue, a Danish leader, forced open the gates, and beheaded the abbot on the steps of the alter. Having pillaged and burnt the monastery, they marched to Medeshampsted, where the inhabitants resisted them stoutly and wounded Hingua. Soon the gates gave way and the bloodthirsty Danes slaughtered all whom they found, not sparing it is said women and children who had sought refuge in the abbey. HUBBA, to avenge his wounded brother, slew with his own hand the abbot and eighty-four monks. From the ashes of Medeshampsted they proceeded on to Huntington, destroying it, and then took the Isle of Ely. The nuns in this monastery were descended from noble Saxon families, and yet escaped not the cruelty and lust of these barbarous invaders. The King of Mercia, St. Edmund, was captured at Hoxon-on-the-Waveney, bound naked to a tree, and, at HUBBA'S Command, was whipped and otherwise tortured and finally beheaded. They met King Ethelred and Alfred the Great at Excesdune (Aston), and after a terrific battle were routed and in confusion fled as far as Reading. Bacseg, a Danish King, the jarls Osburn, Frean, Harold, and the two Sidrocs were killed. 'A solitary thorn tree points out the spot on which the Danes were defeated'. Other battles were afterward fought at Basing and Morton, in Berkshire, in which the Danes were victorious, they having received fresh reinforcements from the Baltic. Ethelred was killed, and then the invaders returned to Reading to divide their spoils and rejoice in the glory of their conquests.

In 878 Hingua and HUBBA with a fleet of 23 ships 'ravaged the coasts of Demetia or South Wales, and, crossing to the northern coast of Devonshire, the sanguinous HUBBA landed his troops in the vicinity of Apledore. It appears as if the two brothers had previously agreed to crush the king (Alfred) between the pressure of their respective armies.

At the castle of Knywith, built upon an almost impregnable rock, Odun,* the Saxon leader, took his position. The Danish leader (HUBBA) was too wary to hazard an assault, and calmly pitched his tents at the foot of the mountain in the confident expectation that the want of water would force the garrison to surrender. But Odun, gathered courage from despair, silently left his entrenchments at the dawn of morning, burst into HUBBA's camp, slew him, with twelve hundred of his followers, and then drove the remnant of the routed army to their fleet. Odun captured HUBBA'S lucky battle-flag, the mysterious standard of Ragner, the 'Reafan,' (raven) which was 'woven in one noon-tide by the hands of the three daughters of Ragner.' The superstition of the Danes had accustomed them to watch this bird on their standard as they marched to battle. If it appeared to flap its wings, victory was certain, but if it hung motionless in the air they anticipated nothing but defeat.

* Also spelled Odin and Oddune.

Humans are our most precious asset. They make our society, change it, improve it or destroy it. Without humans, no doubt the world would be better of.

The real key to our social problems is the development and improvement of the human species. Why don't we?

Thus perished HUBBA, and also for a long time the martial fire that burned within the breasts of the adventurous Danes, though Hingua afterward invaded Ireland, but was killed there, while Halfdene and Gothrun, the successors of Hingue and HUBBA, made a very creditable stand against Alfred the Great at Ethandune. Gothrun was captured by King Alfred, but was permitted to live on the condition of his embracing Christianity, which he accepted, and, with thirty of his followers, was baptised at Aulre, Alfred being Gothrun's god-father. They jointly signed a compact wherein it was declared that 'the lives of Englishmen and Danes were of equal value.' It is not related what became of Halfdene (Haldan or Halfdane), possibly the brother of Hingua and HUBBA.

'The Hinguas, ''the Gothruns,' and 'the HUBBA'S,' then in the main adopted the names of their kings, with the habits of civilization, and, acquiring an interest in the soil, helped the Britains to protect it against subsequent marauding invaders; and sometimes these unwelcome visitors were their own erstwhile countrymen, but their allegiance to their adopted country was true, and they became during Britain's rapid advancement toward commercial and agricultural supremacy, her most skilled and reliable husbandmen.

The rapid and extensive movements of HUBBA over the territory now England and Wales, and his penchant for encamping upon and fortifying high places, has been of great value to the historical and archeological student, leaving as he did indubitable traces of his remarkable marches. Throughout Britain and Wales have existed seven historic eminences that have borne the name of 'HUBBA'S Hill.' The picture of one spot has been happily preserved, though not located upon an eminence. Francis Groce, Esq., F. A. S., in his 'Antiquities of England and Wales,' thus refers to a spot known as 'Hubba Stone Priory' (also Hubberston, or Hubbaston), and gives, with the foregoing inscription underneath, in the work, an illustration of it: 'The ruin stands in Pembrokeshire, not far from Milford Haven, and is called by the inhabitants the priory; but whether for monks or nuns, or what order, and when and by whom founded, are particulars not handed down by tradition, or, at least, not known by the generality of the neighboring people. The building here shown seems to have been part of the gatehouse, in all likelihood the principal one belonging to the monastery. This view was drawn by Mr. Grimm anno 1771.'

Mr. Walter Hubbell, in his 'History of the Hubbell Family,' infers that this family might also have descended from Hubba the Dane, making still another addition to the long list of names that had for their root 'Hubba.' He quotes Rev. William Arthur, father of the late lamented ex-President Chester Alan Arthur, as saying in his 'Etymological Dictionary of Family Names' that it had this origin, and surmises that Hubbell came from Hubba's Hill perhaps, rendered 'Hubb'll' by local pronunciation. In his preface Mr. Hubbell says: 'For me to assert that the early members of the Hubbell Family were lineal descendants of Hubba the Dane would be suppositious; but I do say, and without fear of contradiction, that the surname Hubbell is of Danish origin.' He claims no kinship with the Hubbard Family, and the compiler found no proof either of any affinity with it, though the word Hubba could easily have been the common root of both.

Referring to Francis Groce's account of Hubba Stone Priory, Mr. Hubbell says further: 'It is most probable that the ruin thus described was never erected nor used as a priory but was the remains of a fortress or castle erected and inhabited by Hubba; for his last permanent fortification is known to have been near Milford-Haven, where his fleet harbored and whence he crossed the channel, landed from his twenty-three ships in Devonshire, England, where he was slain in battle. From the vast amount of historical research I have made in regard to this subject, I have been led to believe that several hills in Britain upon which he and his band had previously encamped afterwards bore his name. The name Hubba is not only very ancient in British history, but probably of great antiquity in Asia. * * *Mr. Harmuzd Rassam paid a visit to the mounds called by the Arabs Tell Abu Hubba; the mounds, which are very extensive, cover an area of two miles in circumference, and the position of the walls and citidels is clearly marked by mounds and embankments of debris. Like most Babylonian edifices, the buildings at Abu Hubba are built with the angles to the cardinal points (here follows a full description of the citadel and its environments). * * * The remote ancestors of Hubba the Dane came from Asia, and it is more than probable from the very valley where the ruins--beneath the mounds of Abu Hubba--were discovered. Now, as personal names are handed down for centuries, why may not the name Hubba have been used by the remote ancestors of the chieftain in Asia? The very fact of the existence of the name in Asia at the present day indicates to my mind that it is of an antiquity probably as great as the ruins discovered beneath the mounds.'

In a historical account of Whithy Abbey, Yorkshire, England, the subject is thus touched upon: 'This monastery continued in a flourishing state until about the year 867, when a party of Danes under Hubba and Hingua landed at Dunesley Bay, two miles westward of this place, and encamped on an eminence on the east side thereof, still called Raven's Hill, which name it is supposed to have been obtained from the figure of that bird being worked on the Danish ensign which was there displayed. From thence, straggling into the country, they plundered and laid it waste, and among other depredations entirely destroyed this monastery, which lay in ruins for many years. The community being dispersed, only Titus, the abbot, fled with the relics of St. Hilda to Glastonbury.*

* The reputed birthplace of George Hubbard, the American emigrant.

We must become a race of creators not producers. Machines can produce but they can't create.

Man power should never be measured in terms of productivity. He really is not very good at this task.

'Old English History' and David Hume also relate much of him. The following is another extract: 'In 871 Hubba and Hingua took St. Edmund, the King, prisoner at Thetford, in East Anglia. They offered him his life and kingdom if he would forsake Christianity and reign under them. When he refused they tied him to a tree and shot at him with arrows, and at last cut off his head. In the churches at Norfolk and Suffolk are to be seen pictures of him pierced with arrows. The Danes at the time killed Humberht, Bishop of the East Angles, and after ravaging the country and burning the churches and monasteries, they went into Mercia and carried on their depredations.'

The compiler in his researches has been often amazed at the number of grotesque mutations the name HUBBARD has undergone, fully equaling the number of ways the name 'Shakespeare' has been spelled, which it is said overruns fifty.

He has seen it spelled Hobbert, Hobart, Hubert, Hubard, Hobard, Hobbard, Hubord, Hubberte, Hubart, Hobbart, Ouabert (French Canadian). Hubba, Hubb, Ubba, Ubbart, Ubbo, Hobert, Huberd, Hobert, Hubbar, Hubber, Hubbud, Hubburd, Hubud, Horberd, Horburd, Horbert, Hobbud, Hebbard, Hoebard, Hubbed, Hobbed, Hubed, Hobbar, Herbut, Herbeord, Hobook, Haburd, Hubird, Hobat, Hubbirt, Hubirt, Hobbet, Harburd, Hebberd, Heburd, Habberd, Hoppert, Harbard, Hapberd, Herbert and Happert.

There are many descendants in this country who use the common form of Hubbart, Hubert, Hubbert, Hobert, Hobard and Hubard. The writer holds to the theory that HUBBA is the root of these multiform corruptions, though some other descendants incline to the contrary opinion. There was dense confusion in spelling names in the fifteenth century, the orthography being then very loose. Surnames only began to be adopted after the Norman Conquest (1066), and then only gradually and by families of rank. Almost all parish and legal records were written in Latin from the eleventh to the sixteenth century, which created great difficulty in furnishing the correct translation of proper names. Early town scribes in this country wrote the name as fancy guided them, totally indifferent to the perplexity they were surely entailing upon an enquiring posterity. The writer saw in an old town record the name HUBBARD (referring to one individual only) spelled in four different ways. With such indubitable proofs of this system of variform orthography in the early days it is taking an indefensible position to insist upon the unimpeachability of any of these names regarding their purity of origin.

Nothing is known authentically of George Hubbard's early life in England. This period was during the declining years of Queen Elizabeth's reign and the commencement of the Personal Rule of James 1st. An England made poor by war with Spain; economically weak by the loss of trade with foreign markets; politically disturbed by friction between the Crown and Parliament; and divided religiously as a result of the Reformation. It was a period so drastic that the stay-at-home Englishman sought a better place to live. Those who did eventually leave England were mostly inspired by one of three things: for economical reasons, to better their station in life or for religious freedom. It is also probable that a few left to seek romance and adventure.

I found no record where any Hubbards were prosecuted or persecuted for religious beliefs so do not believe our George left England for any such reason. At the time he left England he was 39 years old, married and the father of a nine year old daughter Mary and a three year old son John and it is unlikely that romance or adventure was his inspiration. Many of his neighbors and friends were migrating to the new world and this might have influenced him in his decision to go.

The records of vessels leaving England for America prior to 1634-5 are either lost or as yet have not been sorted from the maze of papers that still remain stored away in England and I was unable to determine the name of the ship that brought George and his little family to America nor the exact date of his departure but it was probably during the spring or summer of 1633 and aboard a ship of sail, no doubt somewhat similar to the Mayflower.

Captain John Mason wrote to the Secretary of the Admiralty on July 11, 1635 that, "the ships trading to New England exceeded forty." Winston Churchill in his History of England, Vol. 2 p. 171, regarding this period of migration, "many people of independent minds began to consider leaving home (England) to find freedom and justice in the wilds of America". In 1629 there was reported to be about three hundred Englishmen settled in New England. By 1633 they were pouring into the new world by the thousands; 14,000 by 1640 estimate.

So it came about that George Hubbard and his little family were carried along with the current of this swiftly moving stream of eagerly departing colonists. Tradition has it that he came first to Watertown, just outside Boston, Mass., sometime during 1633. At that time there had already been established in America the following colonies: Roanoke Island in 1587, Jamestown, Va., in 1609, Plymouth, Mass., 1620, New Hampshire 1622, Massachusetts Colony 1628. The greatest concentration of colonists was about Boston.

Human energy to be of value must be used in the creative process. For this reason we have the task of improving the race to the fullest extent for our own benefit.

Winston Churchill's History, Vol. 2 p. 172 reads as follows: "The leaders and ministers who ruled Massachusetts had their own views about freedom. It must be the rule of the Body. They understood toleration as little as the Angelicans and disputes broke out about religion and recalcitrant bodies split off from the parent colony when such quarrels became strident. Outside of the settlement (Massachusetts) were boundless backening lands. In 1635-6 some colonists moved to the valley of the Connecticut."

George Hubbard left his three year old son John with his friends the Merriams, then living in Concord, Mass. They had been neighbors in England and had preceeded George to America by several years. George then took up residence with his wife and daughter Mary at Watertown, Mass. He was unable to obtain land there so together with other newly arrived colonists, religious and political dissenters, left Watertown and went seeking new territory.

They went west toward the Connecticut River. Harlan Page Hubbard's History on page 200 relates of this migration as follows, "May 6, 1635 permission from the General Court of Massachusetts Bay was granted to the inhabitants of Watertown to remove themselves to any place they shall think meet to make choice of, provided they continue still under this government...the occasion of their desire to remove was, for that all towns in the Bay began to be much straitened by their own nearness to one another, and their cattle being so much increased.... In the summer of 1635 a few explorers from Watertown established themselves where Wethersfield at length grew up... Oct. 15, 1635 about sixty men, women and little children went by land towards Connecticut with their cows, horses and swine, and after a tedious and difficult journey, arrived safe there."

(Still quoting from H. P. Hubbard's history) "With these migrators went George Hubbard, his family, another George Hubbard relationship, if any, unknown. The winter of 1635-6 was a bitterly cold one. Snow and ice surrounded their poorly constructed habitations and their furniture and provisions sent by ship did not arrive, being frozen up in the Connecticut River, so that they had to subsist that winter on acorns, malt and grain. Some of these migrants died that winter and a few turned back to Watertown and a third number took off towards the mouth of the Connecticut River to meet the ships bringing their furniture and provisions." (Quote ends)

George Hubbard, his wife and little daughter Mary evidently remained as we find George, in the spring and summer of 1636 in company with Samuel Wakeman and "Ancient" Thomas Stoughton making a survey of land along the Connecticut River for the purpose of laying out plots for each of the remaining families. H. H. history, page 200 relates it as follows: "In 1636 George Hubbard and Samuel Wakeman were authorized by the General Court of Connecticut, assisted by "Ancient" Thos. Stoughton, to consider the bounds and survey the breadth of Dorchester (Windsor) towards the Falls, and of Watertown (Wethersfield) towards the mouth of the River." Wethersfield, according to H.H. page 201"...originally comprised a parallelogram of land extending east and west nine miles and south six miles and was divided by the Connecticut River so as to leave three miles by six miles of territory on it's eastern bank or 54 square miles."

They go on further to state: "...this strip of 54 square miles was bounded in the North by what was afterwards the Hartford line, upon the South by what was afterwards the Mattabesett or Middletown line, on the East by the "wilderness" and on the West by Tunxis or Farmington."

This tract was purchased from an Indian Chief named Sowheag of the Mattabesetts, Wongunks or Blackhills Indians. The original deed is not on file but to confirm the title to this purchase the General Court placed on file George Hubbard's deposition which he sent from Guilford where he later went to live. The deposition reads as follows:

Guilford, June 16, 1665. "This is to certify unto all whom it may concern: That upon his certaine knowledge, by the advise of the Court, Wethersfield men gave so much unto Sowheag as was to his satisfaction, for all their plantations lyeing on both sides of the Great River, with the islands, viz, 6 miles in bredth on both sides of the river, and six miles deep from the river westward and three miles from the river eastward." Thus testifyeth George Hubbard. (His signature)

Taken upon oath before me William Leete. This is a true copy of the original, being examined and compared therewith this 18th day of May 1667, per me John Allen, Secretary.

The eastern portion of this tract was called Naubuc Farms. (Now North and South Glastonbury, and in 1639 was surveyed by George Hubbard a "prominent surveyor" by order of the General Court and was then apportioned to the original settlers. These lots extended from the Connecticut River east three miles and were very narrow that all might have water on the west, fertile meadows in the center and woods and pasturelands on the east. They were called three mile lots and numbered up to 44. George Hubbard's being number 14 in North Glastonbury. It was 32½ rods wide containing 195 acres and layed between Thomas Ufford's lot on the north and George Wylly's (Gov. of Conn. 1642) lot on the south. George Hubbard's descendants later bought Wylly's lot and kept it in the family until 1850 or later. In 1672 this eastern section of Wethersfield was enlarged by an addition of 30 square miles upon it's eastern boundaries called Eastbury and gave Glastonbury considerable dimension.

If government was restricted to the business of government, what a wonderful thing that would be.

The west side of the river, Wethersfield proper, had lost some of it's territory by 1896, Stephey Parish and Rocky Hill being taken out, also Newington and part to form Berlin. The river also, by that time, had encroached by a change of channel at the expense of Wethersfield and to the advantage of Glastonbury which gained thereby, Manhannock Island, of about 200 acres which was mentioned in George Hubbard's deposition aforementioned. On this Island lived Thomas Wright and his descendants and was renamed Wright's Island.

George Hubbard lived about three years at Wethersfield, on the east side of the river, and then with his neighbors, Thomas Ufford, W. Fowler, Rev. Peter Pruden and others went southward to the shores of Long Island Sound and settled the town of Milford, Connecticut. There were 44 names of original Milford settlers which appear on page 1, book one of Milford records and bears the entry date Nov. 20, 1639. Those 44 represented only heads of families. George Hubbard was granted the 10 acre tract on Milford Island called Paquahaug by the Indians, which he farmed until 1650.

On January 15, 1644 George Hubbard was admitted to the church of Milford. In 1650 he sold Milford Island to Richard Bryan and moved with his son-in-law, John Fowler to Guilford, Ct. where his wife's parents, John and Anne Bishop had preceeded him. George Hubbard's daughter Mary had married young John Fowler while they were living in Milford.

George Hubbard had already purchased or obtained property in Guilford in 1648, prior to moving there, having acquired Jacob Sheaffe's property. George was admitted into the Guilford church on Oct. 6, 1650, either the Congregational or Episcopal as they were the two established churches at that time. During the years 1652-55-57-58-60-62-65-66 he was a deputy magistrate. In 1666-67 he was a member of the Assembly at the union of Hartford and New Haven colonies. In May 1670 the Court invested him with authority "to joyne persons in marriage". He was a man of high standing and prominent in politics of his time and died in Guilford, Jan. 1683. His will is on file in Vol. 1, p. 96, 97, Probate Record Office, New Haven, Ct., and is dated May 23, 1682, with a codicil dated, Dec. 30, 1682, inventory taken May 30, 1683 as 564 pounds sterling, 8 shillings and six pence. He was buried in the graveyard then located south of where now (1960) stands a soldier's monument in the village green at Guilford, Ct. This cemetery was used until 1817 when two new ones, called East and West, were begun. The pond-holes were filled by leveling down the hillocks. The Episcopal and Congregational churches and the town hall removed and the old headstones were scattered about the town. Some were taken to the new cemeteries and tumbled up against the fence; some were claimed by descendants, while others were laid around the churches to catch rain water from the eaves and to make runways for small boys. During the summer of 1957 my wife and I visited Guilford and attempted to locate the grave stones of George and his wife Mary but we could find only one Hubbard stone; that of Thankful Stone Hubbard, first wife of Daniel Hubbard, a descendant of George and Mary Bishop Hubbard.

George Hubbard and wife Mary had eight children:

1* Mary, b. England 1625, m. John Fowler in 1647. 2* John, b. England 1630, m. Mary Merriam about 1648-9. 3* Sarah, b. Wethersfield, Ct. 1635, m. Daniel Harrison. 4* Hannah, b. Wethersfield, Ct., 1637, m. Jacob Melyen 1662. 5* Elizabeth, b. Wethersfield, Ct., 1638, m. Deacon John Norton. 6* Abigail, b. Wethersfield, Ct., 1640, m. Humphrey Spinning, Oct. 14, 1675. 7* William, b. Milford, Ct., 1642, m. Abigail Dudley. 8* Daniel, b. Milford, Ct., May 26, 1644, m. Elizabeth Jordan, Nov. 17, 1664.

1 Mary Hubbard, daughter and eldest child of George and Mary Bishop Hubbard was born in England about 1625 and came to Watertown, Mass., near Boston in 1633; married John Fowler at Milford, Ct., where she had gone with her parents in 1647. John and Mary moved to Guilford Ct., in 1650 and he was the Marshall there from 1652 to 1661 and deputy magistrate from 1661 to 1664. From Aug.3, 1669 to 1673 he was "sole deacon of the church" and also deputy to the Colonial Court until his death which occured Sept. 14, 1676. He lived on the corner of what is now (1960) Broad and Fair streets, diagonally opposite to his father-in-law's house (George Hubbard) which faces Fair Street. Mary died April 13, 1713. (Both of these houses were still standing and in good condition when I visited Guilford during the summer of 1957 and the home George lived in is still owned by some of his descendants and contains among other relics a cabinet that George brought over from England in 1633). John Fowler was one of the two sons of William Fowler who landed in Boston, Mass., June 26, 1637, leaving there March 30, 1638 with Mr. Davenport and others to Quinnipiac, (New Haven) arriving there in about two weeks. He lived there about a year or more; his name was on the first tax list, Number 43, recording a family of three. His estate was valued at 800 pounds; 47 acres in First Division, 9½ acres in "neck" 41½ acres in Meadow and 166 acres in the 2nd. Division. William Fowler died Jan. 25, 1661. New Haven Colonial Records No. 2, p. 230, 300, Feb. 22, 1669. Will Island was granted to John Fowler. Mar. 9, 1676 the town voted there should be two garrisons, one at the Rev. Mr. Elliott's and the other at Deacon John Fowler's, during the King Phillip War John Fowler died Sept. 14, 1676. His widow Mary Hubbard Fowler died April 13, 1713. Their children were: 9. Abigail, b. Dec. 1648, d. 1651. 10. Mary, b. Dec. 15, 1650 ds Oct. 15, 1670. 11* Abraham, b. Aug. 29, 1652 m. Eliz. Bartlett d. Dec. 5, 1720. 12. John, b. 1654. 13. Mehitable, b. 1656 ds. 2 John Hubbard, eldest son of George and Mary Bishop Hubbard, born in England about 1630 and came, an infant with his parents, to American in 1633. It is claimed by some of his descendants that he lived for some time with the Merriam family at Concord, Mass., there being no evidence that John was with his parents while they were pioneering the wilds of Wethersfield, Milford and Guilford, Connecticut. It is fair to assume that he stayed with the Merriams until he was old enough to fall in love and marry Mary. He and Mary Merriam were married during the year 1648 and soon thereafter moved to Wethersfield, Ct., where their first four children were born. Their first child, a little girl whom they named Mary after her mother was born Jan. 27, 1650 but lived only a few days.

It is probable that John was induced to go to Wethersfield to work land taken up by his father, George Hubbard, at the time Wethersfield was first settled. However, by April 18, 1659 John and a number of his neighbors met at Goodman Ward's house and "engaged themselves under their own hands to ... move out of the colony into the jurisdiction of Massachusetts". Some thirty persons signed this agreement which was accordingly begun at Norwottuck (Hadley) Mass., with Rev. John Russell, Jr. as the spiritual leader and governing power of the band. He was made freeman March 26, 1661, which meant he was a member of the church and entitled to vote. Five more children were born to John and Mary at Hadley. On Nov. 8, 1662 the east side inhabitants of Hadley agreed to have Thomas Wells and John Hubbard carry their grain over the river to the mill on certain days of the week and to bring back the meal, at three pence per bushel, to be paid in wheat at three shilling six pence; and Indian corn at two shilling three pence per bushel.

In January of 1677 John Hubbard's daughter Mercy, along with Ruth Warner, was presented before the jury for wearing silk, contrary to law, "in a flounting manner, and excess of apparel to the offense of sober people". The girls were admonished and ordered to pay the clerk's fee and witnesses. Mercy was 13 years old then.

The History of Hadley records John Hubbard as residing on Lot No. 9, N. lot, on the east side of the street and assessed a tax of 6 shilling 5 pence for construction of Fort River Bridge in 1681.

After 1682 John went to live with his son Isaac who had settled in Hatfield, Mass., and died there in 1702. Isaac had a large house in Hatfield which is still standing and when I visited there in 1957 was still in the hands of Hubbards, descendants of Isaac. Along side of the home property is a five acre cemetery which was donated to the town by Isaac. John is buried there and I took pictures of his large grave stone. His wife's name is on the stone, too, but it is not known if she was buried there. It is possible she was buried in the Merriam family plot at Concord, Mass. The children of John and Mary were: (15) Mary, b. Jan. 27, 1650, dy. (16*) John, b. Apr. 12, 1655 m. Mary Wright, d. 1748. (17) Hannah, b. Dec. 5, 1656 d. 1662. (18*) Johathan, b. Jan. 3, 1658-9 m. Hannah Rice d. July 17, 1728. (19*) Daniel, b. Mar. 9, 1661, m. Esther Rice d. Feb. 12, 1744. (20*) Mercy, b. Feb. 23, 1664, m. Jonathan Boardman. (21*) Isaac, b. Jan. 16, 1667 m. Anne Warner d. Aug. 7, 1750. (22*) Mary, b. Apr. 10, 1669 m. Daniel Warner. (23) Sarah, b. Nov. 12, 1672 m. Samuel Cowels.

3 Sarah Hubbard, second daughter of George and Mary Bishop Hubbard, was born at Wethersfield, Ct., in 1635. She married Daniel Harrison, son of Richard, Jr. who came to New Haven in 1644. This family of Harrisons moved to Newark, N.J. where many Connecticut families were going about the 1665 and settling there. The children of Sarah and Daniel Harrison were: (24) Samuel. (25) Benjamin. (26) John. (27) Joseph. (28) George. (29) Daniel.

4 Hannah, third daughter of George and Mary Bishop Hubbard, was born in 1637 at Wethersfield Ct., and married Jacob Melyen, son of Cornelius Melyen of New Haven in 1662. The Melyens came from Holland to New Amsterdam, thence to Connecticut before 1655, when Jacob and his father took the freeman's oath. After 1663 Jacob and his family moved to Boston, Mass., where he was a leather merchant and a constable. His will, probated Dec. 26, 1706 names widow Hannah and children. Hannah died in 1717. Their children were: (30) Samuel. (31) Abigail, m. William Tilley.

5 Elizabeth Hubbard, fourth daughter of George and Mary Bishop Hubbard was born in 1638 at Wethersfield, Ct. She married very late in life, Deacon John Norton a widower, son of Thos. and Grace Norton of Guilford, Ct., formerly of Ockley, Surrey County, England. He first married Hannah Stone, daughter of William and Hannah Stone, daughter of William and Hannah Stone. William was made freeman in 1667 and died Mar. 5, 1704. It was not known which wife was the mother of his children but probably his first wife. Children: (32) John, dy. (33) John. (34) Samuel. (35) Thomas. (36) Hannah. (37) Mary.

6 Abigail Hubbard, fifth daughter of George and Mary Bishop Hubbard was born in 1640 at Wethersfield, Ct., and was baptised May 26, 1644, in Milford, Ct., and married Oct. 14, 1657 Humprey Spinning of New Jersey, nephew and legatee of Humphrey Spinning who came from the Delaware River County in 1639 to New Haven. Abigail Hubbard is supposed to have died after 1662 and prior to 1682. Their children: (38) John, b. Feb. 11, 1659 m. 1st, Deborah Bartlett. 2nd. Rachael Savage. (39) David, b. Feb. 5, 1661. (40) Abigail, b. 1662.

The one way to control ever-growing governments is to restrict the amount of taxes they can collect.

This is a continuation from Issue #6, page 131, paragraph 352, compiled by Mrs. Lynch.

405. George Hubbard and Judith his wife of the Parish of Westover, Charles City County, to James Lamkin of Amelia County and Parish of Nottoway,...cons. 40 pounds... Tabb, Mitchell, Dandy, et als.
Wit: Tho. Colley, John Fisher, Jeremiah Lamkin, /s/ George Hubbard

Deed dated 29 Sept. 1759 Recorded the same day Ref. Amelia County Deed Book 7, pg 179

John Crew was a Quaker and George Hubbard became a member of the Cedar Creek Monthly Meeting after his marriage. George Hubbard, as an heir, claimed his share of the property of their father in Caroline County which descended to his brother Peter as heir at law. Peter Hubbard, apparently, refused to give up the land, and George Hubbard was subsequently disowned, apparently, but the record is not clear, because of his dispute with his brother Peter. "George Hubbard Desiring the advice of friends about suing for sum land he hath a Right to by his Father, and the heir at law Refuses to acknowledge the same. Therefor this meeting Doth hereby appoint Henry & David Terrell & Jno Cheadle to Inquire into the truth of the matter."

He removed before the Revolutionary War to Burke County, Georgia, and lived subsequently in the upper part of Richmond County and then in Columbia County, Georgia. Issue: Not traced.

(31) John Hubbard, son of John and Sarah Hubbard of Caroline. The records are unclear and inconclusive. He may have died in Caroline County in 1751.

(33) James Hubbard, son of John and Sarah Hubbard of Caroline. He may have died in Caroline County, but because of the loss of the deed and will books (the order books are not indexed) no record has been found. The only James Hubbard listed in Virginia tax records 1782-87 was James Hubbard of Petsworth Parish, Gloucester County.

(34) Daniel Hubbard, son of John and Sarah Hubbard of Caroline County, b. circa 1737, in Caroline County, resided in Louisa County. It is said that he received a grant of land for service in the French and Indian War, but the list of those granted Land Bounty Certificates does not include his name. John Dalton of Louisa County on 14 Feb. 1780 received a certificate for service in 1759 in Capt. Hubbard's Company of Rangers. It is said that he married Sarah Pasteur by 1766, but W. Mac. Jones (Douglas Register, p. 140) gives the date of marriage of Daniel Hubbard and Sarah Pasture (Pasteur) as 17 Nov. 1756. Daniel Hubbard would have been about twenty years old then. About 96% of government services and goods would be cheaper if obtained from private enterprise.

(b) Eusebius Hubbard, son of John and Sarah Hubbard of Caroline County, was born 1743/44 in Caroline County before his father removed to Amelia County. He is posited as having married Amy Durrett of Caroline County in 1764. Durrett Hubbard, their (1) child, was born 1765. All of the marriage records of Caroline County before 1787 have been lost, and there is no extant record of the marriage. The loss of the deed, will and marriage records of Caroline County makes it impossible to determine the parentage of Amy Durrett. There were several Durrett families residing in Caroline County near the Hubbard family.

Eusebius purchased 28 July 1767 from William Calloway 390 acres of the Little Otter River in Beford County which he sold 23 August 1768 to Daniel Weisega (Weisiger) of Chesterfield County. He removed to Henry County. He signed the oath of allegiance in 1777 in Henry County, and resided there until after 1785 when he joined the trek of Henry County people to Madison County, Ky. He appears in the records of Madison County in 1790, but about 1800 removed to St. Louis County, Missouri. He had obtained a large grant of land in Missouri from the Spanish Government. This is the family coat-of-arms of James Hubard mentioned in paragraph 403, pg. 147, Issue No. 6. Can anyone verify it's authenticity or verify it as genuine?

In order to become civilized, the human race must outlaw war and all of its machinery and manpower and learn to settle disputes by debate and legal processes.

Humanity must plan and organize a planitary government built on a bill of human rights that will provide equality and justice for each of us.

I have seen a letter of Matthew Hubard to his mother, Mrs. _____ Hubard dated from London, December 30, 1782, informing her of events since his arrival and how that humane and generous nobleman, Lord Cornwallis, "had invited him to accompany him to the East Indes, a proposition which "my good friend, Lord Dunmore," advised him by all means to accept. He sent his love to his "dear brothers and sisters," and desired "Morton Hubard, and Aunt Dooley and all the family" to write to him. There is also a letter to Mrs. Frances Hubard from Lord Dunmore, brother, James Murray who asks after Miss Charlotte and Betsy," and sends "my kindest compliments to my Dear Fanny Hubard," to whom he was reported to have put his addresses. Those letters are in the possession of Mrs. Hubard's great-grandson, Otis Bowyer, Esq., of Baird, Texas. He has a silhouette of James Hubard, of Williamsburg, and he has the original die from which the book plates of James Hubard were struck. He kindly presented the editor with a book-plate used by James Hubard, which represents Hobart (Hubard) impaling some other family unknown to him.

There is a suit among the chancery papers in Williamsburg entitled Dorothy Jordan, widow and John Nesbit Jordan, only son and heir of John Morton Jordan, late of Annapolis, Md., deceased, vs. John Skinker, executor, and Sukey his wife, executrix, of the will of Thomas Jett, deceased, who was executor John Morton Jordan, deceased William Storke Jett, administrator of Thomas Jett, deceased, and executor of Wm. Bernard, deceased, who was another executor of John Morton Jordan, and Wm. Bernard a devisee of said Wm. Bernard, deceased, and Wm. Gibson." Suit began in 1792. Wm. Storke Jett was son of Thos. Jett, two of whose letters have a black seal with three deursidetts, as coat-of-arms. (From King George Records, Thomas Jett had two brothers--Burkett, will proved 1771, and Francis, will proved 1761--his wife was Frances _____.) John Morton Jordan was partner of Robert Maxwell, Merchant of London, from 1766 to 1769. He visited Maryland in 1769, and was agent for Lord Baltimore. He died July 23, 1771, in Bermuda. He married Dorothy, daughter of Nesbit Darby (and Elizabeth, his wife, aged 65, in 1799.) There are depositions of Elizabeth Darby, of Charlotte St, Pancreas Parish, Middlesex county, Eng; Mary Darby, spinster, of same place, aged 45; of Edmund Jenings, Esq., of Kensington, Middlesex County, aged 70 (in 1799); Samuel Gist, of Tower St, Bedford Square, etc.

Joseph Morton's daughter, Betty McCarthy Morton, married George Payne, of Goochland. Their tombstones are in the Payne burying ground, near Goochland C. H., according to which she was born February 9, 1746, and died September 13, 1807, and he was born January 9, 1743, and died May 3, 1831, aged 88 years, three months and twenty-four days. In the same place is the tombstone of Col. Matthew Mountjoy Payne, "born in Goochland, Virginia, 1787, served forty years in the United States Army, wounded at Palo Alto. Died 1862, aged 75," The will of George Payne of the parish of St. James, Goochland, dated December 3, 1744, proved January 15, 1744-5, names wife Mary, sons, Josias, George, John, and grandsons Augustine and Jesse Payne, and granddaughter Agnes Payne. The following marriage bonds are in the clerk's office:

1. George Payne Jr., to Agatha George, December 22, 1754. Security Williams Mitchell (James George, father of Agatha, and Josias Payne, father of George Payne, write notes of consent.) 2. Robert Payne, Jr., to Anne Burton, daughter of Robert Burton, July 20, 1762. Security Josias Payne. 3. William Heale, son of George Heale, of Lancaster county, to Susanna Payne, daughter of Josias Payne, the elder, June 21, 1762. 4. Josias Payne, Jr., to Elizabeth Fleming, with letter of consent from Josias Payne, father of Josias, Jr., August 24, 1755. Witnesses: Thomas Fleming and William Mitchell. There is also a marriage bond dated June 28, 1770 (which bond seems to identify these Paynes with the Paynes of the Northern Neck), of Burgess Ball, of Lancaster county, to Mary Chichester. Security, Archer Payne, containing letters of consent from James Ball to the marriage of his ward (Burgess Ball) and from Josias Payne in behalf of Miss Chichester (see Hayden's Virginia Genealogies.)

Nicholas Meriwether, in his will dated January 21, 1753, proved July 18, 1758, mentioned brother William and Francis, and his three sons and daughters, and wife Frances, who married secondly, Dr. Samuel Pryor, and in 1769, she makes a deed of gift to her son George Meriwether.

As shown by the will of John Morton Jordan of Annapolis (Quarterly, Vol. V., p. 107, Frances (Meriwether Pryor was his half-sister, and Joseph Morton's full sister, and therefore aunt of Frances Hubard, wife of James Hubard, of Williamsburg.

In 1740 Benjamin Hubbard was a prominent merchant in King William county, and in 1774, Benjamin Hubbard was one of the Caroline county committee. I do not think these Hubbards were relations of the Gloucester and Williamsburg people and it appears to me now that Anne Taylor, wife of James Taylor, of Caroline (see Vol. V., p. 211), was daughter of this Benjamin Hubbard, of Hubard, of Caroline.

Rev. William Hubard (numbered 15 on p. 204, Vol. IV), son of James and Elizabeth Hubard, subscribed the "Association," in 1774 (Vol. V., p. 98), and was minister of Warwick parish in same year (Vol. V., p. 203).

We are supposed to have about 3 lbs. + or -, of brains per person. 100 persons = about 330 lbs. Think of the quantity of brains of 3-4 billion of us! What if we used all that brain power?

111

We have no family tree, and, strange to say, no knowledge whatever of my great-grandfather's brothers, Matthew and John. The painter Hubard must be descended from one of these, judging from his surprise on meeting my father on one occasion whom he first took for his brother, but I do not know. Rev. Mr. Loyd, of the Episcopal church, Lynchburg, married Miss Ellen Hubard, daughter of the painter. Possibly she could give you some points. James Hubard, in the above list, we have always supposed was the Hubard of Williamsburg, who went off with Lord Dunmore, returning after the way and dying in New York, was buried in Christ Church there, but his descendnats all lived in Virginia and claimed relationship with my father and uncle. One of his daughters, married Mr. Sinclair, of Stanton; another a Mr. Greggs, a lawyer of Clark, or Jefferson; another married Mr. Bowyer, near Lexington, Va. His descendants were Hubard Bowyer, Mrs. Judge Colston, Mrs. Judge Brokenborough, Mrs. Poindexter and Henry Bowyer, of Botetourt county.

I find a doubt in my own mind after reading your magazine whether James Hubard, of Williamsburg was not the first cousin, instead of brother of my great-grandfather, William Hubard, of Charlotte. Mr. Otis Bowyer, a descendant of James Hubard, of Williamsburg, inferred they were brothers, because they had the same coat-of-arms, and one of them had Gloster scratched out and Williamsburg put in its place, besides the old people all claimed relationship, yet they may have been only first cousins.

Owing to the two brothers, James Hubard, of Gloucester (died 1774) and Matthew Hubard, of York Co., both having sons called James, much confusion has resulted, and from this confusion my own narrative is doubtless not free. The facts seem to be these: James, the son of James Hubard, of Gloucester, was born February 17, 1743-'44. James, son of Matthew, of York Co., was under sixteen years and the eldest of four children, when his father made his will, May 9, 1744 (proved November 18, 1745). The latter then must have been the James who was usher of the grammar school in William and Mary College in 1752, and the lawyer who qualified in York court in 1759 and advertised to practice law in Williamsburg and surrounding counties in 1769. In May, 1760, James Hubard, Jr., George Davenport and Peter Pelham (all of Williamsburg) were appointed to supervise the printing in Williamsburg, of treasury notes. If this had been the son of the Gloucester gentleman, he would have been hardly sixteen years old. In November, 1762, James Hubard, of Williamsburg, was already married to Frances Morton and for some time had been making deeds to real estate. James Hubard, son of James Hubard, of Gloucester, would have been, at this time, hardly more than eighteen years. As a man of property, James Hubard, of Williamsburg, was also, in 1769, secretary of the Board of Trade, which met annually at the city of Williamsburg. Then we have James Hubard, Jr., of Gloucester, marrying Miss Molly Whiting in July, 1775, and in 1780 he acted as commissioner in Gloucester for escheated lands. (Virginia Gazette). In 1782, Mrs. Frances Hubard on the other hand, was acting in her own name in Williamsburg when she made a deed. Tradition has it that James Hubard of Williamsburg, was a loyalist, and that he went to New York and died there during the Revolution. Certain letters in the possession of the family seem to give order to this view. How come it, then that in December 1774, he was of the Committee of Safety for Williamsburg and on July 5, 1776, was appointed of admiralty along with Joseph Prentis and John Tyler, for the enforcement of the restrictions against the enemies of America. Perhaps the answer is that while he endorsed the preliminary steps of the Revolution he did not approve the policy of separation.

This is a continuation from Issue No. 5 p. 117, para. 328, by Roberta H. Costley
409. After living in Nelson for a few years he bought a farm, which he stocked with merino sheep, and from that time on was an enthusiastic sheep breeder.

Dr. Hubbard was a self-made man, of great natural abilities and tireless energy, and had the courage of his convictions. While living in Nelson the use of ardent spirits was universal. The neglect to offer a caller a drink was esteemed the most insulting way of intimating that he need not call again; and its use in the hay field was regarded as a necessity. He decided to abandon the use of rum on his farm, and though warned by his neighbors that it would be an impossibility, he carried it through, and the good example was followed by others. When he settled there, sixty barrels of rum were used yearly in town, besides other liquors. At the end of the sixteen years one barrel was enough to last the people a year.

He married, about 1823, Betsey Woodberry of Beverly, Mass., b. in 1800, and who was a descendant of the sixth generation from John Woodberry, who came from Somersetshire, England, to Salem in 1626, and who was the first and only man who held in American the office of Lord High Constable. Ch:

(1) Josiah Woodberry, b. Jan. 3, 1826. He was educated at the Perkinsville and Chester Academies, by a private tutor at Windsor, and at the Harvard Law School at Cambridge, Mass. He continued his studies in the office of Gov. Metcalf of Newport, N.H., and in the office of Hon. O. P. Chandler at Woodstock, Vt., and opened an office for the practice of law at Springfield in 1849. After a few months he removed to Boston, and practiced there until his death, Sept. 16, 1892. He was a thorough, and well-read lawyer and had a very large practice, many important cases being entrusted to him.

COMPILERS NOTE: So much confusion exists over the descendants of George and Elizabeth Watts Hubbard and George and Mary Bishop Hubbard that I am completely lost. This is of course perfectly natural as both lived in the same area of Conn. at about the same time. Just about every second family history I get have the two families mixed up some place along the line. In Issue #2, Jan. 1972, page 49, I mentioned this and cautioned all who are tracing these two lines to be especially careful. I hope those of you who have positive documentation about these two lines will be kind enough to contribute it for publication so any other cousins can correct their family charts accordingly.

466. THE EARLY DAYS OF HUBBARD, OHIO, Population 5630 Zip Code, 44425

About 1798 this plot of a little less than 16,000 acres, now known as Hubbard Township, was nothing but dense forest and unexplored territory. Under a charter granted to the state of Connecticut in 1662 by King Charles of England the state secured ownership of all lands west of Narragansett Bay, bounded on the north by Massachusetts, on the south by a line running through Pennsylvania from what is now Stroudsburg and west through our neighboring city of New Castle. The western boundary was the Pacific Ocean.

It was a royal heritage and Connecticut began to move westward, making her first settlement near the Susquehanna River. After the Revolution the confusion due to disputed boundary lines by several of the surrounding states brought near chaos to the new Republic. In 1782 the so-called Western Territory was the controlling question in politics. Finally in 1786 all states involved ceded their claims except Connecticut. Her proposition was to reserve a portion of land west of the state of Pennsylvania and extending 120 miles to the west, one-third of which is the waters of what is now known as Lake Erie. This was accepted by the other states and the territory became known as the Western Reserve of Connecticut. In 1795 the state sold this land to the Connecticut Land Company. The entire Western Reserve was organized as Trumbull County, with Warren as the county seat, in 1800. As the population increased new counties were formed and the present boundaries established. Trumbull County now has 25 townships, each approximately 25 miles square. Hubbard Township consists of 15, 275 acres.

This section of land was sold by the Connecticut Land Company to Nehemiah Hubbard of Middleton, Connecticut. Mr. Samuel Tylee was sent here by Mr. Hubbard in 1798 to make the original survey, to select a location for future community development and to plot the uncharted wilderness. After many harrowing experiences with the hostile Indians, Mr. Tylee completed the survey. With his meager band of pioneers he returned by ox-cart to New England. Three years later he came back and became Hubbard Township's first settler. He built a log cabin near the site of the present Roosevelt building. The family lived in this cabin until 1818 when Mr. Tylee built a large frame house on West Road, now West Liberty Street, a few rods from the present square.

It is said that Mr. Hubbard gave a plot of ground at the center of the township for a burying ground. It is what is known at the present time as Old North Cemetery. Jehiel Roberts was the first person buried in this cemetery in the year 1809. He was a shoemaker and was delivering shoes he had made and in crossing Yellow Creek on the ice, near where the town of Struthers is now, the ice gave way and he was drowned.

There was a stagecoach route through Hubbard between Warren and Youngstown by way of Brookfield. It carried the mail and changed teams in Hubbard.

Up to 1861 Hubbard was merely a country crossroads with few houses or inhabitants. When the coal fields began to be developed the corners rapidly became a village and in the course of ten years nearly two thousand inhabitants were comprised within the limits of the village. The houses were nearly all put up in haste and many of them still stand unimproved in appearance. Next to the coal business the manufacture of iron has contributed most to the prosperity of Hubbard. Hubbard Furnance, Number 1, was erected in 1868, Number 2 in 1872. Both were owned by Andrews and Hitchcock.

Hubbard rolling mill was built in 1872 by the Hubbard Rolling Co.

467. Sent in by Mrs. C. F. Niebuhr, Regent. (DAR Chapter, Austin, Texas).

The following excerpt is from the Thankful Hubbard Chapter, NSDAR, history which was written by one of the chapter members, Mrs. John Henry Johnson.

"The Chapter was named for Thankful Hubbard who was the great-grandmother of Mrs. James B. Clark and the great-great-grandmother of Miss Edith Lanier Clark.

Thankful Hubbard was the granddaughter of Richard Seymour, Colonist, one of the founders of Norwalk, Conn. She was born July 23, 1719, the daughter of George Hubbard (1680-1751) and his wife Mercy Seymour, the granddaughter of Samuel Hubbard (1648-1732), and his wife Sarah Kirby, and the great-granddaughter of George Hubbard of England (1601-1685) and his wife Elizabeth Watts, of Hartford, Conn. On March 2nd, 1737, Thankful Hubbard was married to Joseph Smith, Jr. She was the mother of four sons, all of whom served in the Revolution."

This seems to be all the information pertinent to the person Thankful Hubbard. I hope it will be of interest to you. There will be a History of Texas DAR Chapters published soon and orders are being sent to Mrs. Quincy W. Bynum, 134 E. Mulberry Ave., San Antonio, Texas 78212. The price of the history is $12.50 per copy. If you are over in Austin, Texas, we would be happy to have you visit our Thankful Hubbard Chapter.

THE SPACE AGE PEOPLE

We hear a lot of talk about money being wasted on exploration of space. There are those who claim we should spend this money to improve the lot of man on his mother earth, towards the cure and prevention of disease and the establishment of some sort of Utopia on our world.

The human race has had thousands of years to do this and hasn't. I don't think he ever will until circumstances forces him to do so.

We are in the kindergarden stage of our learning process. We are just beginning to think in terms of Ecology, Re-cycling of materials and the conservation of our resources. And our money wasted on space exploration, if nothing else, has proved man can live in space.

Space has all the basics for humans to live there. It is perhaps the richest region in resources that man has available: water, minerals, all the basic gases and who knows what else. We will build space ships, miles long, high and wide, of materials mined in the astroid belts. We will supply them initially from mother earth and by recycling and conservation plus the basic materials we harvest from space, these ships will be self-sufficient, perhaps forever.

People will go into space in search of other real estate to exploit other than on mother earth. Millions of them will be born, live and die in space, having never set foot on a planet. Wouldn't you know there will be some Hubbards and descendants among them.

Mrs. Kenneth L. Hubbard, 700 Connally Terrace, Arlington, Texas 76010 obtained the following Master index to land transactions for Clay County, Kentucky 1814 to 1904. Can anyone explain why so many Hubbards settled in this county?

"A WILD FAMILY TRACE"

Let's hope this never happens to you, but in case it does, here is a system that might work. Again it might not.

As previously stated, this is a book of clues or leads if properly used.

The situation: you know date and place of birth of your father and mother and your grandfather and grandmother. This is as far back as you can go and you have exhausted all logical leads. Your father was Joe Surname b. 22 July 1910, X County, Ill, C. County, Ill. Your gf John, b 1 Oct 1880, Y County, Ill, your gm Sara Noname, b 2 Dec 1885, Y County, Ill. They m 10 June 1908.

Assuming the two ggm had a ch bearing span of about 20 years. Now deduct 20 years from your two gm. Date of birth + 20 more years give or take 10 years was b ca 1845 plus or minus. Now start researching 1835-1855 for the Noname families for a girl child b. during these years.

In the case of your ggf you assume he had all the family he wanted by age 50. Repeat this is an assumption. Men have been known to father a child at age 90. Now repeat the same research procedure as with Sara's Mother. Now you are dealing with a time span for your ggf Surname from about 1820-1830.

If lucky you won't find more than 20 Surname families in Illinois during this time. Make a 3 x 5 card on each as follows:

Able Surname
"A" County, Illinois
Age 25 - w 18
1 male 2

Charles Surname
"X" County, Illinois
Age 3 - w 27
2 male under 10

Fred Surname
"Z" County, Illinois
Age 40 - w 38
1 male 10

SOME THINGS ABOUT FAMILY TRACES

There are a great number of small family publications published each month of the year generally devoted to one family and descentants. They are almost totally dependent on Aunt Sue or Uncle Joe for family information or help in developing the trace.

I have often thought about the service a publication such as HFGNL devoted to gathering information about all Hubbards world wide, could be used for family trace publications as well as the individual family genealogy.

Let's take George and Mary (Bishop) Hubbard of Conn. So far we have published three major family traces from this couple. We have published thousands of bits and pieces about their descendants and we have two more book lengths yet to publish. Now suppose someone wanted to publish this line either in a family news letter or a book. If would take very little research to put 90% of this line into place from clues and leads in our Hubbard publication.

I firmly believe each family should have a central researcher who would collect general information about the Jones or Smiths family. Searchers could select such Jones or Smith information as pertains to their line, and devote this time to researching for the unknown links.

The National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution

National Headquarters
2412 Massachusetts Ave., N.W.
Washington, D. C. 20008

Since I started publishing HFGNL I have included a section directed to Hubbards (with spelling variations) in each issue who served in the American Revolution and still have a long list to publish. My research indicates that some 176 of our anc. served in this war. Of course some died leaving no desc. The desc. of the survivors must number in the tens of thousands who are eligible for membership in The National Society of the Sons (and Daughters) of the American Revolution. I am shocked to find so few Hubbards are members.

The SAR recently extended an invitation for inclusion in HFGNL for qualified male Hubbards and desc. to join their society and have offered to send membership literature to those who are interested.

I am one step from being eligible for membership in the SAR. I am now awaiting documentation to prove my anc. from a RW Soldier. I will treasure this as being something I can pass on to my dec. for thousands of years, providing of course the human race can survive that long.

For membership details write to the above address.

He owned land there in 1667 and prior to 1672 bought "Miosehasseky" of the Indians in common with twenty-six others. They were styled "the 27 proprietors of 1672", and called their tract "Horseneck" and later West Greenwich. This is where General Israel Putnam made his famous leap with his horse, though the name was imposed because of the shape of the tract, which jutted out like a neck far out into the Sound and was a famous horse pasture. Between 1664 and 1750 mention is made of the name "William Hubbard" ten times in the land records there, meaning the father sometimes and the son other times. Mrs. Robert Bowling, 340 Live Oak Lane, Knoxville, Tenn 37920 provided the following along with her sources of information. I think this is an excellent way of presenting research material.

COMPILERS NOTE: Don't let the spelling of the names confuse you. It happened all the time back in those days: I have encountered Clement Herbert's name spelled several ways including Hubbard.

Virginia Patent Records of Land Grants

660. Clemence Herbert named as 1 of 60 head-rights in a patent dated 19 March 1657 granted to Capt. Edward Streator P. B4 p. 145 (210) (See N.M. Nugent p. 358).

661. Around 1 month later on 21 April 1657 Clement Herbert received a patent for 300 acres of land on the Southside of Rappahanock River for transportation of 6 persons unnamed. P. B.4 p. 98 (145) (See Ibid p. 346).

662. On same date, 21 Apr. 1657 Clement Herbert received a patent for 150 acres on Southside of Rappahanock River. P. B.4, p. 103 (154) (See Ibid., p. 348). He paid transportations of 3 persons.

663. On the same date, 21 Apr. 1657 Clement Herbert received a patent for 150 acres on the North side of Rappahanock River in the freshes P. B4 p. 103 (155) (See Ibid p. 348). For transportation of 3 persons.

664. A few months later Clement Herbert transported 10 more persons and on Oct. 8, 1657 was given a patent for 500 acres in the Rappahanock County P. B4, pg.111 (166) (See Ibid p. 350).

665. It is seen that within the 6 months, April 21 to Oct 8, 1657, Clement Herbert paid transportation of 22 persons and acquired 1100 acres of land in Rappahanock Ca. Va. This proves he was a man of some wealth at that time.

666. It is seen that Clement Herbert did not settle on the 300 acres on the South side of Rappahanock River since on 28 March 1664 around 7 years later it was granted to Capt. Alexander Fleming. P. B5, p. 384(431) (See Ibid p. 519). Clement Herbert still owned 800 acres of land on Rappahanock River and in the freshes of that River in what is known today as Old Rappahanock Co, Va. Today and since 1692 North of the River is Richoud and South side is Essex counties.

667. John Barrow was next door neighbor to Clement Herbert is seen by patent information. He had a patent on Oct. 13, 1657 for 500 acres in the freshes of the Rappohanock River which was renewed 24 March 1660, P. B4, p. 287 (392) (See Ibid p. 393 and 4). Then there is proof that 600 acres of John Barrow's land in the freshes of Rappahanock River on the South West side of Powmansend Creek was next to the land of Clement Herbert. This information is dated 25 Sept. 1665, P. B5, p. 407 (468) (See Ibid 526).

668. The History of Old Rappahanock Co. Va, covers years 1652-1692, only 40 years. From Index to Marriages of Old Rappahanock and Essex Counties Va., 1655-1900 by Eva Eubank Wilkerson (1953) is found the following regarding the above families can be assumed.

669. Page 136 - 1669 - Hubbert, Katherine, widow of Richard, m. Thomas Williamson, Book D. 4 p. 190.

Greenfield Twp was cut off in 1833. The name Springwells came from large springs in the vicinity of Fort Wayne. Before the name was officially given this district called Spring Hill....first settlers were French...meager records...little learned of where they were. Several of the French Farms, Private Claims, were located in this twp notably the Livernois, Alexis Campau and Knsaggs (or Hubbard) farms. John Askin, James McGill (founder of McGill Univ. in Montreal) & Isaac Todd claimed large tracts of land under the Indian grants. On the morning of 16 Aug. 1812, the British Army under Gen. Brock crossed over from Sandwich, Ont., to Springwells and marched up the river to the Fort (Wayne) which was surrendered at noon by Gen. Hull. Ft. Wayne is near where the British landed. Six annexations (1849-1916) and the Springwells Twp. ceased to exist.

Feb. 28, 1880, Hubbard, b. 1807, Anna b. 1797, Sally, John, d. 1843. Page 159 of Issue #7 Hubbard Newsletter has a John Hubbard b. July 30, 1752, d. Mar. 4, 1834, m. 1774 Sarah Pattison of Guilford Co., N.C. Could Elizabeth be of this family?

The following information was sent to us by Allie Mae Seale, 242 Edge Avenue, Valparaiso, Fla, 32580.

782. My branch of the family has used the spelling Hubbert for at least seven generations, though I have found some of them using Hubbard in the 6th and 7th generations back.

783. I will give you my descent, the first two I am giving are proven connected by a Bible record, but the connection between Robert and George Maury is still not proven, except by assumption. The reason for the assumption is that Robert was in the Warren Co., Tenn. 1820 census with the right number of ch. the proper ages and sexes. Then in the 1830 Marion Co., Ala. Census, he was there with just the youngest boy still at home, but the other 4 ch. all lived very close by. So far I have been unable to PROVE that Robert is the father of these 5 ch., but I keep searching and hopefully, one of these days, I will find proof. I am convinced in my own mind, and so are a couple of other people I am exchanging information with, that I have the proper line.

784. (I)James Hubbert (spelled Hubbard in various records, but he signed his name on deeds, etc., as Hubbert), b. 18 July 1747, Va., d. 8 Feb. 1824, Warren Co., Tenn., m. 20 Dec. 1770 to Elizabeth Anderson who was b. 13 July 1750, Va., d. 8 Oct. 1821, Tenn. Ch: Robert, b. 15 Sept. 1771, Va; James, b. 12 Sept. 1774, N.C.; Elizabeth, b. 19 Jan. 1777, N.C.; Matthew or Mark (same person used both names variously), b. 1779; Margaret (called Peggy) b. 10 March 1782; Pheby, b. 7 Jan. 1785; Polly, b. 8 Apr. 1787; Benjamin, b. 1790, Tenn.

785. There is some confusion about the 9th ch. as to whether she is ch. of James and Elizabeth or ch. of Robert and Patty _____. I'm inclined to think she is ch. of James and Elizabeth, and will give my reasons in a moment. Last ch. Anne, b. 7 Aug. 1793.

786. I correspond with a desc. of Anne (called Nancy) who believes Anne is the dau. of Robert. However, the ch. who are listed with him (always providing I can prove he is the fa. of these ch.), were b. 1800, 1801, 1804, 1810, and 1811. It seems strange that there would be a 7 yr. gap between the 1st ch. and the 2nd one. Usually the longer gaps come later. However, it could be his 1st w. d. and he re-m., thus accounting for the gap. But the gap does not occur if Anne is ch. of James. Also, Nancy (Anne) m. William Kerr and one of their sons m. a dau. of Benjamin, above. In a note that Dorothy Thummel has, William Kerr writes to Benjamin "affectionately, your brother-in-law." Nevertheless, there is a question as to just where Anne belongs. This info came from the Bible record of Benjamin. It was published in Book 28 Compiled by Genealogical Records Committee of the Arkansas of the Daughters of the American Rev. 1945-1946. Mrs. Ella Matson, Chairman, Texarkana, Ark. Some of the ch. are listed as being ch. of ____ and _____ and some are just entered.

787. I have very little on Robert. There are some land records in Warren Co., Grundy Co., Tenn. He was in tax list Grundy Co., 1805 and Warren Co., 1812. He has been found in Warren Co., 1820 census, and in Marion Co., Ala, 1830 census. All the records in Marion Co., burned in 1883 and I have not been able to locate any land records for him in Ala. Nor have I been able to find any info on whether he d. or moved away from Ala., between 1830 and 1840. There is nothing on him after the 1830 census.

788. (II) Robert Hubbard (he used the Hubbard spelling in one census, Hubbert in another)., b. 15 Sept. 1711, Va., m. (this is not proven, but Dorothy Thummel says Martha, called Patty, who was b. 12 April 1773) but also says she cannot prove it and I have not yet rec'd the records she is sending me to uphold her contention. I will also put a Nancy in his ch. dod unk. ch: (none of these are proven to be Robert's ch., but several researchers agree that they must be). Nancy, b. 7 Aug. 1793, d. 1853, Mo., m. William Kerr; George Maury, b. 1800, Tenn; Margaret, b. Tenn, m. Sam Henry of E. Tenn., was in 1830 census, Fayette Co., Ala. (formed 1824 from Marion Co). d and is buried in Fayette Co., Ala. in the Whitley or Whitson Family Cem. Dated on headstone are b. 15 Dec. 1801, d. 30 March 1877 (also in 1866 Fayette Co. census - did not know to look for her when I checked other census); James, b. 1804, Tenn, d. Attalia Co., Miss; Matthew, b. 1810, Tenn, d. 1886 San Diego Co., Ca. (I have seen his grave,)m. Elizabeth Stallworth Thornton, dau. of David Thornton and Bathsheba White; Benjamin Anderson, b. 1811 Tenn, d. Attalia Co., Miss, m. Bathsheba Thornton, sister of Elizabeth.

789. George was in 1830 Marion Co., Ala, census, bought first land in Fayette Co., Ala in 1832 and bought much land there at various times. Matthew was in 1840 Fayette Co., Census, James was in 1830 and 1840 Fayette Co., census, Benjamin was in 1840 and 1850 Fayette Co., census. James and Matthew both moved to Attala Co., Miss during the 1840's and Benjamin Anderson followed them during the 1850's. James and Benjamin remained in Attala Co., Miss. until they d. Matthew moved on some time between 1862

when he had a ch. b. in Miss., and 1865 when he had a ch. b. in Texas. He stayed in Texas for not more than 10 or 11 years. The first record I found of him in Ca., was 1877 when he sold land. I have so far found no record of him buying that land, so he was in San Diego Co., at least as early as 1877. Some of his ch. went with him. Several of his family are buried in an old cemetery across the Highway from Mission San Luis Rey. I was there in June and took pictures.

791: Information on George, Elizabeth and their ch. came from various members of the family. Also from 1840, 1860, 1870, and 1880 Fayette Co. Census, 1830 Marion Co., Ala. Census. My grandfather's youngest brother Robert Dewey helped put the headstone of the graves of George and Elizabeth. They are both buried in the Stewart Family Cem., Fayette Co., Ala. Many of their desc. still live there, including my mor. Uncle Dewey is the only ch. of Pierce still living, but Washington still has 2 sons living in Fayette Co. - George Maury and Jefferson.

796. I am particularly interested in Robert and his connection to George, and in James Hubbert and Elizabeth Anderson and where they came from to Tenn. I have collected quite a bit about the notorious Col. James Hubbert-Hubbard, and it is fairly easy to get information on him in eastern Tenn. and what was N.C. until Tenn. became a state. But all I have prior to his settling in what became Tenn. is rumor. And that rumor is found in several books - the rumor that his parents and all his family were massacred in an Indian attack in Va. So far I have been able to find no record of such a Hubbert-Hubbard family being killed in such a manner. I keep hoping someone else will have better luck than I.

797. I am also working on my other lines. Are you working on any other lines? Most of my ancestors came to Va., then N.C., S.C., Tenn., Ala., Ga., Miss., and La. Other lines are Powers, Booker, Felps, Dixon, Hawes, Reeves, Kimbrell, Poe, McMillan, Taylor, Stewart, McConnell and Jackson. So far these are all I have explored. I have a bit of information on two Hubbert brothers in Pa. after the R.W.

798. Anthony Hubbert, b (?), d. 1837 in Philiadelphia Co., Penn. Buried: Baptist Church Cem., but I don't know which one. He m. 4 Nov. 1776, Mary Febolt, b. 1756, d. after 4 Sept. 1840 when R.W. Widow's Pension was granted #W 3142. Marriage performed by Rev. Andrew Gowanson at Meder Church, registered at Micacae (could be misspelled) Church District of Southwark, Philadelphia, Co., Pa. Anthony enlisted in the Army as a Pvt. was a "house carpenter".

799. Christian Hubbert, b. 1758, d. after 1837 when he was granted a soldier's pension. He was m. and had at least one dau. I have a copy of his pension application. He was brother of Anthony, and helped Mary, widow of Anthony, get her widow's pension. He was also a house carpenter.

800. One other thing, I have quite a bit on Va. and N.C. Hubbards, and in your letter you mentioned Joseph who m. Ann Crews, a half-breed Cherokee. You said he came over with William Penn in 1681. That Joseph, according to the Quaker genealogy records, was not b. until 1819. I have several references for that. (1) Historical Southern Families by Boddie Vol. 13 pages 3 through 10. (2) Encyclopedia of American Quaker Genealogy by Hinshaw and Marshall, many different pages. (3) Hinshaw's Quakers of North Carolina. (4) Land records in Va. and N.C. (5) Various wills, etc., I have his line as: Robert Hubbard, (granted land in James City Co., Va., in 1651). John Hubbard, d. 1663, m. Katherine Bennett (Wm. and Mary Qtly Vol. 4, p. 135); John Hubbard Jr., b. circa 1659, m. 1st Mary Harrison, 2nd Sarah Stone, mother of all his ch, he d. 1745. (Info from Will Book I p. 34, Amelia Co., Va.); George Hubbard, b. 1723, m. circa 1743-44, Judith Crew in Caroline Co., Va.; George Hubbard Jr., m. 1st Priscilla Ladd (mother of his first 8 ch), 2nd Elizabeth Ladd (mother of 5 ch. Joseph is the middle ch), m. 7 May 1811.; Joseph Hubbard, b. 1819, m. Ann Crews.

Note: I have discovered just this minute a discrepancy in these birth dates. Joseph's son Jeremiah was b. 1777, so that is impossible. Joseph had to have been b. earlier than 1819. Either that or the Jeremiah I have listed as his son is son of an earlier Joseph. I will need to recheck this. My notes were scrambled, some of the references I copied myself, some were xeroxed and sent to me by other people and I compiled and arranged them. In all my arrangingI did not notice the discrepancy in birth dates until I typed this for you. Maybe you could check some of these dates.

801. These are the specific references I have on George Hubbard, Jr. and George Hubbard. George Hubbard (son of John Hubbard and Sarah Stone) m. 19 Jan. 1740, Cedar Creek Meeting House Monthly Meeting, Caroline Co., Va. Martha Sanders, b. 17 Jan. 1759, d. 1801., m. 2nd Sarah Patterson; Sarah; Stephen; Frederick. Encyclopedia of Amer. Quaker Genealogy by W. W. Hinshaw and T. W. Marshall, p. 182.

802. Jenrice MM, 1743-44, 7 Jan George Hubbard, son of John Hubbard of Caroline MM in Friend's Meeting House, Charles City Co., Va., m. Judith Crew, dau. of John Crew of Charles City Co., Va.

803. 19 Jan 1739-40, George H. signed first meeting certificate (this is when Quakers first settled in Caroline Co.

804. 10 July 1748, George H. and family signed minute book as token they were Friends and members of this monthly meeting. p. 249. 10 Oct. 1745-6 George H. mentioned of Caroline Dec. 8 asked aid of this monthly meeting (Cedar Creek) concerning suing for land he had a right to by his father and the heir at Law refused to acknowledge matter deferred till George saw his brother. 7 Aug. 1762, Judith Crew, sister of Agatha Crew Johnson, cleared self of charges of aiding said Agatha in her disorderly conduct. There are also references in Hinsaw's Quakers of N.C. I believe the line of Joseph is mentioned in 1000 Years of Hubbard History, which I have not had a chance to see. Any how, I can see that something is wrong.

PIECE OF HISTORY—The Col. William Hubbard House at Ashtabula has been designated by the U.S. Department of Interior as one of the historical places in Northern Ohio. The brick mansion, built in 1834 on Walnut Boulevard at Lake Avenue, was noted as the "last stop to freedom" on the underground railroad during the 1860's.

Hubbard House Wins Honors

ASHTABULA - A big old brick house in Ashtabula has received national recognition for its historical significance.

The Col. Wm. Hubbard House on the northwest corner of Walnut Blvd. and Lake Ave., Ashtabula Harbor, has been designated as a historical place by the U.S. Dept of the Interior.

Built by Col. William Hubbard in 1834 to accommodate his wife and five children, the house was a center of secretive activity among the abolitionists and was the last stop on the "underground railway". In this home, fleeing slaves were hid, then hurried to ships bound for Canada or Buffalo.

Col. Hubbard, dedicated to freeing the slaves, was violently opposed to human beings being treated as chattels. His family including his younger brother, Henry Hubbard. and brother-in-law Joseph Hurlburt, believed the same and cooperated to the fullest.

Used Ships - That cooperation meant practical assistance to the slaves' escape. Henry Hubbard's shipping business and warehouse at the Harbor and the Hurlbert's sailing vessels were the means of many fugitives' new lease on life.

Runaways hid behind piles of cargo and dozens of slaves were concealed in obscure areas of ships bound for Canada.

Col. Hubbard's barn, built south of his house, was a hiding place for fugitives who had escaped from their masters in Virginia, or other slave states and alternately hid, ran or were taken by friendly farmers from one "station" to another through Ashtabula County to the"last stop to freedom" - the Col. Hubbard House.

Family Came - The house stood on farmland with forest lines to Lake Erie's edge. This location was suitable for farming and Col. Hubbard was near the shipping business of his brother and brother-in-law.

In fact, this Hubbard family was influenced in coming to Ashtabula by the relatives already here. Brothers Matthew and Henry had migrated from Connecticut prior to 1825 as land agents for Nehemiah Hubbard Jr., who owned vast areas of "New Connecticut."

Grandson's Story - The Col. Hubbard family, consisting of his aged parents, his wife, Catherine and five children, traveled from Holland Patent, New York State, via the Erie Canal on a boat, the "Montezuma", to Buffalo. They journeyed to the Ashtabula Harbor on a coast-wise steamship.

These experiences were related by a grandson, Dr. Thomas Hubbard, when he dedicated a metal plaque placed on his ancestor's house on Aug. 5, 1936.

The commemorative plaque reads: "This homestead was built in 1834 by Col. William Hubbard, 1787-1863, officer in the N.Y. Infantry, War of 1812. Pioneer member of the anti-slavery society. Here were harboured many fugitive slaves."

Facts regarding the family are substantiated through family records, letters, old newspapers, court records, history books of the abolitionists' movements and a book, "The Mysteries of Ohio's Underground Railroads," by Wilbur Henry Siebert.

An interest in the family's participation in local history prompted Thomas Hubbard of Ashtabula, great-great-grandson of the Colonel, to preserve letters and articles from the era. Hubbard, an avid local history buff, shared the enthusiasm with William Pierce, assistant cashier at Farmers National Bank and Trust Co., Ashtabula.

With other members of Ashtabula County Historical Society regarding the Col. Hubbard House's inclusion in the National Register of Historical Places.

After fulfilling the required authenticated records, the committee received approval from the state and recommendations toward national approval.

No Firm Plans - The Department of Interior's designation of the Ashtabula Harbor's landmark as an historic place in North Ohio brings with it matching federal funds for the restoration and maintenance of the property. Pierce said the committee's plans for the restoration of the house were tentative at this time.

At present, the house is a part of an 18-acre Walnut Beach area, owned by the city of Ashtabula.

Offices of the Department of Recreation occupy the second floor of the house and different clubs use the first floor. Donald said the house is in active use now with the Senior Citizens, Aquarian, TOPS and amateur Radio Club meeting there.

"An average of 400 persons use this building every week." Bento said, adding the city maintains the property for the convenience of its citizens.

Respected for its historical significance, the ten-room brick mansion on Lake Erie is a reminder of the abolitionists and their staunch support of the equality of mankind.

CHANGE SHEET - ISSUE 8

Mrs. Robert M. Hubbard, 311 Montebello Circle, Charlottesville, Va. 22903, provided the following info (see par. 404, Issue #7).

I note that in the last issue of the Hubbard Family Genealogical Newsletter, you have started to copy material from the book by Irvin W. Hubbard. This is an excellent book and was very helpful to me in my searches for my own ancestors. You may recall that you printed my discussion of errors in the HFGNL, in Issue #3, pages 62-64. I am writing to point out where in Irvin Hubbard's book these errors exist. On Page 15, No. 65 Samuel Hubbard, b. Concord, 27 Apr. 1687, and my No. 4, P. 62 of the HFGNL, DID NOT have son 143 Joseph Hubbard, b. 1715. However, No. 66, Joseph Hubbard, b. Concord, 8 Feb. 1688 (my No. 6) m. Rebecca Bulkley and had son 147 Joseph Hubbard, b. 11 Jan. 1714/15. Therefore, Irvin Hubbard, on page 24, should have given Joseph Hubbard No. 147 and called him the son of Joseph Hubbard and Rebecca Bulkley of Concord, Mass. He did not marry Abigail Brown as Irvin Hubbard reported for No. 147. He did marry 3 May 1744 to Phebe Brigham and lived in Holden, Mass. Now the list of ch. reported as those of Joseph and Phebe Buckley by Irvin Hubbard (No. 143) are actually the ch. of Joseph and Phebe Brigham Hubbard. All you have to do to correct the records is to eliminate No. 143 on Page 14 and Change No. 143 to 147 on Page 24. However, you must change the w. of this Joseph No. 147 to Phebe Brigham and add that this Phebe Brigham was b. 5 Oct. 1721, m. Joseph Hubbard, 3 May 1744 and d. 15 Aug. 1804. Most of the details above have already been published in the HFGNL.

How to Trace Your Family Tree—Without Charge

The Mormon Church boasts the world's most extensive collection of records for tracing family trees . . . and it's available to anyone. .

"Church members and nonmembers alike can use our facilities free of charge at any of our 140 branch libraries in the U.S., Canada, Mexico, New Zealand and Australia," said Jimmy Parker, administrative assistant of the Mormon Church's Genealogic Society.

"We have the largest genealogical library in the world in Salt Lake City, Utah. Our records include those from England, France, Italy, Germany, Scandinavian countries, and some Iron Curtain countries like Poland. We also have records from Latin America and the South Pacific."

Parker said the Society has on file birth, death and marriage certificates; military records; census information, and church records of all denominations. "We have 70 to 80 percent of all county records from all states east of the Mississippi River. All this information obtained from the U.S. and abroad is available through our branch libraries."

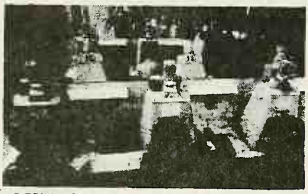
He said about 1,000 persons a day visit the main library which contains 785,000 rolls of microfilm — equivalent to 3.5 million books of 300 pages each — plus 130,000 printed volumes of records.

Said Thomas Daniels, the Society's administrative office manager: "We have a huge microfilm processing plant and six underground concrete vaults that can store up to 6 million rolls of microfilm. So the chances of finding records of your ancestors in our files are very good."

Parker offered these tips to ENQUIRER readers who are planning to trace their family tree:

"First, check with all the relatives you can possibly contact. Get as much information as possible on family members as far back as can be remembered. The more information you can obtain this way, the less difficult it will be to do the research.

"The most important thing is to get correct names of relatives and where they lived. Information such as the date and place of birth, baptism, confirmation, marriage and death is vital in helping you know where to look."



RESEARCHERS make use of microfilm viewers to trace their ancestors, in Mormon Church library, Salt Lake City, Utah.

For extremely detailed or far-reaching family trees, the Society will provide anyone with a list of 150 qualified, professional researchers located throughout the world.

Further information about tracing ancestors can be obtained through the Genealogic Society, 50 E. North Temple, Salt Lake City, Utah 84150. Or check the telephone directory white pages under "Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Genealogic Society."

THE ENERGY CRISIS: The Universe is composed of two basic things called Matter and Energy. Now if we estimate the amount of energy necessary to rotate the earth at a speed of 1000 mph, or 24,000 miles daily or its speed around the sun at about 18.5 miles per second 365 days yearly or the amount of energy put out by the sun then multiply all this by billions of other planets and suns and you have a "right smart" of energy. Poor, dumb, stupid little man still thinks in terms of fossil fuels as a source of energy. To think God gave him 52 ounces of brains.

Information received from Mr. Robert Hubbard, Grover Hill, Ohio.

828. "Some little time ago you wrote a letter to the Postmaster at Grover Hill, inquiring about a Robert Hubbard who lived in Grover Hill about 1900. He sent the letter to me and I have neglected answering your inqury.

My father and mother moved in with him after their marriage in 1901 and took care of him during the last 20 years of his life. I was named after him, and although we both were known as Robert, his name was Robinson Beardslee Hubbard. He did not live in Grover Hill, but on a 40 acre farm a mile south and two miles east of Grover Hill. I am not a direct desc. of his. He was a brother to my ggf. You mention in your letter that he was related to a Fry family. I do not think this is true. In the 20 years my family lived with him I never heard them mentioned.

Robinson B. Hubbard was b. in Sussex Co., N.J., Aug. 24, 1834. His parents names I do not know. He was one of nine ch, 6 girls and 3 boys. I do not know the names of the girls. The boys were Robinson B. Horace and Charles, who was my ggf. All 3 served in the Union army in the C.W.

The family moved from N.J. to Hardin Co., Ohio sometime prior to the C.W., and as far as I know Robinson lived there when he volunteered for service. He served 3 years and was wounded in the second battle of Bull Run.

He married and had 2 ch., Elmer and Ida May. Later he was divorced, claiming that his w. was unfaithful. Afterwards he m. Eliza Fergus, who d. in 1896.

In 1884 he moved to Paulding Co. and purchased 40 acres in Washington Township where he lived at the time of his death in 1921.

Uncle Robert's wife's name was Eliza but as your mother-in-law remember she was known as Aunt Lida.

You asked if the name Ross meant anything to me. One of Uncle Robert's sisters, I do not know her name, married a John Ross. They lived at a little town of Rockport about six miles southeast of Columbus Grove, Ohio. When I was young my family kept in touch with the Ross family but we haven't visited since my father died in 1932. I think he had another sister who lived in Rockport. I believe she married a Lambert Rockhill.

I do not know anything to speak of about Horace Hubbard. At one time he lived on a farm near here. His w. was named Ann and buried on Uncle's lot. Horace went to the Soldier's Home at Marion, Indiana and died there. I suppose he was buried there. I do not think they had any children.

I do not know a great deal about my ggf, Charles. I do not know when he was b. or who or when he was married. I think I told you he was killed in battle, but what battle or when I don't know. He had 3 children, two boys, Eldores (my ggf) and Frank, and one girl Dora. Frank lived at South Bend, Ind. and Dora married a man named Mayo, they lived at Muncie, Ind.

Grandfather ElDores, m. Margaret Elizabeth Shaner. He lived in Van Wert, Decatur, Ind., on a farm near Wetsel and on a farm northwest of Grover Hill at various times. In 1905 he sold the farm near Grover Hill and moved the family to the pan handle of Oklahoma. He sold this and moved to Colorado. He had 4 boys and 5 girls who matured.

854. When I was a young boy in Hale, Mo. (I am now 57 years old, 1973) I used to hear them talk of ol' miz Jones, Hubbard, Calvert and Broyles, and think they were dead even then, but so much were they interwoven into the fabric of the community by their intermarried desc. that their "ghosts" were frequently invoked. by that I mean in the telling of how people were related and/or connected. Another family related to them was the Roosevelt family of Charles Roosevelt. He lived there in Hale, Carroll Co., for a time in the depression and then drifted on. Some of the Calvert people and their relatives lived around Bosworth, Mo., also in Carroll Co. Probably the early histories of Carroll Co. would have considerable information on the Hubbard family. My only interest in this line was on behalf of my cousin, Raymond Riley. I also have a very good friend, Kenneth Jones, Long Beach, Ca., who descends from these families.

The Hubbard History, by Harlan Page Hubbard, gave no further record of Jere's father, Sylvester, than to state that he "removed to Boston in 1819". However, a family bible, (now in the hands of the compiler, Irvin W. Hubbard) gives the death date of Sylvester Hubbard as March 14, 1856, and further, that his death occurred on the day he was seventy years, five months and twenty days old. Whether Jere had brothers and sisters is not known. We have only heresay information handed down by word of mouth and compiled by the author of this genealogy. That, Jere was over six feet tall; was red-headed; that he drove a stage between Boston, Mass. and Claremont, N.H. One history of Concord N.H. states, among various owners of stage lines at that period, a George Clough and Peter Dudley and it is possible that Peter Dudley was in some degree related to Mahala Dudley, Jere's wife. Charles Verne Hubbard, who at this writing (1961) lives at Boynton Beach, Florida, remembers that his own father, Charles Hubbard, took him one day past an old building in Boston * and told him that his great, great, grandfather, Sylvester Hubbard, had once owned a livery stable there; that his ggf Jere had worked for his father as a stage driver. My mother, Susie Shipton Hubbard once pointed out to me, the old Claremont Hotel at Claremont, N.H. saying, "Your ggf Jere Hubbard used to discharge passengers in front of that hotel years ago." That was when I was a little boy and we were living in Claremont. My father, Frank I. Hubbard used to say that, Jere's wife, Mahala was a shrew and that she drove Jere to suicide; he was reported to have taken an overdose of laudanum. Well, be that as it may, Jere and Mahala must have had a few amorous moments as they had ch: (1611)* George Henry, b. Aug. 1, 1836, d. Oct. 12,1903, m. Marie Elizabeth LeMoureux. 1673 Francis Irving Hubbard, son of George Henry and Marie Le Moureux Hubbard, was b. Aug. 1, 1862 at Boston, Mass. As a young man he worked on his father's farm at Washington township and Becket township, in the western part of Mass. The farms were about 10 or 12 miles from Pittsfield, Mass where he attended the Congregational Church and sang in the choir. His singing attracted the attention of a young lady named Susie Shipton who became his w. Through the political influence of his wife's father, George Shipton, Francis obtained a government position as teacher at the Puyallup Indian Reservation, Puyallup, Washington. He went west in 1890 taking his w. and two ch, Minnie and George. The west was too rough for his w. Susie and in the summer of 1893 she packed up and with her 2 ch. and a baby one year old (Irvin) she returned to Pittsfield to await the return of her husband. Upon his return in 1894 the family moved to Springfield, Mass. where his father, George Henry Hubbard, was operating a laundry. Francis worked for a time in the laundry. Meantime, at Springfield, two more children were born to the couple. Gladys, May 25, 1895 and Claude, Sept. 21, 1897. Of course in those days a roast of prime beef cost about 20¢ a pound and six large loaves of bread cost a quarter. It was around 1901 that Francis received a letter from his aunt Martha Hubbard who lived at Newport, N.H. Martha had a big house and lived alone. She was getting along in years, she said, and if Frank would come and live with her the house and whatever money and worldly possessions she had would go to him when she died. Francis had been traveling for the Lyman Seed Company selling seeds to farmers, with a sideline of buggy whips to augment his income, but after he moved to Claremont he was offered a job traveling for the Cataract Refining & Mfg. Co., of Buffalo, N.Y. This company wanted him to open up an office in Milwaukee, Wisc. so soon after settling in Claremont the family packed up and went to Milwuakee. In Sept. of 1906 this same company transferred Frank to San Francisco, Ca., family and dog included. Francis Hubbard was steadily employed by this same company for the rest of his life. 1694 George Shipton Hubbard, son of Francis Irving and Susie Shipton Hubbard, was b. Jan. 11, 1890 at Springfield, Mass. He m. Rosalie Martin of Alameda, Ca. in Dec. 1913. George spent most of his life working in the field of radio, beginning as a youth of 18 to make his own wireless transmitting and receiving station at the home of his parents in Alameda. He was employed by the United Wireless Company of America at San Francisco in 1909 as a wireless operator aboard the passenger steamer, "Asia" operated by the Pacific Mail Steamship Co. running between S.F. Ca., and Shanghai,China. He was the first wireless operator to send out the S.O.S. signals from a sinking vessel on the Pacific Ocean, where the S.S. Asia struck the "Finger Rock" off the coast of China and sank within a few hours. Through the efforts of Hubbard 528 passengers and crew were saved. George was employed for many years by the US Government in charge of the radio laboratory, first at Bremerton, Wn., then at Honolulu T.H. He is now retired and enjoying a generous government pension for his many years of service. He and his wife Rosalie had two ch: (1707) Irving Martin, b. May 24, 1916, d. Jan, 1, 1930. (1708)* George Shipton, Jr., b. Sept. 1, 1914, m. Roberta V. Barrett.

1695 Irvin Wallace Hubbard, son of Francis Irving and Susie Shipton Hubbard, was b. June 16, 1892 at Puyallup, Wn. on the Puyallup Indian Reservation, near Tacoma, Wn., where his father taught the Indian school. He went with his parents to Pittsfield, Mass, in 1893, where they lived with Mrs. Hubbard's father at 50 Burbank St., until 1895, when the family moved to Springfield, Mass., back to Pittsfield in 1899 where they lived at 31 Crosier Avenue. In 1902 the family moved to Newport N.H. for 6 months., then to Claremont, N.H. In the summer of 1903 the family moved to Milwaukee, Wisc. and lived on Delaware Ave. In Sept. of 1906 they moved to Alameda, Ca. Irvin attended the Wilson Grammar School at Alameda from 1906 through 1908 and Wilmerding High in S.F. through 1909. His parents owned a small acreage at Middletown, Lake County, Ca., and Irvin, together with his brother Claude went there to try to develop this property. They fenced the tract, dug a well, built a shack for living quarters and a barn. The two brothers, then 17 and 13, found time apart from their work to hunt, fish and hike over the great unsettled area of Lake County and spent two of the happiest years of their lives. In 1912 Irvin returned to Alameda and went to work for the Island Creamery owned by Frank Daniels. On Dec. 12, 1912 he m. Marguerite Griffin, dau. of Morris and Annie Hanley Griffin, of San Francisco, California. In 1914 his elder brother, George induced him to study wireless telegraphy and late that year he took an examination and received a license, from the U.S. Dept. of Commerce, to operate any ship's wireless apparatus. From 1914 through 1920 he sailed as wireless operator aboard many of the lumber schooners and passenger vessels plying the Pacific waters, from Seattle, Wn. to Valpariso, Chili and the Hawaiian Islands. In 1920 through 1922 he was employed by the U.S. Lighthouse Dept. as wireless operator aboard the Lighthouse Tender KUKUI, except for a few months during 1922 when he operated the wireless station at Hilo, T.H. for the Mutual Telephone Co. Returning to the mainland in Feb. of 1923 he went to work at the C.L. Best Tractor Co. at San Leandro, Ca. until this company merged with the Holt Mfg. Co. in 1926 and became the Caterpillar Tractor Co. From 1926 through 1931 Irvin worked at so many different jobs that it is difficult to recall them all, but it ran from second chef at thd Claremont Hotel,Berkeley, Ca., to interviewer for the Star Outfitting Co., Oakland, Ca. Other jobs of short duration were, real estate salesman, skip chaser for a finance company, caravaning used cars from Oklahoma to California and hunting buried treasure in Oklahoma. In August of 1932 he went to Honolulu again and passed an examination for a first class radio broadcasting license; (license No. 699) and went to work for the Honolulu Broadcasting Company as an engineer, at station KGMB, under H.C. Armagost, chief engineer. The service record on the back of this license states he worked at KGMB from Aug. 5, 1932 to Jan. 4, 1934. Service records on various radio telephone operator's licenses issued to Irvin show service with Broadcasting Station KCRJ, Jerome Arizona from May 13, 1935 through Sept. 21, 1939. In 1939 Arizona State records show an application for the incorporating of a radio station under the name of Arizona Broadcasting Company by the following officers: Mrs. Wm. Stuart, Pres., Phil Tovera, V.P. and Irvin W. Hubbard, Sec. Treas. In 1940 Hubbard sold his interest in this corporation to the other two officers and returned to Ca. Aug. 16, 1941 Irvin went to work for the U.S. Quartermaster Dept., at Ft. Mason, Ca., as a junior checker, at $1620.00 per annum and was advanced soon to $1800.00 per annum. On Jan. 14, 1943, by special orders from H. A. Dresback, Lt. Col. U.S. QM Dept. Hubbard was transferred to the Dept. of International Revenue at San Francisco, Ca., at $2000.00 per annum. On Aug. 8, 1952 he resigned from this service and received a pension based on the annual salary of $4870.00. He is now (May 8, 1961) enjoying his declining years in travel and indulging in his favorite hobby "Searching for Ancestors." There are three ch. by Irvin's first marriage: (1709)* Marguerite Doris, b. Dec. 19, 1913, m. Edwin Carlson. (1710)* Jeanne Pauline, b. Dec. 5, 1915, m. Craig Exley. (1711)* Francis Irving, b. INDEX

The Hubbard Family Genealogical News Letter

1971, 1972, 1973, (9 Issues)

This index covers 9 past issues. For those of you who subscribed in 1973, the paragraphs prior to 336 are contained in the first 5 issues. The 1973 issue starts with paragraph 337. We have a very limited number of issues 1 through 5. If the index contains ancestors you are interested in you may order back copies at $10.00 per set, while they last.

In so far as I know, this is the first index of its type ever used in a Genealogical publication. You may or may not like it. However you have several choices: (1) don't use it; (2) use any part that suits your needs most; (3) use the whole procedure as far as it goes. For those of you who are technically minded the arrangement is alphabetical, numerical and geographical. The alphabetical part is used the same as any other index. The numerical part shows the subject's year of birth, if known, and the geographical reflects the nation or state of birth.

A locator number follows that shows the paragraph number that contains the desired information (p. 227 or H-14; p.51, meaning a Quiry No. 14 is found on page 51. Revoluntionary War and Civil War is abbreviated RW or CW.

All this would be a wonderful system if we had all the information and it was accurate, you could quickly select all the Hubbards born in Vermont prior to 1850 or in 1883.

Unfortunately many of our sources do not show dates or places of birth; for example land grants, marriage lists, tax lists, census records, and many other. Thus you simply have to estimate ages. Even family histories fail to provide date and place of birth in many cases.

Another thing to watch for when using the geographical section is the date(s) involved. Our early states had a habit of traveling around. At one time you could have been born in San Francisco, Topeka, Denver, or Detroit all in the state of Connecticut. Remember Connecticut claimed all the land from the Atlantic to the Pacific, though none had the slighest idea what that might be. Think of the thousands upon thousands of Indians who did not bother to pay their Connecticut taxes!

Virginia is another good example of a state with a bad case of the "Wiggle Waggles" (a Hubbard contribution to the Genealogical language); Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio and Pennsylvania and other vaguely defined boundaries were either counties or simply a part of the state.

This index is an interesting study in itself. Note the biblical names and note how the Johns and Marys travel down a family line. Many times you will find three Johns or three Marys all with the same paragraph number, grandparent, parents, and child. By the way, it is just possible you may find a mistake here and there. If you do, please let us know. Our objective after all is to try to make this family history as accurate and complete as possible.

Don't forget to insert your own index page(s) showing location of any recognized ancestors plus your own family sheet or records so your posterity may at a glance find the information they require.

You may find duplicates, i.e., George Hubbard b 21 May 1766 N.Y.; a George Hubbard may appear again 10 Dec 1784, m to Sue Smith at Boston, Mass; again a George Hubbard is shown on the 1810 Census for Conn; and a George Hubbard, d 4 July 1850 Long Island, N.Y. Thus we have only one date and place of birth for a George Hubbard, yet he may appear in many records throughout this publication. Is he one and the same? Only by diligent research can this be determined but at least the clues are there and that's the fun of Genealogical Research. On the other hand you may find a complete family trace of your George Hubbard.

In some cases it may be necessary to research all George Hubbards (there's a lot) eliminating as many as you can, then concentrate on those left who could be your ancestors.

In some cases, to back track a George Hubbard i.e., the 1810 Census for Conn., may show he was b. N.Y., age 34 years. You then search for a George b. 1766, N.Y., and etc.
